Series Lures Tom To Town

Russell Springs, Ky. (AP)—Tom Stacy chugged into town Wednesday in his 35-year-old car for his vacation, a routine that's known by heart in Russell Springs.

It's World Series time. That's about the only thing that lures the 77-year-old Stacy from his three-room log cabin near Jabez overlooking Lake Cumberland.

Stacy lives a simple life by choice. For 30 years, he has come to town every fall to listen to the Series by radio or watch it on television.

Met Once With Fire Truck

"The city met him with the fire truck one year and made quite a thing of it," recalled businessman Charles Aaron, a frequent host.

The 1,200 townspeople can almost tell time by Stacy's habits.

First, there's a trip to the barber shop for a haircut and to get shaved off the full beard he's grown since the last Series. Then he checks in at a rooming house, looks for a friend with a spare chair around the TV set, and stays in town until the Series is over.

"Tom knows every baseball player in both leagues and their batting average," a friend said.

"One year when Milwaukee was in the Series, he watched Hank Aaron talk to a coach before coming to bat and said, 'I'll bet 20 to 1 he hits a home run.'

"Wonder what the coach is saying?" someone remarked. " 'He's telling Aaron where to hit it,' Tom replied."

Wouldn't Pick Up Winnings

When Aaron crashed a homer, Stacy wouldn't pick up his winnings.

"I hate to take that. He hit the ball 50 feet from where the coach told him," he said.

Stacy is picking the Los Angeles Dodgers in this year's Series, mainly due to its pitching.

Stacy's cabin was built in 1792 and he and his father were born there. He's lived alone since his mother died 41 years ago.

He Liked Meg, Marilyn

Stacy lives on income from a World War I pension and part of his 100 acres which he rents. He knows the Bible well and spends his time listening to his battery-powered radio and reading numerous newspapers and magazines.

Stacy never married. He once confided to a friend that the only women who attracted him were the late Marilyn Monroe and Princess Margaret.

Business As Usual For LBJ

Washington (AP) — President Johnson, two days from what one of his doctor's called preventive maintenance on the operating table, kept a business - as - usual schedule Wednesday—and threw in some public encores.

He signed a $340 million health bill without a word about his own ailment, a faulty gall bladder which surgeons will remove Friday morning at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

"I heard one of the doctors use the term something like 'preventive maintenance,' " White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers said of the coming operation.

Walks, Greets, Films

On his next-to-last day at the White House before surgery, Johnson signed the bill, passed out souvenir pens, took a fast-paced constitutional, greeted tourists, filmed a speech, talked with NATO Secretary General Manlio Brosio and made an unscheduled side trip to the National Press Club.

Johnson will be at it until the last minute. With Mrs. Johnson, he plans to attend Thursday night's salute, at the White House and the State Department, for members of the 89th Congress.

Moyers quoted physicians who examined the President and studied the X-rays as saying there is no possibility of malignancy in the President's ailment.

Humphrey

Johnson said Tuesday if any presidential actions or decisions are required while he is incapacitated, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will act in his stead.

On Capitol Hill, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he does not anticipate that Humphrey will have to act for Johnson.

In New York, the stock market slumped on news of Johnson's coming surgery, then recovered most of its losses.

Meets Cartoonists

After a brisk walk and some play with his two dogs, beagle Him and collie Blanco, Johnson was off to the National Press Club for an unscheduled, informal talk to cartoonists and newsmen there. A half-dozen of the artists joined to turn out a big cartoon of the chief executive.

"I don't know where everybody starts," said Bill Mauldin of the Chicago Sun-Times, the leadoff man, "but I start with the nose." He drew a bulbous one.

"Like the man said about the artist," Johnson said, "he couldn't find the artist so he hung the picture."

Luna 7 To Reach Moon Thursday

Moscow (UPI) — Russia's mysterious Luna 7 has successfully executed a crucial change of course in space and will reach the moon Thursday night, it was announced Wednesday.

But the terse announcement by the Soviet news agency Tass gave no clue as to the purpose of the space station.

There is speculation the Soviets will use Luna 7 to attempt history's first "soft landing" on the moon or else will direct it to an orbit of the moon and an eventual return to earth.

Either feat would be a space-age first and would restore to Soviet scientists some of the prestige lost during the spectacular U.S. Gemini flights this year.

Boiler Explosion Rips Local Church While Council Meets

An explosion ripped the basement of the Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church at 11th and Garfield causing moderate damage Wednesday night.

The hot water boiler in the basement of the church apparently got an overload of un-ignited gas which suddenly blew up damaging the boiler room and the boiler.

Cause of the gas build-up was not known late Wednesday but representatives from the Western Power and Gas Co. speculated a faulty pilot light may have been the cause.

The church's administrative council which was having a meeting in the upstairs of the church when the explosion occurred, heard the loud explosion but did not realize it came from their own church. Several thought it was a sonic boom. Others never worried about it until they saw and heard the firemen racing through the church.

The force of the explosion blew a heavy metal fire door completely off its hinge. Windows in the room were blown out and the boiler itself had serious damage, authorities said.

2 Rulers To Trade Meetings

Vatican City (UPI)—President Johnson will visit the Vatican, and Pope Paul VI will return for another visit to the United States in the not-too-distant future, a high Vatican source said Wednesday.

The source said the pontiff discussed the exchange of visits with President Johnson at their meeting in New York during the Pope's visit to the United Nations Monday.

The source said the Pope felt he should make the trip—the second ever by a pontiff to the Western Hemisphere—to honor American Catholics for their devotion and their dedication to the church.

Mainly To Appeal

His trip Monday was mainly to issue a universal appeal for peace before world leaders at the U.N., although he was viewed also by millions during his tour of the city and at a mass at Yankee Stadium.

The Vatican source said the Pope was extremely pleased by the reception he received during his 14-hour stay in New York, but felt he should make another voyage which would be much longer and would enable him to meet more American Catholics.

The Vatican said no date has been set for President Johnson's visit or for the Pope's return voyage.

President Johnson is Protestant. His daughter, Luci, recently became a convert to Catholicism.

Briefly Over Borders

Johnson has not traveled to any extent outside the United States since he became President on Nov. 22, 1963. He stopped briefly at Vancouver Airport last year to meet Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson and dedicate a joint Canadian-American waterways project.

And he stepped across the border into Mexico at El Paso, Tex., last year while greeting President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico for the signing of a treaty clarifying the border between the two countries.

Pope Paul, still moved by the triumph of his U.N. trip, told pilgrims in his general audience Wednesday that the search for peace was "a duty for all."

Addressing the thousands who flocked to St. Peter's Basilica for his weekly general audience, the pontiff said he was "still moved by our trip to United Nations headquarters, of which so much has been said."

He said the role of peacemaker belongs not only to world leaders but also to ordinary men who seem to think peace is "to enjoy it when it exists, mourn it when it is lacking."

"Peace is a duty, a duty for all," he said.

Missing Stella Farm Wife Back

A missing Stella farm wife suddenly reappeared at her home Wednesday night and immediately underwent questioning.

Mrs. Harold Workman, 27, disappeared mysteriously Monday evening after she and her husband returned from field work. Mrs. Workman went back to the field to get a tractor and wagon and then vanished.

The tractor, its engine running, was found sitting off the road. Mrs. Workman had taken off her jacket and had left it on the tractor seat.

Richardson County Sheriff Ed Mahoney said the woman told him that she had spent the time at a barn near the Workman property.

Governor Pledges Mead Investigation

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. Frank Morrison and State Institutions Director George Morris said Wednesday that a "thorough investigation" is being made of inmate allegations of beer parties, unauthorized trips and sex play at the State Penal Farm at Mead.

"Any situation involving inmates is apt to be fraught with exaggerations and inaccuracies," the governor said, "but we're taking no chances and all will be thoroughly checked."

Morris said "only the theft of copper and groceries involving two guards and three inmates—possibly four — has been substantiated."

Replaced

"The two officers have been replaced with two officers who have been tried and tested, which will eliminate future activities of this sort," he said.

Morris said additional personnel changes probably would be made to insure that the situation is completely under control

"It is unfortunate that the actions of two officers and a few inmates should cast such reflection of wrong-doing on the entire inmate and employe personnel of the Mead facility, and—to some degree — on the Penal Complex as a whole," Morris said.

He said irregularities and possible law violations "had been suspected for some time" and commended supervisory personnel "who brought this to a head by catching those involved in specific acts of theft and escape."

One former guard, John Flagle, 53, of Yutan, was fined in Saunders County Court and ordered to make double restitution on the stolen copper, but the other guard, Robert Chester, 34, of Wahoo, is still being sought.

'Unsubstantiated'

Gov. Morrison stressed the allegations of beer parties and sex play "are unsubstantiated hearsay," but a full investigation is being made of the inmates' stories

Morris appeared unhappy with public disclosure of inmate statements in an investigative report made by the Nebraska Safety Patrol's criminal investigation division.

Morris said the Associated Press "out-maneuvered" his office to obtain the report's contents and he declined to make copies available to other news media.

Inmate Floyd Craig was reported as saying it was not unusual for former Mead inmates to make return visits with beer and liquor and "throw a big drinking party" on the compound grounds.

Craig also reported that the inmates possessed at least four master keys that would open any lock at the penal farm.

Inmate Chester Lee was quoted in the report as saying two or three women are now pregnant as result of trips by inmates outside the confines of the farm and "a lot of them (inmates) have been having unauthorized guests at night."

Fortunate

Morris said the Penal Complex "has been fortunate in the quality of personnel and it is shocking to discover some who violate public trust."

"When two such individuals are responsible for the supervision of an institution during the entire night, it becomes possible for inmates to do the things that have been alleged at the Mead facilities," he said.

The Mead facility is staffed by seven security officers and a lieutenant, one vocational agriculture teacher, a farmer, and 30 inmates.

Gov. Morrison said Nebraska's record with prisoners "is very, very good" and parole violations "is extremely low."

'No Play-Pen'

"The Mead facility is not a play-pen," he said, "but a tremendous lot of hard work in raising a lot of crops as anyone can see who visits there," Morrison added.

"In one year's time, the operation has been taken out of the red. The prisoners have worked hard."

Morrison said the Penal Complex's vocational training facility at Mead "is doing a lot of good" and this immediate situation "is a simple violation of the public trust by a few people who work there."

The Mead facility is under administrative control of the Director of Institutions rather than the Penal Complex warden.

Red Irregulars Said Captured

. . . INDONESIA RADIO CLAIMS

Jakarta, Indonesia (AP) — Loyal troops of the Diponegoro Division, battling Communist-backed rebels in central Java, have crushed the insurgency within Jogjakarta. Radio Jakarta announced Wednesday night.

About 2,000 members of "Communist paramilitary units" were reported captured in various actions.

Jogjakarta is a former capital 250 miles southeast of Jakarta, which is under army control following an attempted coup and a countercoup last weekend.

Locked In Combat

Troops, tanks and armored cars were said to be locked in combat with irregulars of the Communist youth front in the Tjirebon region, about 100 miles east of Jakarta

The battle report, which came after accounts of see-saw fighting in which Jogjakarta changed hands three times, left undisclosed the fate of two key figures in the rebel camp.

These were Col. Suherman, a Diponegoro Division officer who led the Jogjakarta uprising, and Lt. Col. Untung, a battalion commander of President Sukarno's guard regiment. Untung was reported to have fled to that city after the collapse of the revolt he aimed at rightist generals of the high command here last weekend.

Kill Wife, Children

Diplomatic sources said rebels hunting Col. Karim, commander of the military district based on Jogjakarta, slew his wife and eight children when they were unable to find him. This was one in a series of atrocity reports.

Military newspapers here compared the rebel activities with the 1948 Communist revolt at Madiun, in central Java, when thousands were reported slaughtered.

Radio Jakarta announced the 5-year-old daughter of Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, the defense minister and armed forces chief, died in a hospital Wednesday night of a bullet wound in the spine.

The girl was shot by rebels who tried to wipe out Nasution and his family in their home the night of Sept. 30, the broadcast said. Nasution also was wounded.

Untung Coup Hit

The Jakarta station, which is under army control, said Sukarno's cabinet condemned Untung's coup attempt in a meeting with the 64-year-old chief executive at his summer palace in Bogor, 40 miles south of Jakarta, and directed the army to take action against those "who are responsible."

Sukarno was quoted as saying past assassination attempts with grenades and bombs showed many people hated him, but "we should not take revenge."

A statement signed by First Deputy Premier Subandrio of this largely Moslem nation reported Sukarno told his ministers:

"We should follow the teachings of the Prophet Mohammed."

Want Anti-Red Action

On the other hand, a Jakarta broadcast said 23 political parties and mass organizations throughout Indonesia have condemned the rebel movement and demanded repressive action against the Indonesian Communist Party (PKI), which claims a membership of 3 million, and its satellites.

By special permission of the army command, eight Jakarta newspapers resumed publication. Most belong to Moslem organizations. Communist organs and the official Antara news agency, which is known to have been infiltrated by Communists, remained closed.

The information ministry notified its local offices throughout Indonesia to ban publication of all newspapers which directly or indirectly show any sign of support for Untung's "Sept. 30 Movement."

2 Reds Members

Two of the Indonesian Communist Party's senior leaders are members of Sukarno's inner cabinet and Radio Malaysia said both are reported to have attended the cabinet meeting at Bogor.

They are a labor leader named Njoto, second in command to Communist chief D. N. Aidit, and Aidit's chief strategist, Mohammed Lukman.

Viet Nam 'Teach-In' Slated Oct. 16 At NU

A "teach-in" concerning U.S. Viet Nam policy will be sponsored by a new University of Nebraska student organization Oct. 16 at Love Library on the campus.

The organization, Students for a Democratic Society, (SDS) announced the teach-in through their president, Carl Davidson, at a meeting of the University's Young Democrats.

Davidson said speakers will include from 12 to 15 University professors and Lincoln ministers. According to Davidson, the speakers list is incomplete, but does include Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Karl Shapiro, an NU English professor, and Dr. David Trask of the University history department. He said SDS midwest coordinator Jack Kittredge would join the local participants.

All Sides

"We hope every possible position will be defended on Viet Nam," Davidson said.

Davidson, whose organization is expected to be recognized "in the near future" by the student senate, said the speakers will talk for ten minutes each in groups of four, allowing for discussion afterward.

The Nebraska teach-in will be held in conjunction with International Days of Protest on Oct. 15-17, when a number of student organizations will hold similar events.

'Definitely non-Communist'

SDS has 3,000 dues-paying members nationally on 100 college campuses. The local chapter claims 15 members.

Russell Springs, Ky. (AP)—Tom Stacy chugged into town Wednesday in his 35-year-old car for his vacation, a routine that's known by heart in Russell Springs.

"The city met him with the fire truck one year and made quite a thing of it," recalled businessman Charles Aaron, a frequent host.

"One year when Milwaukee was in the Series, he watched Hank Aaron talk to a coach before coming to bat and said, 'I'll bet 20 to 1 he hits a home run.'

"Wonder what the coach is saying?" someone remarked. " 'He's telling Aaron where to hit it,' Tom replied."

When Aaron crashed a homer, Stacy wouldn't pick up his winnings.

"I hate to take that. He hit the ball 50 feet from where the coach told him," he said.

Stacy is picking the Los Angeles Dodgers in this year's Series, mainly due to its pitching.

Stacy lives on income from a World War I pension and part of his 100 acres which he rents. He knows the Bible well and spends his time listening to his battery-powered radio and reading numerous newspapers and magazines.

Governor Pledges Mead Investigation

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. Frank Morrison and State Institutions Director George Morris said Wednesday that a "thorough investigation" is being made of inmate allegations of beer parties, unauthorized trips and sex play at the State Penal Farm at Mead.

"Any situation involving inmates is apt to be fraught with exaggerations and inaccuracies," the governor said, "but we're taking no chances and all will be thoroughly checked."

Morris appeared unhappy with public disclosure of inmate statements in an investigative report made by the Nebraska Safety Patrol's criminal investigation division.

Morris said the Associated Press "out-maneuvered" his office to obtain the report's contents and he declined to make copies available to other news media.

Inmate Floyd Craig was reported as saying it was not unusual for former Mead inmates to make return visits with beer and liquor and "throw a big drinking party" on the compound grounds.

Craig also reported that the inmates possessed at least four master keys that would open any lock at the penal farm.

Inmate Chester Lee was quoted in the report as saying two or three women are now pregnant as result of trips by inmates outside the confines of the farm and "a lot of them (inmates) have been having unauthorized guests at night."

Fortunate

Morris said the Penal Complex "has been fortunate in the quality of personnel and it is shocking to discover some who violate public trust."

"When two such individuals are responsible for the supervision of an institution during the entire night, it becomes possible for inmates to do the things that have been alleged at the Mead facilities," he said.

The Mead facility is staffed by seven security officers and a lieutenant, one vocational agriculture teacher, a farmer, and 30 inmates.

Gov. Morrison said Nebraska's record with prisoners "is very, very good" and parole violations "is extremely low."

'No Play-Pen'

"The Mead facility is not a play-pen," he said, "but a tremendous lot of hard work in raising a lot of crops as anyone can see who visits there," Morrison added.

"In one year's time, the operation has been taken out of the red. The prisoners have worked hard."

Morrison said the Penal Complex's vocational training facility at Mead "is doing a lot of good" and this immediate situation "is a simple violation of the public trust by a few people who work there."

The Mead facility is under administrative control of the Director of Institutions rather than the Penal Complex warden.

Red Irregulars Said Captured

. . . INDONESIA RADIO CLAIMS

Jakarta, Indonesia (AP) — Loyal troops of the Diponegoro Division, battling Communist-backed rebels in central Java, have crushed the insurgency within Jogjakarta, Radio Jakarta announced Wednesday night.

About 2,000 members of "Communist paramilitary units" were reported captured in various actions.

Locked In Combat

Troops, tanks and armored cars were said to be locked in combat with irregulars of the Communist youth front in the Tjirebon region, about 100 miles east of Jakarta.

The battle report, which came after accounts of see-saw fighting in which Jogjakarta changed hands three times, left undisclosed the fate of two key figures in the rebel camp.

These were Col. Suherman, a Diponegoro Division officer who led the Jogjakarta uprising, and Lt. Col. Untung, a battalion commander of President Sukarno's guard regiment. Untung was reported to have fled to that city after the collapse of the revolt he aimed at rightist generals of the high command here last weekend.

Kill Wife, Children

Diplomatic sources said rebels hunting Col. Karim, commander of the military district based on Jogjakarta, slew his wife and eight children when they were unable to find him. This was one in a series of atrocity reports.

Military newspapers here compared the rebel activities with the 1948 Communist revolt at Madiun, in central Java, when thousands were reported slaughtered.

Radio Jakarta announced the 5-year-old daughter of Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, the defense minister and armed forces chief, died in a hospital Wednesday night of a bullet wound in the spine.

The girl was shot by rebels who tried to wipe out Nasution and his family in their home the night of Sept. 30, the broadcast said. Nasution also was wounded.

Untung Coup Hit

The Jakarta station, which is under army control, said Sukarno's cabinet condemned Untung's coup attempt in a meeting with the 64-year-old chief executive at his summer palace in Bogor, 40 miles south of Jakarta, and directed the army to take action against those "who are responsible."

Sukarno was quoted as saying past assassination attempts with grenades and bombs showed many people hated him, but "we should not take revenge."

A statement signed by First Deputy Premier Subandrio of this largely Moslem nation reported Sukarno told his ministers:

"We should follow the teachings of the Prophet Mohammed."

Want Anti-Red Action

On the other hand, a Jakarta broadcast said 23 political parties and mass organizations throughout Indonesia have condemned the rebel movement and demanded repressive action against the Indonesian Communist Party (PKI), which claims a membership of 3 million, and its satellites.

By special permission of the army command, eight Jakarta newspapers resumed publication. Most belong to Moslem organizations. Communist organs and the official Antara news agency, which is known to have been infiltrated by Communists, remained closed.

The information ministry notified its local offices throughout Indonesia to ban publication of all newspapers which directly or indirectly show any sign of support for Untung's "Sept. 30 Movement."

2 Reds Members

Two of the Indonesian Communist Party's senior leaders are members of Sukarno's inner cabinet and Radio Malaysia said both are reported to have attended the cabinet meeting at Bogor.

They are a labor leader named Njoto, second in command to Communist chief D. N. Aidit, and Aidit's chief strategist, Mohammed Lukman.

Viet Nam 'Teach-In' Slated Oct. 16 At NU

A "teach-in" concerning U.S. Viet Nam policy will be sponsored by a new University of Nebraska student organization Oct. 16 at Love Library on the campus.

The organization, Students for a Democratic Society, (SDS) announced the teach-in through their president, Carl Davidson, at a meeting of the University's Young Democrats.

Davidson said speakers will include from 12 to 15 University professors and Lincoln ministers. According to Davidson, the speakers list is incomplete, but does include Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Karl Shapiro, an NU English professor, and Dr. David Trask of the University history department. He said SDS midwest coordinator Jack Kittredge would join the local participants.

All Sides

"We hope every possible position will be defended on Viet Nam," Davidson said.

Davidson, whose organization is expected to be recognized "in the near future" by the student senate, said the speakers will talk for ten minutes each in groups of four, allowing for discussion afterward.

The Nebraska teach-in will be held in conjunction with International Days of Protest on Oct. 15-17, when a number of student organizations will hold similar events.

'Definitely non-Communist'

SDS has 3,000 dues-paying members nationally on 100 college campuses. The local chapter claims 15 members.

LBJ's Pen Launches Major Drive On 3 Killer Ailments

. . . HEART DISEASE, CANCER AND STROKE

Washington (AP) — President Johnson's signature Wednesday laid the foundation for launching a major attack on three of mankind's most murderous ailments — heart disease, cancer and stroke.

In signing into law a $340-million, three-year program of grants, the President made no mention of the gall bladder operation he faces Friday. But he had a warm, friendly exchange with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the man who will act in his stead during the hospital stay if the need arises.

Johnson and Humphrey swapped words, handclasps and smiles and the President gave the vice president a friendly pat on the shoulder.

Touched

The audience, which included many distinguished doctors and members of Congress, was touched by Johnson's omission of his own medical problems and his warm praise for the bill and those who had a hand in its passage.

Johnson spoke with feelings of the work of a commission under Dr. Michael Debakey of Houston, Tex., whose recommendations led to the new law.

In the audience was Dr. Howard Rusk, whom Johnson introduced. And while the President was signing the bill Rusk announced a program to rehabilitate paralyzed Vietnamese servicemen.

Deadly Facts

Johnson said the fact that heart disease, cancer and stroke will claim 7 of every 10 Americans who die this year "are not dry statistics." These, he said, "are deadly facts whose anguish touches every single family in this land of ours."

The new law, the President said, has a simple goal: "To speed the miracles of medical research from the laboratory to the bedside."

The $340-million will provide grants to launch regional programs among medical schools and clinical research institutions The measure also provides for improving training of specialists and making available to victims of the three killer diseases better medical facilities and equipment to treat them.

Nixon Has Sympathy For HHH

Lynchburg, Va. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon said Wednesday Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will find his job thougher during President Johnson's illness than that of holding the top office.

"This is when you have the responsibility without the real power," the former vice president said.

Nixon said he had great sympathy for Humphrey in this situation, but less sympathy than I would have if he had not already reached an understanding with the President."

Nixon emphasized, however, that letters such as former President Eisenhower wrote him after a third illness—a precdent followed by President Kennedy with Johnson—had no real legal status.

"It would be my hope," he said, "that the current illness of the President would speed action by the states in ratifying the constitutional amendment dealing with presidential succession and temporary powers of the vice president in cases of presidential incapacity.

"Until such ratification comes about, letters of agreement between the President and the vice president are very important to stem official speculation and perhaps a struggle for power that could become unbelievably fierce.

"When the President is well all of the civil war, I suppose you could call it, beneath the surface is eliminated, but when he becomes ill these contests for power come to the surface."

Without mentioning any names in this reference, Nixon said he had seen evidences of "a power struggle" during Eisenhower's illnesses directed against him, former Press Secretary James C. Hagerty and former presidential aide Sherman Adams. Nixon did not elaborate.

Nixon recalled his own experiences during Eisenhower's illnesses. He said he had no authorization to act for the president at the time of Eisenhower's heart attack in 1955, or the ileitis attack the following summer, or the stroke in the fall of 1957.

"It was not until months later that President Eisenhower reduced an informal agreement to writing," Nixon said.

U.S. Now Has 140,000 Warriors In Viet Nam

Saigon (UPI)—The last elements of the 15,000-man 1st Infantry Division moved ashore south of here Thursday, boosting the U.S. military strength in Viet Nam to an estimated 140,000 fighting men.

The famed "Big Red One" joins the Marine Corps' division-sized 3rd Amphibious Force and the Army's 1st Cavalry Division as the third American combat division in South Viet Nam.

A 4,000-man brigade of the 1st Infantry Division has been here for some time. But a military spokesman announced Thursday that the remainder of the division's forces completed the move here from Ft. Riley, Kan., Thursday and the division headquarters flag was planted on South Vietnamese soil.

Vung Tau

The division arrived in Vung Tau, 37 miles south of Saigon and will join the war in the 11 jungle-covered provinces around Saigon where some of the fiercest fighting of the war has occurred.

They will be working with the Vietnamese Army's 3rd Corps, the military spokesman said.

The spokesman would not disclose the exact location of the division's tactical headquarters. The 2nd Brigade has been headquartered so far near Bien Hoa, about 12 miles northeast of Saigon.

Gen. Seaman

The division, which includes tanks, infantry, artillery and light airplanes, is commanded by Maj. Gen. Jonathan O. Seaman.

Informed military sources said Seaman also would assume command of Task Force Bravo, a special fighting command including all U.S., Australian and New Zealand combat units in the 3rd Corps sector.

The division contains nine infantry battalions of almost 1,000 men each, an armored cavalry squadron, an aviation battalion, a signal battalion, an engineer battalion and a division artillery group.

Negro March In Natchez Is Trouble-Free

Natchez, Miss. (UPI) — About 1,000 Negroes marched seven blocks and paraded in front of the county building without incident Wednesday night, protected from arrest by a court order.

The silent march spread out in a double column over almost the entire route after Negroes left the Zion Chapel AME Church behind Negro leader Charles Evers.

Mississippi Ku Klux Klan Grand Dragon E. L. McDaniel and a number of other whites lined the route of march at various points, but there was no trouble.

Earlier in the day at Jackson, Miss., U.S. District Judge Harold Cox modified a local injunction barring demonstrations and directed officials to allow peaceful marches of not more than two abreast.

When the group reached the county courthouse in this historic Mississippi River town, Negroes completely filled the grassy courtyard out front as they sang: "Ain't gonna let nobody turn me around."

Evers told the crowd: "All we want is for our white brothers to realize that America is for all of us.

"We do not believe in black supremacy any more than white supremacy," he said.

After about 10 minutes, the group quietly filed off the lawn and marched down the sidewalk under the watchful eyes of city, state and federal officers.

When they again reached the church, two busloads containing some of the 500 arrested for disobeying the chancery injunction were brought by in chartered buses, raising a cheer from the crowd. They were being returned from the state penitentiary at Parchman after bonds were posted earlier in the day.

Congo Extends State Of Urgency

Leopoldville, The Congo (AP) —The government has proclaimed a state of urgency in the northeast province of Maniema after election results were invalidated because of irregularities, the Congolese press agency reported Wednesday.

A state of urgency, declared in the event of rebellion or a breakdown in the civil administration, already exists in several provinces.

BOY RESCUED FROM CREVICE

Medina, Ohio (UPI)—Teenager Morris Baetzold won a long battle against death Wednesday. Rescuers pulled him from a narrow crevice inside a cave where he had been wedged head-first for 26 hours.

"I feel fine," the plucky youngster said while being carried by stretcher out of the cave that had been his cold and damp prison since about noon Tuesday.

Even the rescuers who freed him admitted the key factors in making the rescue a success were Morris' courage and determination.

Throughout the ordeal, the boy—only 15 years old—refused to give up hope in the face of death. At one stage he asked a volunteer:

"Is there anything I can do to help you? Oh please, is there anything I can do?"

The rescue was touch-and-go all the way with Boy Scouts, pint-sized volunteers and members of the Air Force playing vital roles.

It ended happily shortly before noon Wednesday when young Baetzold first was freed from the crevice and a half-hour later brought out of the cave.

He was taken by ambulance to community hospital here where his condition was reported as fair. Attendants said he was suffering from minor injuries, but no details were given.

The actual rescue involved slipping nylon slings around Morris' body so he could be lifted out of the crevice.

After efforts by several slightly built volunteers—including an 85-pound nurse — had failed, Michael Ulrich, a 15-year-old Boy Scout, managed to edge into a narrow space near Morris and attach the nylon harness.

But when an attempt was made to pull the trapped boy free, his trousers slipped off and the rescue was delayed for a time.

A coating of water and glycerine then was applied to Morris' body and clothing to reduce friction. He was pulled free far enough to slide a board under him, then carried from the cave.

A 12-man team from the National Capital Rescue Squad was flown to the site in an Air Force jet after earlier attempts by local rescuers failed.

The team was headed by William Karras, 43, of Arlington, Va., circulation manager of the Washington Evening Star. Karras supervised the final operation and calmly gave young Ulrich instructions on how to secure the slings.

Karras said the team members had to shout, chide and harass Baetzold at times to keep his spirits up.

After the ambulance sped away, Karras placed his hands on Ulrich's shoulder and told newsmen:

"I want you people to know this boy. He truly was a principal factor in making his rescue a success."

Long Civil War Could Push Chaotic Indonesia Into Abyss

By DON HUTH

Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia (AP) —A prolonged civil war involving the Communists in Indonesia could spell disaster for that floundering Southeast Asian nation, already on the brink of economic chaos.

The country, fifth largest in the world, is ill-equipped to meet such a strain and still maintain the political and financial stability it sorely needs to prevent a complete collapse.

President Sukarno, struggling to hold his one-man rule, has publicly admitted he cannot control the rampant inflation sweeping the nation.

Ordered It Away

He recently "ordered" that it be eliminated in one year, saying Indonesia is rich enough to stand on its own feet. That was before the current crisis began. Indonesian currency was in bad shape The rupiah had shot to 16,000 to $1—an all-time high. The official rate is 45 to $1.

Financial analysis attributed the jump to efforts by 10,000 or more Indian merchants to liquidate their holdings. Indonesia had announced its support for Pakistan against India in the Kashmir dispute. Indian shops in Jakarta were seized by the government after violent Communist-led demonstrations against the Indian embassy.

The cost of living index in Indonesia, using 1955's 100 as a base, went to 1,500 in mid-1965. Rice, the staple food, has gone up 600% since January.

Conspicuous Luxury

But while the economy deteriorated, more late model cars appeared on Jakarta streets than ever before. Luxury goods were available in the Chinese-dominated markets. Wives of prominent military and government officials appeared in costly clothes and flashed expensive jewelry.

Sukarno was fully aware of what was happening. He became irritated with propaganda and daily demonstrations directed against his government on price increases.

The leader of this campaign was Communist Party boss D. N. Aidit, whose part in the present upheaval still is not clear. Aidit employed youth organizations to parade the streets of Jakarta with banners condemning price manipulators, corrupt officials and militarists declared to be growing fat on graft.

Aidit's Criticism

Aidit, whose 3-million-member Communist Party is the largest outside the Red bloc, criticized Sukarno for naming obscure ministers to his cabinet. The president has had an unwieldly inner cabinet of more than 100 members. Its attempts to solve Indonesia's economic problems have failed.

The Communists concentrated their attack on manipulators the party said was racing the country to ruin. Aidit received powerful support throughout Java, the nation's key island.

The Communists and their sympathizers now are reported concentrating in central Java, where they are strongly organized. They are moving into sectors where the fanatical Darul Islam, who demanded a Moslem state for Indonesia, fought the government for 12 years. A civil war could renew this religious movement's activities if the government's strength deteriorated.

Had To Turn To China

Since Sukarno told the United States last year to "go to hell" with its aid and took Indonesia out of the United Nations, he has had to turn to his new alliance with Red China for financial aid.

The Indonesian Communists are being supported by the Chinese Communists. If a civil war is in the making against the Communists, Sukarno cannot be expected to get the financial help from Peking that he critically needs to meet the financial crisis.

The army, bitter over the death of six of its generals at the hands of Indonesian Communist or pro-Communist elements, is expected to show no sympathy if Sukarno presses for continued strong relations with Peking.

The 64-year-old "president for life" presumably is well aware of this.

If Indonesia does not get economic relief from somewhere and a civil war cannot be prevented from breaking out, Sukarno's "guided democracy" may have reached the end of the road.

He recently "ordered" that it be eliminated in one year, saying Indonesia is rich enough to stand on its own feet. That was before the current crisis began. Indonesian currency was in bad shape. The rupiah had shot to 16,000 to $1—an all-time high. The official rate is 45 to $1.

Financial analysis attributed the jump to efforts by 10,000 or more Indian merchants to liquidate their holdings. Indonesia had announced its support for Pakistan against India in the Kashmir dispute. Indian shops in Jakarta were seized by the government after violent Communist-led demonstrations against the Indian embassy.

The cost of living index in Indonesia, using 1955's 100 as a base, went to 1,500 in mid-1965. Rice, the staple food, has gone up 600% since January.

Conspicuous Luxury

But while the economy deteriorated, more late model cars appeared on Jakarta streets than ever before. Luxury goods were available in the Chinese-dominated markets. Wives of prominent military and government officials appeared in costly clothes and flashed expensive jewelry.

Sukarno was fully aware of what was happening. He became irritated with propaganda and daily demonstrations directed against his government on price increases.

The leader of this campaign was Communist Party boss D. N. Aidit, whose part in the present upheaval still is not clear. Aidit employed youth organizations to parade the streets of Jakarta with banners condemning price manipulators, corrupt officials and militarists declared to be growing fat on graft.

Aidit's Criticism

Aidit, whose 3-million-member Communist Party is the largest outside the Red bloc, criticized Sukarno for naming obscure ministers to his cabinet. The president has had an unwieldly inner cabinet of more than 100 members. Its attempts to solve Indonesia's economic problems have failed.

The Communists concentrated their attack on manipulators the party said was racing the country to ruin. Aidit received powerful support throughout Java, the nation's key island.

The Communists and their sympathizers now are reported concentrating in central Java, where they are strongly organized. They are moving into sectors where the fanatical Darul Islam, who demanded a Moslem state for Indonesia, fought the government for 12 years. A civil war could renew this religious movement's activities if the government's strength deteriorated.

Had To Turn To China

Since Sukarno told the United States last year to "go to hell" with its aid and took Indonesia out of the United Nations, he has had to turn to his new alliance with Red China for financial aid.

The Indonesian Communists are being supported by the Chinese Communists. If a civil war is in the making against the Communists, Sukarno cannot be expected to get the financial help from Peking that he critically needs to meet the financial crisis.

The army, bitter over the death of six of its generals at the hands of Indonesian Communist or pro-Communist elements, is expected to show no sympathy if Sukarno presses for continued strong relations with Peking.

The 64-year-old "president for life" presumably is well aware of this.

First Harvest Delights Big Bill

Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Nebraska City — The accent was that of a German PW, the comment obviously an American's as big Bill Oberdieck motioned toward the orchard he now owns:

'It is like TV that you buy on payments. At least you say it is yours."

Twenty years ago Bill had picked apples on this very spot — a prisoner fresh from Rommel's headquarters in North Africa. How he "happened" to return and eventually buy the place is a story that fascinates with each telling.

"I'm always curious and behind the barbed wire you can't see much," he recalled of his confinement at the old Atlanta prison camp. "I volunteered to dig potatoes at Grand Island, to pluck chickens at Alma, and I was with a Weeping Water work camp when we were assigned to the orchard."

An acquaintanceship with owner Richard P. Kimmel and wife ripened into a post-war job offer, but it was 1950 before Bill broke the immigration barrier. Meanwhile, he had taken wife Adele, and little Laurine (now a Nebraska City senior) was born. More recent arrivals are fourth-grade twins Wilma and Ricarda.

Completely Satisfied

"We wouldn't trade this for anything," said the orchardist of his thick-treed 95 acres. "Nebraska is the only home to this family, my wife loves it, I would rather have the outdoors than any office."

Bill's overseeing the past 15 years was two or three world's away from his pre-war apprenticeship with United Steel of Germany. He had learned three languages in anticipation of a management position in South America.

The world situation altered those plans drastically, and it was Sergeant Oberdieck until the Desert Fox and staff were overrun. Bill helped construct the Atlanta camp near Holdrege in 1943 and sweat out the rest of the war in a PW uniform.

"I liked the country, I liked the people, I liked the landscape," he recalled. "I was from a city (Muelheim-Ruhr) but I was determined to come back and make a home here."

Located north of Nebraska City on Highway 73-75, the Kimmel place continues under the same name. The Kimmels themselves still live at the orchard and have shared in its operation the several months since the transaction.

"My wife, Laurine and I were naturalized just as soon as we possibly could," said the Nebraska Citian, 43. "It was in 1955 that we became full-fledged Americans."

Oberdieck's first year as owner is ending happily, with the heaviest apple harvest in several seasons.

"Others only call it one of the best crops," the new landowner smiled. "It is my best crop . . . yes, my very best crop."

Europe Wants More U.S. Attention, Declares Veteran Reporter Stringer

Omaha (AP) — William H. Stringer, veteran European reporter from the Christian Science Monitor, said Europe wants the United States to pay more attention to Europe.

Stringer, London bureau chief for the Monitor, said the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) "is coming apart at the seams and the United States does not seem to be greatly concerned."

He declared the United States is greatly concerned with problems in Viet Nam, the Dominican Republic and South America. Stringer said President Johnson has proven he can be persuasive on the home front. "Europe wants him to exert some pressure toward strengthening ties with Europe," he said.

Stringer said European countries are more ready than the United States to say Russia is "changing her spots," and is less preoccupied with war than formerly.

"Russia is becoming more and more a mediator in disputes between Communist China and the West. She doesn't want trouble. She just wants to be let alone to develop her economy."

Stringer said Europe doesn't believe Red China is morally right but leans toward admitting Red China to the United Nations.

"Europeans would rather talk to China over the conference table than to pretend that she doesn't exist," he said.

Stringer was in Omaha to speak at the University of Omaha World Affairs Institute.

Trooper Johnson Leaves Hospital

Johnson was pursuing a speeder when he lost control of his patrol car as he drove over the crest of a hill on the east edge of Sholes. The car hit a soft shoulder, veered into a ditch and struck a tree.

Otto Peters of Sholes assisted Johnson to the Osmond Hospital. The patrol vehicle had stopped in Peters' yard. The car was a total loss.

Norfolk (AP)—Herman Vogel, 64, of Wisner, who died in a hospital Sunday, suffered a crushed chest in a traffic accident, Safety Patrolman James McFarland reported.

McFarland said Vogel did not go to a hospital immediately following a one-car accident about eight miles northeast of Wisner last Thursday. His car crashed into a creek and it was recovered Wednesday.

Vogel died Sunday and it was determined he had a crushed chest, the trooper said.

His death raises the highway death toll to 290 for the year, compared with 325 at this time a year ago.

Norfolk's Old Fire Station To House Police Department

Norfolk (AP) — After several frustrating delays, Norfolk's City Council can look forward to remodeling of the old city fire station into quarters for the police department.

The council set Oct. 18 for letting bids on the project, estimated to cost about $30,000.

Money for the remodeling work will come from off-street parking meter funds.

The council held a bid opening on June 21, but no general contractor submitted a bid on the remodeling because of the heavy load of summer work and the comparative smallness of the project.

Taking another step toward realization of a second major city project—the bypass Northfork River flood control channel east of Norfolk—Mayor Ed Vrzal apopinted a committee on appraisal of right-of-way for the channel.

Hoping to have a contract letting in the spring, the council seeks to determine how much the right-of-way for the flood project is going to cost. Appraisal of land needed for the channel is estimated to cost about $7,500.

Dad's Truck Kills Boy, 2

The boy was Randall Erwin Alber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Alber.

The boy was playing with his three brothers and sisters nearby but he apparently wandered away from them and got in the path of the truck as the father backed it up to a granary.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Miller Seeks Ruling To Use Sidney Depot

Sidney (AP)—Dr. Floyd Miller, state commissioner of education, said Wednesday he has asked the attorney general's office to rule on whether the department can establish a state supported trade school at the Sioux Ordnance Depot prior to receipt of title to the land from the federal government.

Dr. Miller said following a conference with federal agencies that his office does not feel it should proceed further with plans for the school until it is determined whether the law will allow it to be operated on a "work use permit" until the permanent title can be acquired.

He said two significant problems apparently have came to light as a result of his conference with federal agency representatives Tuesday:

—When is the soonest a title could be conveyed from the federal to the state government?

—Can the state legally start the school until the title has been conveyed?

Dr. Miller said his office is looking to the attorney general for these answers and no additional action will be taken until the opinion is received.

He said it now appears that October, 1966, would be the earliest the school could be started.

"We are confident these problems can be resolved satisfactorily," Dr. Miller said, "But we don't feel we can proceed without some legal opinion which we have now requested."

He said he has been reading the law pertaining to the trade school and it seems specific that title must be conveyed in full. Hence, he is hoping that it may be able to operate under the "work use permit" to get the school operating as soon as possible.

State Sen. George Fleming of Sidney said he is confident the problems can be ironed out speedily.

New Norfolk School Target Date Is '67

Norfolk (UPI)—Bids on the new Norfolk High School are expected to be taken in November, according to architect Kenneth Clark of Lincoln. The construction target date is September, 1967. Clark said it shouldn't take more than 18 months to construct the facility.

Norfolk's Old Fire Station To House Police Department

Norfolk (AP) — After several frustrating delays, Norfolk's City Council can look forward to remodeling of the old city fire station into quarters for the police department.

The council set Oct. 18 for letting bids on the project, estimated to cost about $30,000.

Money for the remodeling work will come from off-street parking meter funds.

The council held a bid opening on June 21, but no general contractor submitted a bid on the remodeling because of the heavy load of summer work and the comparative smallness of the project.

Taking another step toward realization of a second major city project—the bypass Northfork River flood control channel east of Norfolk—Mayor Ed Vrzal apopinted a committee on appraisal of right-of-way for the channel.

Hoping to have a contract letting in the spring, the council seeks to determine how much the right-of-way for the flood project is going to cost. Appraisal of land needed for the channel is estimated to cost about $7,500.

Dad's Truck Kills Boy, 2

Rosemont (AP) — A two-year-old boy was killed Wednesday when his father's truck backed over him at the farm home four miles south of Rosemont.

The boy was Randall Erwin Alber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Alber.

The boy was playing with his three brothers and sisters nearby but he apparently wandered away from them and got in the path of the truck as the father backed it up to a granary.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Miller Seeks Ruling To Use Sidney Depot

Sidney (AP)—Dr. Floyd Miller, state commissioner of education, said Wednesday he has asked the attorney general's office to rule on whether the department can establish a state supported trade school at the Sioux Ordnance Depot prior to receipt of title to the land from the federal government.

Dr. Miller said following a conference with federal agencies that his office does not feel it should proceed further with plans for the school until it is determined whether the law will allow it to be operated on a "work use permit" until the permanent title can be acquired.

He said two significant problems apparently have came to light as a result of his conference with federal agency representatives Tuesday:

—When is the soonest a title could be conveyed from the federal to the state government?

—Can the state legally start the school until the title has been conveyed?

Dr. Miller said his office is looking to the attorney general for these answers and no additional action will be taken until the opinion is received.

He said it now appears that October, 1966, would be the earliest the school could be started.

"We are confident these problems can be resolved satisfactorily," Dr. Miller said, "But we don't feel we can proceed without some legal opinion which we have now requested."

He said he has been reading the law pertaining to the trade school and it seems specific that title must be conveyed in full. Hence, he is hoping that it may be able to operate under the "work use permit" to get the school operating as soon as possible.

State Sen. George Fleming of Sidney said he is confident the problems can be ironed out speedily.

New Norfolk School Target Date Is '67

Norfolk (UPI)—Bids on the new Norfolk High School are expected to be taken in November, according to architect Kenneth Clark of Lincoln. The construction target date is September, 1967. Clark said it shouldn't take more than 18 months to construct the facility.

Facts Never Hurt

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Be happy that you are not the State of Nebraska. Consider the fact that the state has funds on deposit in 14 banks around the state. Out of these funds the state pays the warrants that are outstanding against it. In other words, the state pays its bills out of 14 checking accounts. The average family has difficulty enough with one or two checking accounts but 14 would really be a major headache.

Visualizing A Million

Of course, that average family doesn't have $3.7 million in cash floating around at one time, either. In fact, the family never has that much in all its time put together. If you have a hard time realizing how much a million dollars is, you might take a look at your own income. A man who averaged $7,000 a year over 45 years of active work would earn a total of $315,000 in his lifetime and those figures would be better than most people do. To make a million dollars in a lifetime, you would have to earn more than $22,000 a year for 45 years—from the day you were 20 years of age to the day you retired at age 65.

Such thoughts give you some idea of the size of the operation of state government. Then, when you consider that our state is relatively small in financial matters compared to others and the federal government dwarfs any state in the Union, you get a good picture of how tall Uncle Sam stands in economic matters.

Such facts as those are interesting while others are of more importance. Falling into the more important category are the facts relating to the ridiculous situation that recently developed at the State Penal Farm at Mead. Fortunately for the state, it released the facts itself and thus eliminated a lot of the heat it might otherwise have received.

The situation of inmates in control of the farm was made known through a report obtained through the office of Institutions Director George Morris. The report was made by an invesitgator of the State Safety Patrol. It showed inmates having the upper hand over guards at the farm and having engaged in wild parties at the farm as well as away. At one time, inmates left the farm, burglarized some places and returned to the farm with their loot. The script reads like something you might see on a TV comedy hour except that it isn't very funny in real life. Weaknesses in the administration of the farm are obvious.

It is amazing that the situation could get to the point it had before being discovered. It would seem that even routine precautions could have prevented this kind of thing from hitting such proportions but such precautions must have been absent. Some of the other problems demonstrated by the incident can be shared by the entire state. Farm guards who let things develop as they did and those who actually took part in some of the crimes committed provide the state with no pride. Also some of the inmates at the farm obviously belong in the Penitentiary, a weakness in the judgment or classification of these men. How much of the fault, however, lives with state administration and how much with a state that provides only limited tools with which administration can work? Better guards mean higher salaries, and better analysis and rehabilitation of prisoners mean more trained personnel.

Neither Morris nor Warden Maurice Sigler would maintain that they are blameless in the situation. Being in charge of things leaves the monkey on their back and they can't escape that. But it is a good bet that either of them could give you a blueprint of operations whereby such things would not happen. It would, however, cost money.

There are still more things to look at in connection with this story. The two Mead guards largely responsible for what happened give a bad name in the public's eye to all guards, most of whom are highly dedicated men and totally honorable. The average guard is underpaid but he isn't short on integrity.

Too, people ought to understand before condemning anyone that the prison system is probably the toughest operation to handle in state government. The threat of things going wrong is constant and the slightest weakness in administration is likely to be exploited to the fullest potential. And finally, it is to the advantage of the state that the report was made public even though it placed the administration in a bad light.

Release Of Report

Also, it was the administration itself that uncovered its problem and took steps to solve it. This is far more commendable than might otherwise have been the case. What we now have is an unfortunate development that is over and done with while we might have had a major scandal or even more serious criminal actions.

Farm And City Ties

The community of interest that really exists between rural and urban people has been shown in this week's meeting of the Nebraska State Grange in Lincoln. The Grange is not the largest farm organization in Nebraska but it has historically been a solid, forward looking voice for farming.

State Grange Master Albert J. Ebers of Seward made an unusual point in his annual message to the convention. He wondered aloud if farm people should not be supporting the application of the federal minimum wage laws to agriculture.

One would think that agriculture, being in a tight financial position, would not want anything to do with a law that would hike the cost of farm labor. But the family farm gets far less benefit from exclusion under the federal wage law than does the large, corporate type farm. Thus, the cheap labor possible without a minimum wage law hurts rather than helps the family farm and it is there that the Grange has its greatest concern.

Also, the Grange has been a worthy proponent of the newly enacted income tax law for Nebraska. Study after study has shown that Nebraska agriculture pays a disproportionate share of taxes under the property tax system we rely upon so heavily.

The same thing holds true for the small wage earner and home owner in the city. He pays taxes on the major and sometimes only real investment has—his home—while those with big investments in other forms of wealth escape much of their responsibility. The farmer and the city man still should come to a better appreciation of the fact that they need to hang together or they will all hang separately.

Trial Hinges On Agreement

The unending-low pressure dispute between Iowa and Nebraska over the proper Missouri River frontier has been greatly confounded from an unexpected source—believe it or not, by rulings of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation of the U.S. Department of Interior in the proposed development of the Lewis and Clark Trail.

Lewis and Clark, with their helpers conducted an exploration trip, in 1805, of the newly acquired Louisiana Purchase, seeking a useable route to the Pacific Ocean. Since in this area the Purchase covered land west of the Missouri River it was only natural that the expedition started out by boat up the river before it faced west and moved toward the mountains.

Because land now along the Iowa-Nebraska section of the Missouri is in dispute, neither state can offer a durable title the Bureau of Reclamation needs to establish the Lewis and Clark Trail, the Bureau has advised both states to settle the dispute by accepting the middle of the stabilized river channel as the permanent boundary.

Now we don't know just what that will lead to. The town of Carter Lake which was once a part of the mainland of Iowa is now on the Nebraska side of the river. The Carter Lake citizens and the Iowa legislature can't bear to give the town to Nebraska. But elsewhere downstream Iowa will pick up 2.5 acres to every one by a middle-of-the-river settlement. Iowa would gain in that respect by several million dollars.

We don't know how that matter can be resolved. But it now appears that it will be solved or there will be no Lewis and Clark Trail.

Hazardous Work

In this finest of all countries there are still a number of things that are not so fine.

The National Education Association has finished a sampling among the schools of the country. It has discovered that 14 of every 1,000 teachers will be shot, stabbed, bludgeoned or beaten with fists every year. Ten times that many will suffer less serious attacks. And five times that many will have to take action to disarm their bad pupils.

We can say in the Midwest that it is only half that bad. But it is twice that bad in the heavy population centers in the northeast part of the country.

This does not speak well for a so-called civilized country in a field of activity that really offers little provocation for acts of violence

The NEA traces 36.6 per cent of this bad record to poor home conditions, another 33.3 per cent to failure of training in moral and spiritual values. Increased availability of automobiles contributes 28.3 per cent.

Surprisingly enough, undesirable comic books and blood and thunder television programs combined to make a relatively small 16 per cent.

This sounds like a bad indictment of the young people, but when one considers the causes it is a much more serious indictment of parents who either do not know how or do not care to teach and live in such a way as to inculcate sound moral and spiritual values in their children.

That is one bad thing about being an adult. Whenever they criticize anyone it generally winds up that it is their own fault. Apparently they have an almost perfect monopoly on making mistakes.

Solon Challenges Walter Reed Story

Editor note: Drew Pearson is newsgathering overseas. Today the column is written by his associate, Jack Anderson.

WASHINGTON — In the matter of bathroom conveniences, Rep. Durward Hall, R-Mo., would like the wounded soldiers at Walter Reed Army hospital to know that they are better off than congressmen.

The dignified Dr. Hall, who practiced medicine before he entered politics, inspected the hospital to see for himself whether this column had told the truth about crowded conditions in the enlisted men's wards.

He returned to the House floor to deliver a ringing denunciation of this column for practicing "yellow journalism." Indignantly, he declared:

"The charge has been made by the writer of the scurrilous article that there are insufficient latrine facilities (for enlisted patients). Mr. Speaker, this compares very interestingly in a 45-bed ward with the number of standup receptacles or sitdown receptacles of the House of Representatives.

"We have 435 members here, and a simple calculation and counting of the number of stalls in our speaker's cloakroom will indicate that these men are in much better condition than we."

Dr. Hall also neglected to mention that in his congressional office the taxpayers thoughtfully provided him with a private bathroom just a few steps from his cushioned swivel chair.

Indeed, most congressmen, except those with low seniority who are relegated to the old Cannon building, can wash up without stepping outside their office suites. In the case of the Cannon building, the oversight will be corrected as soon as remodelers can get to work next month.

The patients were more frank in describing conditions to a group of New Jersey Legionaires, who traveled all the way from Hudson county, N.J., to Washington, D.C., to check on the accuracy of the Walter Reed story. They toured the hospital unaccompanied by the brass.

Afterward, they reported their findings to their congressman, Dominick Daniels, D-N.J., who later told the House: "They noted that the patients had nothing but praise for the doctors. However, almost to a man they pointed out that the hospital is woefully understaffed . . . they reported that the enlisted facilities were inadequate and antiquated."

A few klansmen may be shocked over how much their leaders have cleaned up from the movement. House investigators claim that the most imperial of the imperial wizards, Robert Shelton of the United Klans, has a limousine and a private airplane . . . air pollution in Chicago is so bad that Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, during a stopover at a Chicago airport, refused an invitation to step outside for a breath of fresh air. "If you want a breath of fresh air," said Udall, "you stay inside in a place like this."

TWA Gets To Carry The Pope

NEW YORK — The most extraordinary security was invoked on the papa trip as the involved logistics and plans were being shaped. On two occasions Msgr. Marcinkus, a big muscular native of Chicago who handles Vatican's press and other details, shepherded Rome-based cardinals to New York to coordinate the trip. The cardinals wore plain grey suits and sat in different areas of the planes that flew them. TWA winced that it was forbidden to publicize this unusual traffic.

There were scores of meetings on Alitalia and TWA planners. Some of them intended to coordinate the accommodations, food and service to be offered. TWA worried down to the end whether Alitalia would spring a cold-plate service. Each line completely redecorated the Pope's quarters.

A number of trans-Atlantic phone calls and cables were needed to straighten out a debate between TW. planners on the matter of the crucifix that was to decorate the bulkhead behind the Pope's desk on the TWA plane. Somebody in the Vatican liked a suggestion by TWA that a crucifix be found in an old mission in the West or southwest—a cross dating back to the earliest days of the church in America. Somebody in the New York archdiocese took a dim view of this because the early churches were Spanish and French. The debate still was going on at press time.

The hair-raising "buzzing" which Turkish air force fighters bestowed on Pope Paul's plane while it passed over Turkey on the way home from India last December prompted TWA to ask all countries over which its papal plane flies to keep their fighters at least a mile away and at an altitude 300 feet higher or lower than the Pope's ship.

The request was aimed chiefly at the Italian Air Force, which boasts of some of the hottest pilots in the free world. Their prime interceptor is the Lockheed F-104, which flies at twice the speed of sound. Their air force communications system is not tied into the commercial system. Different signals, wavebands, etc.

Not long ago a TWA jet had to make a grinding bank to escape colliding with two Italian Air Force fighters coming at it head-on. Two stewardesses were hurt badly enough to need hospitalization. The plane landed without further trouble at a Swiss airport, where it was discovered that it had popped a number of rivets. It was ferried to Paris for a thorough overhaul. The Italians have not as yet explained why their fighters invaded TWA's assigned air space.

TWA took extra precautions with the Pope's trip. The plane was searched from nose-wheel to tail fin by a bomb squad three hours before take-off. Everybody's baggage, including the Pope's, was searched before it was put aboard. And, finally, TWA discreetly told its veteran pilot, Capt. George Duvall, not to come "on the pipe" with his fractured French as he tools the Pope over de Gaullesville

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: What is meant by plastic surgery? —Mrs. A.C.M.

Surgery means treatment of disease by operation with instruments, by which we ordinarily mean cutting, but surgery means more than that. Electrical or radio-frequency instruments are used for special purposes, and there is experimentation and some practical use now of laser beams, highly concentrated light rays. Orthopedic surgeons use braces, casts, splints and other devices to bring bones into proper position.

So surgery means a great deal more than a scalpel (or knife). And of course it should. The fundamental purpose is to help people get well by any method possible.

Molner

The word "plastic" means the molding or shaping of something. In this case, it is shaping by surgery. Doubtless the general impression of plastic surgery is that it changes the shape of a face—makes a nose smaller or larger, and the same for a chin and perhaps other features. It means changing the angle of ears that stick out too much. It also has come to mean the "face-lifting" procedure by which the surgeon takes a tuck or two, or several tucks, to make a wrinkled face look smoother. In special cases, the sag has been removed from "bags under the eyes."

All of these are for cosmetic purposes — making a person look better. Along with this, plastic surgeons have made a fine art of doing incisions and then suturing them together so that the resulting scar, if any, is virtually invisible.

However, plastic surgery encompasses more than cosmetic surgery. When a child is born with a cleft palate or "hare lip," the plastic surgeon repairs it. Plastic surgeons have been part of the "team" when a heart valve has had to be altered in shape to work properly. In the war (and in accident cases) when a face or some other part of the body has been mangled, the plastic surgeon reconstructs it. Amazing work has been done in reconstructing crushed and torn hands, and although the surgeons doing this do not usually regard themselves as "plastic surgeons," it is plastic surgery.

This is only a sample of what plastic surgery means, because many parts of the body, on the surface or inside, have to be molded or shaped to foster or improve health.

Plastic surgery is a very important aspect of the healing arts, quite apart from cosmetic purposes.

Dear Dr. Molner: Does dried milk have the same nourishment and qualities as skimmed milk—vitamins etc.?—H.E.S.

In general, yes, or sometimes more. With skimmed milk, most of the fat (and hence calories, plus Vitamin A) have been removed. If the fat is left in dried milk, it will have more nourishment than skimmed milk. If it is "fat-free" dried milk, it will be about the same as skimmed.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it harmful to use the artificial sweeteners several times a day? I see that artificial sweetened products contain a warning, "only to be used by persons who must restrict sugar intake." Does that apply only to diabetics, or is it safe for dieters?—S.F.

Yes, it is safe for dieters. Dieters must restrict sugar intake to cut calories.

It's true that the phrase you quote appears on sugarless soft drinks or other foods using artificial sweeteners. And it does SEEM to have an ominous ring to it.

However, remember that our "pure food and drug laws" go back half a century or so. Recently we've all been considerably preoccupied with the matter of drugs. The government, however, has not lost sight of its responsibility to see that foods are pure, too.

Sugar is a food, whether it's in a soft drink or in anything else. If you take the sugar out of a bottle of pop, you have then and there removed virtually all of its "food" value. You have a right to know that, and therefore such sugarless soft drinks or other similar products are labeled.

As recently as the latter part of May, the Food and Drug Administration issued a new report on this and pointed out that "artificial sweeteners — saccharin and the cyclamates — have been used in foods for many years to provide a reduced caloric intake by replacing the sugar in the diet. Such products are labeled as food for special dietary use."

Saccharin has been used for quite a long time. Sodium cyclamate is somewhat newer, although not really "new" as we think of that term. As long ago as 1955 the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences recommended that these artificial sweeteners be used by people needing to lower their calorie intake, whether for diabetes, losing weight or any other good purpose. It was pointed out then that the cyclamates could have a mild laxative effect if taken at the rate of more than 5 grams a day, but that's a lot of sweetening.

More studies. Same conclusion repeated in 1962.

Now repeated in 1965. Here's your answer: There is no known risk in any of the artificial sweeteners in amounts that anyone will normally use them.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

PIERRE J. HUSS

'Big Stick' Best For Keeping Peace

NEW YORK—The 1962 confrontation between Russia and the U.S. over Soviet missiles and troops in Cuba brought home dramatically and frighteningly to the American people the spectre of nuclear war. The hairline escape from that catastrophe jolted the Western hemisphere and the rest of the world into the realization that the possibility of World War III cannot be ruled out in our time.

If anyone needed further convincing, the proof was there ten days ago in the loaded India-Pakistan war crisis, with the Peking warlords whipping up hatreds and tension while serving out ultimatums that contained the seeds of World War III.

True, the dramatic impact was less than in the 1962 confrontation between the U.S. and Russia, but the hairline was fast approaching, and an escalating conflict in the Himalayas breathed down the neck of U.N. after India and Pakistan failed to accept outright demands from U.N. Secretary General U Thant for a cease-fire.

On Sept. 16 U Thant flew back from Rawalpindi and New Delhi to call for stiff action by the council. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, who saw the danger signal if U.N. failed to act, cracked the whip relentlessly and by non-stop council sessions drove to a successful end of the Kashmir War at dawn on Sept. 22.

A glance back at the Asian war crisis offers pointers that shouldn't be overlooked. First, do not fall back into the complacent thinking that the Peking warlords have been cowed and have abandoned the idea of engulfing the subcontinent or other Southeast Asian nations. They held back from military aggression against India because UN and the U.S. and Britain got through to them the message that an attack on India would be an attack on all of us. But you can bet your boots that the "war of nerves" exploited increasingly by the Red dragon in recent years will keep the pressure and the tension just near the breaking point.

Second, there must now be the clear realization in Peking that a good many sound-thinking leaders and influentials in the U.S. and Britain are of the opinion that this is the time to eradicate Red China's nuclear military threat, and that it will be far more difficult in ten years to accomplish the job. Furthermore, the chances are good that the Soviet Union now would stand aside and secretly applaud the smashing of Red China, since that would restore full leadership of the communist world to Moscow.

Third, the Indo-Pakistan war under the old Sino-Soviet communist togetherness could have been the opportune moment to promote disorder and revolt in non-communist Asian lands. A joint ultimatum to India from Russia and Red China would in all probability have been enough to nullify the U.N. intervention threat and would have brought compliance by India to Moscow-Peking demands.

It must be galling to Peking, therefore, to weigh the results of the costly maneuvers and "war of nerves" that gained very little for the Red dragon except that it alerted the outside world to the dangers and weakness of the Chinese giant. A united communist action was needed, but what happened was that before the eyes of the whole world, Chinese communist leaders were the naked aggressors while the communist leaders in Moscow were made to look good because they sided with U.N. and the West in protecting India and thus safeguarding the peace on the subcontinent.

I doubt that there could be a more enraging development to the Peking warlords. They have screamed that the Soviet leaders have betrayed revolutionary communism. They overlook the fact that the Soviet Union is as fanatically communist as ever, except that the Kremlin and its military leaders understand better than the Peking warlords the futility and folly of courting nuclear war with the United States. Nor do the Peking warlords seem to realize that the Soviet Union no longer can rule East Europe with gun and tank alone, but must juggle its rule with political palliatives and economic deals while stressing better living standards at home in place of foreign adventures. By force of circumstances, Russia can only instigate "wars of liberation" in Africa, Asia and Latin America, not fight them or risk war with the West if the Soviet Union is to match U.S. power and influence in the current decade.

In summary, the dramatic events on the Himalayan front these past weeks have demonstrated once again that we live in a dangerous world and that the best way to preserve the peace is for the U.S. and its allies along with U.N. to keep handy an overwhlming striking power.

Then, when you consider that our state is relatively small in financial matters compared to others and the federal government dwarfs any state in the Union, you get a good picture of how tall Uncle Sam stands in economic matters.

Such facts as those are interesting while others are of more importance. Falling into the more important category are the facts relating to the ridiculous situation that recently developed at the State Penal Farm at Mead. Fortunately for the state, it released the facts itself and thus eliminated a lot of the heat it might otherwise have received.

The situation of inmates in control of the farm was made known through a report obtained through the office of Institutions Director George Morris. The report was made by an invesitgator of the State Safety Patrol. It showed inmates having the upper hand over guards at the farm and having engaged in wild parties at the farm as well as away. At one time, inmates left the farm, burglarized some places and returned to the farm with their loot. The script reads like something you might see on a TV comedy hour except that it isn't very funny in real life. Weaknesses in the administration of the farm are obvious.

It is amazing that the situation could get to the point it had before being discovered. It would seem that even routine precautions could have prevented this kind of thing from hitting such proportions but such precautions must have been absent. Some of the other problems demonstrated by the incident can be shared by the entire state. Farm guards who let things develop as they did and those who actually took part in some of the crimes committed provide the state with no pride. Also some of the inmates at the farm obviously belong in the Penitentiary, a weakness in the judgment or classification of these men. How much of the fault, however, lives with state administration and how much with a state that provides only limited tools with which administration can work? Better guards mean higher salaries, and better analysis and rehabilitation of prisoners mean more trained personnel.

Neither Morris nor Warden Maurice Sigler would maintain that they are blameless in the situation. Being in charge of things leaves the monkey on their back and they can't escape that. But it is a good bet that either of them could give you a blueprint of operations whereby such things would not happen. It would, however, cost money.

There are still more things to look at in connection with this story. The two Mead guards largely responsible for what happened give a bad name in the public's eye to all guards, most of whom are highly dedicated men and totally honorable. The average guard is underpaid but he isn't short on integrity.

Too, people ought to understand before condemning anyone that the prison system is probably the toughest operation to handle in state government. The threat of things going wrong is constant and the slightest weakness in administration is likely to be exploited to the fullest potential. And finally, it is to the advantage of the state that the report was made public even though it placed the administration in a bad light.

Release Of Report

Also, it was the administration itself that uncovered its problem and took steps to solve it. This is far more commendable than might otherwise have been the case. What we now have is an unfortunate development that is over and done with while we might have had a major scandal or even more serious criminal actions.

DREW PEARSON

Solon Challenges Walter Reed Story

Editor note: Drew Pearson is newsgathering overseas. Today the column is written by his associate, Jack Anderson.

WASHINGTON — In the matter of bathroom conveniences, Rep. Durward Hall, R-Mo., would like the wounded soldiers at Walter Reed Army hospital to know that they are better off than congressmen.

The dignified Dr. Hall, who practiced medicine before he entered politics, inspected the hospital to see for himself whether this column had told the truth about crowded conditions in the enlisted men's wards.

He returned to the House floor to deliver a ringing denunciation of this column for practicing "yellow journalism." Indignantly, he declared:

"The charge has been made by the writer of the scurrilous article that there are insufficient latrine facilities (for enlisted patients). Mr. Speaker, this compares very interestingly in a 45-bed ward with the number of standup receptacles or sitdown receptacles of the House of Representatives.

"We have 435 members here, and a simple calculation and counting of the number of stalls in our speaker's cloakroom will indicate that these men are in much better condition than we."

Dr. Hall also neglected to mention that in his congressional office the taxpayers thoughtfully provided him with a private bathroom just a few steps from his cushioned swivel chair.

Indeed, most congressmen, except those with low seniority who are relegated to the old Cannon building, can wash up without stepping outside their office suites. In the case of the Cannon building, the oversight will be corrected as soon as remodelers can get to work next month.

The patients were more frank in describing conditions to a group of New Jersey Legionaires, who traveled all the way from Hudson county, N.J., to Washington, D.C., to check on the accuracy of the Walter Reed story. They toured the hospital unaccompanied by the brass.

Afterward, they reported their findings to their congressman, Dominick Daniels, D-N.J., who later told the House: "They noted that the patients had nothing but praise for the doctors. However, almost to a man they pointed out that the hospital is woefully understaffed . . . they reported that the enlisted facilities were inadequate and antiquated."

A few klansmen may be shocked over how much their leaders have cleaned up from the movement. House investigators claim that the most imperial of the imperial wizards, Robert Shelton of the United Klans, has a limousine and a private airplane . . . air pollution in Chicago is so bad that Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, during a stopover at a Chicago airport, refused an invitation to step outside for a breath of fresh air. "If you want a breath of fresh air," said Udall, "you stay inside in a place like this."

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: What is meant by plastic surgery? —Mrs. A.C.M.

Surgery means treatment of disease by operation with instruments, by which we ordinarily mean cutting, but surgery means more than that. Electrical or radio-frequency instruments are used for special purposes, and there is experimentation and some practical use now of laser beams, highly concentrated light rays. Orthopedic surgeons use braces, casts, splints and other devices to bring bones into proper position.

So surgery means a great deal more than a scalpel (or knife). And of course it should. The fundamental purpose is to help people get well by any method possible.

Molner

The word "plastic" means the molding or shaping of something. In this case, it is shaping by surgery.

Doubtless the general impression of plastic surgery is that it changes the shape of a face—makes a nose smaller or larger, and the same for a chin and perhaps other features. It means changing the angle of ears that stick out too much. It also has come to mean the "face-lifting" procedure by which the surgeon takes a tuck or two, or several tucks, to make a wrinkled face look smoother. In special cases, the sag has been removed from "bags under the eyes."

All of these are for cosmetic purposes — making a person look better. Along with this, plastic surgeons have made a fine art of doing incisions and then suturing them together so that the resulting scar, if any, is virtually invisible.

However, plastic surgery encompasses more than cosmetic surgery. When a child is born with a cleft palate or "hare lip," the plastic surgeon repairs it. Plastic surgeons have been part of the "team" when a heart valve has had to be altered in shape to work properly. In the war (and in accident cases) when a face or some other part of the body has been mangled, the plastic surgeon reconstructs it. Amazing work has been done in reconstructing crushed and torn hands, and although the surgeons doing this do not usually regard themselves as "plastic surgeons," it is plastic surgery.

This is only a sample of what plastic surgery means, because many parts of the body, on the surface or inside, have to be molded or shaped to foster or improve health.

Plastic surgery is a very important aspect of the healing arts, quite apart from cosmetic purposes.

Dear Dr. Molner: Does dried milk have the same nourishment and qualities as skimmed milk—vitamins etc.?—H.E.S.

In general, yes, or sometimes more. With skimmed milk, most of the fat (and hence calories, plus Vitamin A) have been removed. If the fat is left in dried milk, it will have more nourishment than skimmed milk. If it is "fat-free" dried milk, it will be about the same as skimmed.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it harmful to use the artificial sweeteners several times a day? I see that artificial sweetened products contain a warning, "only to be used by persons who must restrict sugar intake." Does that apply only to diabetics, or is it safe for dieters?—S.F.

Yes, it is safe for dieters. Dieters must restrict sugar intake to cut calories.

It's true that the phrase you quote appears on sugarless soft drinks or other foods using artificial sweeteners. And it does SEEM to have an ominous ring to it.

However, remember that our "pure food and drug laws" go back half a century or so. Recently we've all been considerably preoccupied with the matter of drugs. The government, however, has not lost sight of its responsibility to see that foods are pure, too.

Sugar is a food, whether it's in a soft drink or in anything else. If you take the sugar out of a bottle of pop, you have then and there removed virtually all of its "food" value. You have a right to know that, and therefore such sugarless soft drinks or other similar products are labeled.

As recently as the latter part of May, the Food and Drug Administration issued a new report on this and pointed out that "artificial sweeteners — saccharin and the cyclamates — have been used in foods for many years to provide a reduced caloric intake by replacing the sugar in the diet. Such products are labeled as food for special dietary use."

Saccharin has been used for quite a long time. Sodium cyclamate is somewhat newer, although not really "new" as we think of that term. As long ago as 1955 the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences recommended that these artificial sweeteners be used by people needing to lower their calorie intake, whether for diabetes, losing weight or any other good purpose. It was pointed out then that the cyclamates could have a mild laxative effect if taken at the rate of more than 5 grams a day, but that's a lot of sweetening.

More studies. Same conclusion repeated in 1962.

Now repeated in 1965. Here's your answer: There is no known risk in any of the artificial sweeteners in amounts that anyone will normally use them.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Farm And City Ties

The community of interest that really exists between rural and urban people has been shown in this week's meeting of the Nebraska State Grange in Lincoln. The Grange is not the largest farm organization in Nebraska but it has historically been a solid, forward looking voice for farming.

State Grange Master Albert J. Ebers of Seward made an unusual point in his annual message to the convention. He wondered aloud if farm people should not be supporting the application of the federal minimum wage laws to agriculture.

One would think that agriculture, being in a tight financial position, would not want anything to do with a law that would hike the cost of farm labor. But the family farm gets far less benefit from exclusion under the federal wage law than does the large, corporate type farm. Thus, the cheap labor possible without a minimum wage law hurts rather than helps the family farm and it is there that the Grange has its greatest concern.

Also, the Grange has been a worthy proponent of the newly enacted income tax law for Nebraska. Study after study has shown that Nebraska agriculture pays a disproportionate share of taxes under the property tax system we rely upon so heavily.

The same thing holds true for the small wage earner and home owner in the city. He pays taxes on the major and sometimes only real investment has—his home—while those with big investments in other forms of wealth escape much of their responsibility. The farmer and the city man still should come to a better appreciation of the fact that they need to hang together or they will all hang separately.

Trial Hinges On Agreement

The unending-low pressure dispute between Iowa and Nebraska over the proper Missouri River frontier has been greatly confounded from an unexpected source—believe it or not, by rulings of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation of the U.S. Department of Interior in the proposed development of the Lewis and Clark Trail.

Lewis and Clark, with their helpers conducted an exploration trip, in 1805, of the newly acquired Louisiana Purchase, seeking a useable route to the Pacific Ocean. Since in this area the Purchase covered land west of the Missouri River it was only natural that the expedition started out by boat up the river before it faced west and moved toward the mountains.

Because land now along the Iowa-Nebraska section of the Missouri is in dispute, neither state can offer a durable title the Bureau of Reclamation needs to establish the Lewis and Clark Trail, the Bureau has advised both states to settle the dispute by accepting the middle of the stabilized river channel as the permanent boundary.

Now we don't know just what that will lead to. The town of Carter Lake which was once a part of the mainland of Iowa is now on the Nebraska side of the river. The Carter Lake citizens and the Iowa legislature can't bear to give the town to Nebraska. But elsewhere downstream Iowa will pick up 2.5 acres to every one by a middle-of-the-river settlement. Iowa would gain in that respect by several million dollars.

We don't know how that matter can be resolved. But it now appears that it will be solved or there will be no Lewis and Clark Trail.

Hazardous Work

In this finest of all countries there are still a number of things that are not so fine.

The National Education Association has finished a sampling among the schools of the country. It has discovered that 14 of every 1,000 teachers will be shot, stabbed, bludgeoned or beaten with fists every year. Ten times that many will suffer less serious attacks. And five times that many will have to take action to disarm their bad pupils.

We can say in the Midwest that it is only half that bad. But it is twice that bad in the heavy population centers in the northeast part of the country.

This does not speak well for a so-called civilized country in a field of activity that really offers little provocation for acts of violence.

The NEA traces 36.6 per cent of this bad record to poor home conditions, another 33.3 per cent to failure of training in moral and spiritual values. Increased availability of automobiles contributes 28.3 per cent.

Surprisingly enough, undesirable comic books and blood and thunder television programs combined to make a relatively small 16 per cent.

This sounds like a bad indictment of the young people, but when one considers the causes it is a much more serious indictment of parents who either do not know how or do not care to teach and live in such a way as to inculcate sound moral and spiritual values in their children.

That is one bad thing about being an adult. Whenever they criticize anyone it generally winds up that it is their own fault. Apparently they have an almost perfect monopoly on making mistakes.

TWA Gets To Carry The Pope

NEW YORK — The most extraordinary security was invoked on the papa trip as the involved logistics and plans were being shaped. On two occasions Msgr. Marcinkus, a big muscular native of Chicago who handles Vatican's press and other details, shepherded Rome-based cardinals to New York to coordinate the trip. The cardinals wore plain grey suits and sat in different areas of the planes that flew them. TWA winced that it was forbidden to publicize this unusual traffic.

There were scores of meetings on Alitalia and TWA planners. Some of them intended to coordinate the accommodations, food and service to be offered. TWA worried down to the end whether Alitalia would spring a cold-plate service. Each line completely redecorated the Pope's quarters.

A number of trans-Atlantic phone calls and cables were needed to straighten out a debate between TW. planners on the matter of the crucifix that was to decorate the bulkhead behind the Pope's desk on the TWA plane. Somebody in the Vatican liked a suggestion by TWA that a crucifix be found in an old mission in the West or southwest—a cross dating back to the earliest days of the church in America. Somebody in the New York archdiocese took a dim view of this because the early churches were Spanish and French. The debate still was going on at press time.

The hair-raising "buzzing" which Turkish air force fighters bestowed on Pope Paul's plane while it passed over Turkey on the way home from India last December prompted TWA to ask all countries over which its papal plane flies to keep their fighters at least a mile away and at an altitude 300 feet higher or lower than the Pope's ship.

The request was aimed chiefly at the Italian Air Force, which boasts of some of the hottest pilots in the free world. Their prime interceptor is the Lockheed F-104, which flies at twice the speed of sound. Their air force communications system is not tied into the commercial system. Different signals, wavebands, etc.

Not long ago a TWA jet had to make a grinding bank to escape colliding with two Italian Air Force fighters coming at it head-on. Two stewardesses were hurt badly enough to need hospitalization. The plane landed without further trouble at a Swiss airport, where it was discovered that it had popped a number of rivets. It was ferried to Paris for a thorough overhaul. The Italians have not as yet explained why their fighters invaded TWA's assigned air space.

TWA took extra precautions with the Pope's trip. The plane was searched from nose-wheel to tail fin by a bomb squad three hours before take-off. Everybody's baggage, including the Pope's, was searched before it was put aboard. And, finally, TWA discreetly told its veteran pilot, Capt. George Duvall, not to come "on the pipe" with his fractured French as he tools the Pope over de Gaullesville.

'Big Stick' Best For Keeping Peace

NEW YORK—The 1962 confrontation between Russia and the U.S. over Soviet missiles and troops in Cuba brought home dramatically and frighteningly to the American people the spectre of nuclear war. The hairline escape from that catastrophe jolted the Western hemisphere and the rest of the world into the realization that the possibility of World War III cannot be ruled out in our time.

If anyone needed further convincing, the proof was there ten days ago in the loaded India-Pakistan war crisis, with the Peking warlords whipping up hatreds and tension while serving out ultimatums that contained the seeds of World War III.

True, the dramatic impact was less than in the 1962 confrontation between the U.S. and Russia, but the hairline was fast approaching, and an escalating conflict in the Himalayas breathed down the neck of U.N. after India and Pakistan failed to accept outright demands from U.N. Secretary General U Thant for a cease-fire.

On Sept. 16 U Thant flew back from Rawalpindi and New Delhi to call for stiff action by the council. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, who saw the danger signal if U.N. failed to act, cracked the whip relentlessly and by non-stop council sessions drove to a successful end of the Kashmir War at dawn on Sept. 22.

A glance back at the Asian war crisis offers pointers that shouldn't be overlooked. First, do not fall back into the complacent thinking that the Peking warlords have been cowed and have abandoned the idea of engulfing the subcontinent or other Southeast Asian nations. They held back from military aggression against India because UN and the U.S. and Britain got through to them the message that an attack on India would be an attack on all of us. But you can bet your boots that the "war of nerves" exploited increasingly by the Red dragon in recent years will keep the pressure and the tension just near the breaking point.

Second, there must now be the clear realization in Peking that a good many sound-thinking leaders and influentials in the U.S. and Britain are of the opinion that this is the time to eradicate Red China's nuclear military threat, and that it will be far more difficult in ten years to accomplish the job. Furthermore, the chances are good that the Soviet Union now would stand aside and secretly applaud the smashing of Red China, since that would restore full leadership of the communist world to Moscow.

Third, the Indo-Pakistan war under the old Sino-Soviet communist togetherness could have been the opportune moment to promote disorder and revolt in non-communist Asian lands. A joint ultimatum to India from Russia and Red China would in all probability have been enough to nullify the U.N. intervention threat and would have brought compliance by India to Moscow-Peking demands.

It must be galling to Peking, therefore, to weigh the results of the costly maneuvers and "war of nerves" that gained very little for the Red dragon except that it alerted the outside world to the dangers and weakness of the Chinese giant. A united communist action was needed, but what happened was that before the eyes of the whole world, Chinese communist leaders were the naked aggressors while the communist leaders in Moscow were made to look good because they sided with U.N. and the West in protecting India and thus safeguarding the peace on the subcontinent.

I doubt that there could be a more enraging development to the Peking warlords. They have screamed that the Soviet leaders have betrayed revolutionary communism. They overlook the fact that the Soviet Union is as fanatically communist as ever, except that the Kremlin and its military leaders understand better than the Peking warlords the futility and folly of courting nuclear war with the United States. Nor do the Peking warlords seem to realize that the Soviet Union no longer can rule East Europe with gun and tank alone, but must juggle its rule with political palliatives and economic deals while stressing better living standards at home in place of foreign adventures. By force of circumstances, Russia can only instigate "wars of liberation" in Africa, Asia and Latin America, not fight them or risk war with the West if the Soviet Union is to match U.S. power and influence in the current decade.

In summary, the dramatic events on the Himalayan front these past weeks have demonstrated once again that we live in a dangerous world and that the best way to preserve the peace is for the U.S. and its allies along with U.N. to keep handy an overwhlming striking power.

OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed

Test Vote In Senate Set Friday On 14B

Washington (AP) — Still groping for a way out of a Senate filibuster, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana Wednesday set 1 p.m. Friday for the first test vote on a law giving the states authority to ban the union shop.

Mansfield announced he will move then to table and thus kill his own motion to call up a bill repealing Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley law, under which 19 states have banned union shop contracts.

The Democratic leader told newsmen he plans to make a speech calling for "the largest possible vote against" his tabling motion.

The reason he is making a motion he hopes will be defeated, he explained Tuesday, is that it offers a nondebatable way of bringing about a roll call vote.

'Honest Expression'

He said that while this will not settle anything, it should bring "an honest expression of the attitudes of members" on the controversy and hence "provide some measure of guidance" on the course desired by the majority.

Mansfield obtained unanimous consent to have the test vote taken at 1 p.m. Friday. He said this would give absent senators plenty of time to return to Washington.

The filibuster against calling up the 14B repealer is being waged by a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats under the direction of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader.

Termed 'Invasion'

Dirksen contends the AFL-CIO-backed move to repeal authority for the state laws against union shop contracts would be an invasion of state sovereignty.

Holding the floor at Wednesday's session was the Senate's champion filibusterer, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. Thurmond talked for 24 hours and 19 minutes against a civil rights bill in 1957, and the record still stands.

Only two or three other senators were present when Thurmond set out Wednesday on a speech he said would run about six hours. He told news men he might not deliver all of it at one session, but he had a can of beef boullion on his desk for refreshment.

Tax Court Rules U.S. Red Party Must Pay Income Tax

Washington (AP)— The U.S. Tax Court ruled Wednesday that the U.S. Communist Party must pay federal income taxes.

It upheld an Internal Revenue Service finding that the party owes $326,313 in income tax and penalties for 1951.

The ruling by Tax Court Judge Graydon G. Withey is subject to review by a federal court of appeals if the party chooses to appeal.

The Communist Party had claimed tax-exempt status under a provision of the tax code exempting some charitable, religious, educational and fraternal groups.

But Withey said his examination of the code "generally fails to disclose any basis upon which we can determine that (the party) is among those entities determined by Congress to be exempt from income taxation."

The 55-year-old judge noted that the party never has filed a federal income tax return —nor any application for exemption from the tax.

Noting that the only financial records maintained by the party were payroll and Social Security records and unexplained checks, he said the revenue service was entirely justified in computing the Communist Party's taxable income from its bank deposits. The party had asked the court to rule that the revenue service had acted arbitrarily in determining the taxable income in that manner.

Withey also said in an eight-page memorandum that the party had failed to prove that its bank deposits represented the tax-exempt dues of its members.

The party is to go on trial here Oct. 20 on a criminal indictment charging it with failure to register as a subversive organization under the 1950 Internal Security Act. A conviction in a previous trial was reversed on appeal.

How You May

Never Take a Laxative Again!

New Miracle Regulator Keeps Waste Soft—So Bowels Move Naturally

New York, N.Y. (Special)—After 12 years' research, scientists have discovered a wonder-working substance that corrects constipation entirely without laxatives!

Doctors say most constipation occurs when waste loses moisture in the colon—becomes dry, hard, difficult to move. To give relief, laxatives have to force action by flushing, irritating or distending the intestine

The new miracle substance—known medically as dioctyl sodium sulfosuccinate—works in a completely different way. It is not a laxative! It simply makes natural moisture in the colon moisten and soften dry, hard waste more effectively. Then normal elimination follows naturally. Thus by working only on waste, not on you, the substance corrects constipation and restores regularity as no laxative can.

This new discovery has now been made available at drugstores under the name REGUTOL. It is safe—not habit-forming. No warning on the label—no prescription needed. Try REGUTOL—discover for yourself that you may never need to take a laxative again!

American Motors Challenges the "Big 3" of Detroit—With 4 New Lines of '66 Cars That Give the Public What it Wants.

Last time it was size. This time? A new concept of quality: Quality that's built in—not added on. The American Motors promise: more built-in quality features—for extra comfort, safety, performance, and economy—at no extra price.

Remember when American Motors came out with the trim little Rambler and knocked the Detroit "Giants" on their collective ear? Overnight, big fins and fat land yachts went out of style. American Motors came along with the right cars at the right time and caught the competition napping. This year, almost half the automobiles sold are Rambler-size cars.

Round one to the "Giant-Killer." What next? For '66, what has American Motors got up its sleeve? New trend? . . . Yes.

For '66, American Motors again gets the jump on the big boys, again anticipates the public trend in taste with a new rallying cry: Quality! Not showy quality that is tacked on and costs extra. A new kind of quiet quality that is built in as standard equipment on every car in the line.

This is the American Motors credo. Quality that's built in—not added on. First, determine what has to go into a car to make it stronger, safer, more comfortable, more dependable, more luxurious, longer lasting. Then put it there. Regardless of whether it shows or not. Regardless of cost. Build it in. Quality under the hood, under the roof, under the seats. In every car from the smallest to the largest. This is what today's customer is looking for.

Ready to be convinced? Ready to be surprised? Check this page for a preview of the 4 sleek challengers. New cars. New names. First, admire the styling of these exciting cars. ("What? Test Vote In Senate Set Friday On 14B

Washington (AP) — Still groping for a way out of a Senate filibuster, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana Wednesday set 1 p.m. Friday for the first test vote on a law giving the states authority to ban the union shop.

Mansfield announced he will move then to table and thus kill his own motion to call up a bill repealing Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley law, under which 19 states have banned union shop contracts.

The Democratic leader told newsmen he plans to make a speech calling for "the largest possible vote against" his tabling motion.

The reason he is making a motion he hopes will be defeated, he explained Tuesday, is that it offers a nondebatable way of bringing about a roll call vote.

'Honest Expression'

He said that while this will not settle anything, it should bring "an honest expression of the attitudes of members" on the controversy and hence 'provide some measure of guidance" on the course desired by the majority.

Mansfield obtained unanimous consent to have the test vote taken at 1 p.m. Friday. He said this would give absent senators plenty of time to return to Washington.

The filibuster against calling up the 14B repealer is being waged by a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats under the direction of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader.

Termed 'Invasion'

Dirksen contends the AFL-CIO-backed move to repeal authority for the state laws against union shop contracts would be an invasion of state sovereignty.

Holding the floor at Wednesday's session was the Senate's champion filibusterer, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. Thurmond talked for 24 hours and 19 minutes against a civil rights bill in 1957, and the record still stands.

Only two or three other senators were present when Thurmond set out Wednesday on a speech he said would run about six hours. He told newsmen he might not deliver all of it at one session, but he had a can of beef boullion on his desk for refreshment.

Tax Court Rules U.S. Red Party Must Pay Income Tax

Washington (AP)— The U.S. Tax Court ruled Wednesday that the U.S. Communist Party must pay federal income taxes.

It upheld an Internal Revenue Service finding that the party owes $326,313 in income tax and penalties for 1951.

The ruling by Tax Court Judge Graydon G. Withey is subject to review by a federal court of appeals if the party chooses to appeal.

The Communist Party had claimed tax-exempt status under a provision of the tax code exempting some charitable, religious, educational and fraternal groups.

But Withey said his examination of the code "generally fails to disclose any basis upon which we can determine that (the party) is among those entities determined by Congress to be exempt from income taxation."

The 55-year-old judge noted that the party never has filed a federal income tax return —nor any application for exemption from the tax.

Noting that the only financial records maintained by the party were payroll and Social Security records and unexplained checks, he said the revenue service was entirely justified in computing the Communist Party's taxable income from its bank deposits. The party had asked the court to rule that the revenue service had acted arbitrarily in determining the taxable income in that manner.

Withey also said in an eight-page memorandum that the party had failed to prove that its bank deposits represented the tax-exempt dues of its members.

The party is to go on trial here Oct. 20 on a criminal indictment charging it with failure to register as a subversive organization under the 1950 Internal Security Act. A conviction in a previous trial was reversed on appeal.

How You May

Never Take a Laxative Again!

New Miracle Regulator Keeps Waste Soft—So Bowels Move Naturally

New York, N.Y. (Special)—After 12 years' research, scientists have discovered a wonder-working substance that corrects constipation entirely without laxatives!

Doctors say most constipation occurs when waste loses moisture in the colon—becomes dry, hard, difficult to move. To give relief, laxatives have to force action by flushing, irritating or distending the intestine.

The new miracle substance—known medically as dioctyl sodium sulfosuccinate—works in a completely different way. It is not a laxative! It simply makes natural moisture in the colon moisten and soften dry, hard waste more effectively. Then normal elimination follows naturally. Thus by working only on waste, not on you, the substance corrects constipation and restores regularity as no laxative can.

This new discovery has now been made available at drugstores under the name REGUTOL. It is safe—not habit-forming. No warning on the label—no prescription needed. Try REGUTOL—discover for yourself that you may never need to take a laxative again!

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Dedication To Helping Others Sometimes Carried To Extremes

By ROBERT PETERSON

Since most of us were old enough to remember, we've heard the doctrine that man's noblest purpose in life is to serve others.

A sympathy for others and a disposition to extend charity are credos we have come to regard in the same realm as patriotism and motherhood.

Yet there are some who take sharply dissenting views. Among these is authoress Ayn Rand, author of "The Fountainhead" and "Atlas Shrugged," whose iconoclastic belief is that, "Every man exists for his own sake, not in order to serve others. He must not sacrifice himself to others or others to himself. I don't believe the misfortunes of one man gives him a mortgage on the time, life and earnings of another."

Not many will agree with Miss Rand. But her views have some merit when applied to a small percent of humans so dedicated to humanitarian purpose that they destroy themselves in the process of serving others.

Last Sunday I heard a minister eulogizing the late theologian Dr. Peter Marshall, "for his glorious sacrifice to the cause of others." The minister seemed very impressed by the fact that despite warnings from physicians to get more rest and stop driving himself, to toil 16 and 18 hours a day writing books, counseling the distressed, and winning souls. The fact that Dr. Marshall was killed by overwork and fatigue in his 40's would suggest that he was not very wise in his total dedication to others.

Then there's a woman I know who toils for a charitable group that aids skid row derelicts. She donates income from a trust fund to the cause and lives like a pauper—depriving herself of nice clothes, entertainments and vacation trips. When she was recently cited for her "service to the unfortunate," I found myself thinking that in a sense she was as unfortunate and deprived as those she served.

And then there are those who bypass marriage in favor of caring for an aged parent. A spinster of 52 wrote recently, "Mother had arthritis and Dad had heart trouble. They kept saying they needed me at home and couldn't get along with out me. Friends and neighbors said how wonderful I was to devote my life to my parents.

"So I passed up three marriage proposals in my 20's and two in my 30's There haven't been any since. My parents are gone now and I'm a little bitter. I loved them but I can see now I should have been a bit more selfish."

The three examples cited represent extremes of humanitarianism. They are not typical but they suggest that we should not become so obsessed with service to others that we fail to serve ourselves.

The Good Lord doubtless wishes us to be kind and charitable. But He surely wishes us to live full, well-rounded lives as well, which include sampling the delights of this marvelous world and indulging some of the selfish desires for amusement, affection, adornment and acquisition which are a normal ingredient in human nature.

Dedication To Helping Others Sometimes Carried To Extremes

By ROBERT PETERSON

Since most of us were old enough to remember, we've heard the doctrine that man's noblest purpose in life is to serve others.

A sympathy for others and a disposition to extend charity are credos we have come to regard in the same realm as patriotism and motherhood.

Yet there are some who take sharply dissenting views. Among these is authoress Ayn Rand, author of "The Fountainhead" and "Atlas Shrugged," whose iconoclastic belief is that, "Every man exists for his own sake, not in order to serve others. He must not sacrifice himself to others or others to himself. I don't believe the misfortunes of one man gives him a mortgage on the time, life and earnings of another."

Not many will agree with Miss Rand. But her views have some merit when applied to a small percent of humans so dedicated to humanitarian purpose that they destroy themselves in the process of serving others.

Last Sunday I heard a minister eulogizing the late theologian Dr. Peter Marshall, "for his glorious sacrifice to the cause of others." The minister seemed very impressed by the fact that despite warnings from physicians to get more rest and stop driving himself, to toil 16 and 18 hours a day writing books, counseling the distressed, and winning souls. The fact that Dr. Marshall was killed by overwork and fatigue in his 40's would suggest that he was not very wise in his total dedication to others.

Then there's a woman I know who toils for a charitable group that aids skid row derelicts. She donates income from a trust fund to the cause and lives like a pauper—depriving herself of nice clothes, entertainments and vacation trips. When she was recently cited for her "service to the unfortunate," I found myself thinking that in a sense she was as unfortunate and deprived as those she served.

And then there are those who bypass marriage in favor of caring for an aged parent. A spinster of 52 wrote recently, "Mother had arthritis and Dad had heart trouble. They kept saying they needed me at home and couldn't get along with out me. Friends and neighbors said how wonderful I was to devote my life to my parents.

"So I passed up three marriage proposals in my 20's and two in my 30's There haven't been any since. My parents are gone now and I'm a little bitter. I loved them but I can see now I should have been a bit more selfish."

The three examples cited represent extremes of humanitarianism. They are not typical but they suggest that we should not become so obsessed with service to others that we fail to serve ourselves.

The Good Lord doubtless wishes us to be kind and charitable. But He surely wishes us to live full, well-rounded lives as well, which include sampling the delights of this marvelous world and indulging some of the selfish desires for amusement, affection, adornment and acquisition which are a normal ingredient in human nature.

India Charges Chinese Entered Sikkim

New Delhi (UPI) — India charged Wednesday in a formal protest to Peking that a platoon of Chinese Communist troops crossed the border into Indian-protected Sikkim and fired machine gun bursts at Indian troops.

A protest note delivered to the Chinese Communist embassy in New Delhi demanded that the Peking regime "put a stop to these provocative activities."

The note said the intrusion occurred Monday at Yak La Pass on the Himalayan frontier with Chinese-occupied Tibet.It said the platoon of Chinese Red soldiers crossed the international border "and attempted swiftly to close up with the Indian defense personnel in an area well inside Sikkim territory."

Fired, Withdrew

The Chinese fired three machine gun bursts at Indian troops and then withdrew across the border into Tibet, the protest note said.

Communist China, in turn, accused India Wednesday of repeated serious violations of the Sino-Sikkim frontier and said the New Delhi government "must bear full responsibility forall the grave consequences arriving therefrom."

The Communist China News Agency said a "strong protest" was delivered to the Indian embassy in Peking Wednesday against what Peking called repeated "armed provocations" by Indian troops.

The Peking note charged that a group of Indian soldiers intruded into Chinese territory at Yak La Pass on Oct. 2 and fired on Chinese guards, wounding one of the guards.

It said that on Oct. 4 in the same area, a group of Indians again opened fire on two successive occasions with light and heavy machine guns and mortars on a Chinese frontier guard unit on duty inside Chinese territory.

Latest Exchange

The notes were the latest in a series of charges and countercharges exchanged by India and Red China alleging intrusions and exchanges of fire along the northern borders.

Last weekend India charged that another group of about 20 Chinese Communist soldiers penetrated into Sikkim and attacked an Indian observation post.

The Chinese Communists Sept. 16 delivered an ultimatum to India demanding it dismantle alleged border installations Peking charged were on the Communist side of the frontier. But the Chinese subsequently extended, then lifted their ultimatum, claiming the Indians had complied with it. The Indians denied the Chinese claim, declaring they never had any military structures on the Communist side of the border.

Pakistan Accused

In the continuing dispute between India and Pakistan, the India defense ministry again accused Pakistani forces of violating the ceasefire along the 1,000-mile border stretching from Kashmir in the north to Rajasthan in the southern desert area.

The ministry charged that in the Lahore sector, Pakistani troops intruded 2½ miles at Bedian village near Khem Karan.

In Kasmir, it said, Pakistani troops fired on Indian positions at eight places Tuesday. It also said Pakistanis attacked an Indian police post in Rajasthan.

All the alleged cease-fire violations were reported to United Nations military observers. the defense ministry said.

Opposition Wins In 7 Of 11 Brazil State Elections

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil (AP) —A surprise overnight military alert here ended Wednesday, apparently paving the way for a smooth transition of power to opposition candidates victorious in 7 of 11 gubernatorial elections.

President Humberto Castello Branco met with his war, navy and air force ministers Wednesday morning as army and navy units relaxed from the alert.

Sources in the presidential palace said after the meeting that the president, who has promised that all legitimately elected candidates will take office "has never been stronger."

There was no official explanation of the partial alert, which attracted attention when armed troops cleared the area in front of Ft. Copacabana at midnight.

There was speculation that the alert was called because of rumors of military discontent with the leading gubernatorial candidates.

Francisco Negrao de Lima, 64, former foreign minister in the 1956-61 administration of Juscelino Kubitschek, was assured of victory in the Guanabara state (Rio de Janeiro) race, according to unofficial returns. He led his opponent, Carlos Flexa Ribeiro, 532,198 votes to 415,762.

In Minas Gerais state another Kubitschek lieutenant, Israel Pinheiro, 67, was riding a safe 170,000-vote lead over his youthful opponent, Roberto Resende. Pinheiro had 801,007 and Resende 630,841.

Flexa Ribeiro and Resende are candidates of the National Democratic Union. which supports Castello Branco.

Both Negrao de Lima and Pinheiro, although closely linked to previous regimes under fire from the present revolutionary government, satisfied the requirements of the government's stiff "law of eligibilities."

The law banned from public office top officials in the ousted leftist regime of President Joao Goulart and some associates of ex-President Kubitschek and Janio Guadros who were themselves stripped of political rights.

Kubitschek, the main behind-thescenes winner in the state elections, has spent most of his time before military investgating commissions since his return from voluntary exile Monday.

The chief officer of the country's supreme military tribunal cleared away the threat of military arrest hanging over Kubitschek. Only the federal supreme court "can arrest a former president of the republic," said Gen. Mourao Filho.

Cardinal Cushing To Have Surgery On Benign Tumor

Boston (UPI)—Richard Cardinal Cushing disclosed Wednesday he will undergo surgery soon to have a non-malignant but bothersome tumor removed from the back of his neck.

It will be the second time this year that the cardinal has required surgery.

Putting his hand on the growth, the 70-year-old archbishop of Boston said doctors told him it was benign.

"My collar rubs it and it bothers me," he said. "But the doctors are not concerned about it."

Cardinal Cushing said he was not sure when the operation would take place, adding, "possibly next week."

Cardinal Cushing has been afflicted with three serious ailments since 1954. He lost 30 pounds during a series of operations in 1954. "I came within a glimpse of heaven but I didn't get in so I came home," he said.

Two years later he was stricken with cancer and had a malignant kidney removed. Last year he disclosed that at that time doctors gave him eight months to live "but somehow or other I survived."

Fair, Honest Appraisal Of IS 80 Land Is Urged

North Platte (AP)—State Sen. Cecil Craft said Wednesday he has written Gov. Morrison about what the senator termed an unusual number of court appeals in Lincoln County from state land appraisals in Interstate Highway land acquisition.

Craft said there were 54 condemnation cases in District Court and 90 in County Court.

In one case, the senator said, a state offer of $25,000 was changed to $75,000 by County Court appraisers.

The North Platte senator suggested all property taken for Interstate 80 purposes in Lincoln County be reappraised for the purpose of getting "a fair and honest appraisal," not to get the land as cheaply as possible.

An alternative, he said, would be an entire change of outlook by the right-of-way section of the highway department which instead of treating property owners as adversaries should attempt to make them feel they are a part of a great undertaking.

2,000 Windows Must Go Dirty

Omaha (UPI)—County Hospital officials have a problem—they have a lot of dirty windows and no one to wash them.

The county board was told that no one has answered a month-long advertisement for bids to wash the more than 2,000 windows.

County purchasing director William Cuff said only one window washing outfit in Omaha is big enough to handle the job, and it is booked solid.

Martin Supports New Sugar Bill

Washington (UPI) — Rep. David Martin, R-Neb., gave his support to a new sugar act approved by the House Rules Committee last week which would extend legislation in that field for five years, to Dec. 31, 1971.

The act increases the quotas for domestic production by 580,000 tons for both sugar beet and cane sugar. Production from sugar beets will be increased by 375,000 tons, to a total of 3,025,00[illegible]

Martin said approximately 65% of all sugar used in this country will be supplied from domestic production, which includes Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Martin termed the legislation "a good bill," noting that all segments of the sugar industry seem to approve of it.

Latin Nations Asked To Join In Helping Cuban Emigres

Washington (AP) — The United States asked Latin American countries Wednesday to join "in the humanitarian task" of moving out of Cuba an estimated 50,000 refugees. It also proposed detailed arrangements for the mass exodus.

State Department Press Officer Marshall Wright said the United States has sent a note to the Castro government, but declined to explain what proposals it is making.

At the organization of American States, there was no immediate indication of Latin American response to the U.S. appeal, made to a meeting of the OAS council.

'Special Concern'

Ward P. Allen, U.S. representative to the OAS, told the council, "Not only do all the American states have a common interest and responsibility on the general question of Cuba; they also have a special concern for the condition of the Cuban people.

Latin American delegates in the council listened in silence to Allen's call for help for those who want to leave "their island home in search of freedom from an increasingly oppressive totalitarian regime."

The direct proposal to Cuba, Wright said, was to be delivered Wednesday to the Cuban government by the Swiss embassy in Havana.

Wright termed it "our detailed position on arrangements to permit the orderly regular movement of refugees from Cuba to the United States."

"Inasmuch as this matter is being discussed now through diplomatic channels I cannot at this time give the details of our position," he said.

Wright also disclosed a State Department appeal to the 270,000 Cuban exiles already in this country to stay where they are and not to rush to Miami in anticipation of meeting long-separated relatives.

Fidel Offered

Prime Minister Castro offered Sept. 29 to permit Cubans with families in the United States to leave and mentioned Oct. 10 as the date when such a departure might be permitted.

American official estimate as many as 50,000 Cubans might be given asylum at the rate of 5,000 a month if an agreement is reached.

President Johnson stated Oct. 3 that the United States "will welcome these Cuban people."

NASON ON EDUCATION:

Planning For College Should Begin In Eighth Grade

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

Four years of planning for college?

It may not have been necessary in years past but it is important now if you are to get into the college you want to attend and succeed once you are there.

The eighth grade is when you should lay out your high school program or at least choose the subjects you will take in the ninth grade. Perhaps you are already in high school and still have not started your planning. The sooner you commence, the more easily your problems will be solved.

Each year a number of high school seniors unexpectedly decide that they want very much to go to college. Often they are poorly prepared—not for lack of innate ability, but through lack of foresight. They didn't select the right courses; consequently, their choice of colleges is severely limited.

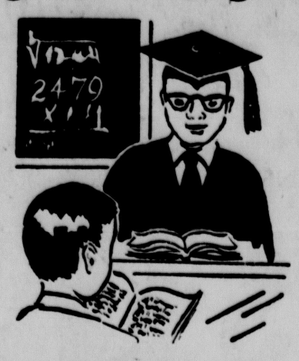
If you have not already chosen a college and you don't know definitely the high school courses required for admission, keep as close as you can to a program that would admit you to any college.

The subjects required by most colleges are English, social studies, mathematics, language and science.

A safe plan is to select courses meeting the entrance requirement of your state university. As your planning progresses and your choice of colleges has narrowed down you can, perhaps, deviate from such a program.

An important thing is to have a goal. Go ahead and work toward something. You can always change. Are you waiting until you are sure of a precise occupation or college goal because you would be "stuck" with it for the rest of your life? If this is your thinking, you are wrong. Change is the order of the day.

I have talked with hundreds of students who have changed their majors and each has said, "What I learned working toward the first goal helped me in the second; in fact, nothing I learned was lost. It all helped."



One of the most important considerations in getting scholarships is what you have done about it yourself. A savings account, added to by summer work, will be in your favor.

By starting early you can combine career and college planning. Some idea of your future career is necessary if you are to make a considered choice among colleges.

When it comes time to apply you will need to be even more specific because a liberal arts college may offer more than 15 different majors.

So you will do well to do some career planning even if only in a general way.

Here are some sources for career information:

Your school and public libraries.

The Occupational Outlook Handbook published every two years by the Department of Labor.

Occupations, Profession and Job Descriptions: Write to Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D.C., for a free copy of Price List 33A.

Colleges with professional or vocational departments sometimes publish career information. Write to the Director of Information.

Make sure that your college planning includes:

1) Your high school program to meet college requirements, starting preferably with the ninth grade.

2) investigation of career and colleges starting as early as the ninth grade.

3) Getting in touch as a junior with colleges that interest you and taking provisional college board examinations.

4) Keeping a list of critical dates — the deadlines for scholarship application dates on which college entrance examinations will be given as a basis not only for entrance but for the granting of scholarships. If your high school counselor cannot provide information about the tests you should take, write:

College Entrance Examination Board, c/o Educational Testing Service, Box 592, Princeton, N.J. 08540 or P.O. Box 1025, Berkeley, California 94704 and ask for the bulletin of information for the current year. (No charge.)

Peterson's 'Dual Role' Challenged

"Nebraskans are confused by Val Peterson's dual role," declared Mrs. Maurine Biegert, Democratic National Committee-woman, at Wednesday night's meeting of the University of Nebraska Young Democrats.

Mrs. Biegert was referring to Peterson's place on the University of Nebraska Board of Regents and his simultaneous intent to seek the Republican nomination for governor.

"The University has practiced a strict adherence to non-partisanship and I firmly believe Peterson's service as a Regent and a Republican candidate for governor are inconsistent with this policy," Mrs. Biegert said.

Mrs. Biegert addressed some 50 young Democrats at the club's first fall meeting. She called upon Peterson to quit as president of the Regents or withdraw his candidacy.

Saying Peterson is sharply increasing his list of speaking engagemens, Mrs. Biegert said Nebraskans are at a loss to know whether Peterson is appearing as president of the Regents or as a Republican politician seeking votes.

The Young Democrats passed a resolution denouncing the John Birch Society, Ku Klux Klan and the Communist Party, and challenged Sen. Carl T. Curtis to make a public stand on the organizations.

'Hyde Park' Speak-Out At University

University of Nebraska students will have an opportunity to experiment in a "Hyde Park" type of speak-out Wednesday, October 13, at 3:30 in the lounge of the Student Union.

The speak-out, sponsored by the Talks and Topics Committee at NU, will consist of extemporaneous speaking by University students on any topic, not to exceed 20 minutes.

Committee members point out that this is the first time a speak-out has been legally endorsed by university officials on any college campus in the U.S.

Callan Told Phase-Out Of LAFB Still June 30

Final phase-out date for Air Force activities at the Lincoln Air Force Base has not been changed, but certain skilled personnel will be reassigned prior to scheduled deactivation of their units.

Congressman Clair Callan was informed by letter that the date for termination of Air Force activities remains June 30, 1966.

However, reassignment of personnel will be initiated in the near future as a result of "urgent requirement within the Air Force for certain skills represented by personnel assigned to Lincoln," Callan was told.

The letter was signed by Col. Brwyce Poe, deputy chief of the plans group and legislative liaison for the Air Force.

Questioned

Callan released contents of the letter when questioned by telephone about current reports relating to the status of LAFB.

Col. Joseph J. McLachlan, LAFB commander, said he could not comment on Callan's letter in relation to what personnel are involved.

Col. McLachlan also declined comment on reports that the alert status at the base has been altered.

Prohibited

"I am specifically prohibited from commenting on the alert status," he noted.

Col. McLachlan said reports that the 98th Bomb Wing would depart within 30 days are "not true." Scheduled departure date, by June 30, 1966, remains unchanged, he said.

CB&Q To Spend $35 Million On New Freight Cars

Chicago (UPI) — The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad will spend $35 million for new freight cars and locomotives next year, Louis W. Menk, president of the railroad, said Wednesday.

The railroad will build some of the cars at its Lincoln, Neb., shop and buy others from car-building firms.

U.S. Bishops' N-View Stiffly Opposed

Vatican City (AP) — A view favored by many U.S. bishops that the Roman Catholic Church approve nuclear arms for defense ran into stiff opposition in the Vatican Ecumenical Council Wednesday.

At the same time a document giving bishops an unprecedented share of authority with the Vatican won final approval.

The bishops also heard the church law against contraception openly challeneged as out of date.

These developments marked the council's first full working session since Pope Paul VI came back from New York where he spoke of war and peace, poverty and birth control to the U.N. General assembly.

Mounting Campaign

Prelates from Canada, Western Europe, Communist Europe and North Africa joined in what appeared to be a mounting campaign to have the church condemn modern nuclear weapons without reservation.

Leon-Etienne Cardinal Duval of Algiers, speaking for all North Africa's bishops, told the council it "should issue a condemnation of total war, with no distinction of means."

The council fathers were debating a draft document of modern world problems. The flareup against the wording on modern weapons was a blow to members of the U.S. hierarchy who had campaigned to eliminate earlier wording condemning nuclear warfare outright.

These American bishops and others managed to have the wording changed to express approval for defensive arms, nuclear and conventional.

No Defense Wrong

American bishops feel largely that in this age of nuclear parity it would be wrong for the United States to put down its nuclear defense arms unilaterally to be left with no atomic deterrent against potential attackers.

Many bishops also feel that a condemnation from the church would put Western political leaders in a bad light while the Soviet Union could ignore the church stand.

Council drafting commission will almost certainly have to revise the document once more and leave it up to the 2,200 council fathers to vote on it.

Some bishops during the day's debate also asked for church moral support for conscientious objectors.

In the midst of the debate on arms, a Dutch-born prelate from populous India, Bishop Francis Simons of Indore, took what seemed to be open issue with the statements Pope Paul made to the United Nations on birth control.

'Grave Obligation'

Bishop Simons spoke of "a grave obligation to arrest the growth in population." He made no direct mention of the Pope's U.N. speech, but what he said sounded like a contrast to the pontiff's words that the United Nations should try to increase the world's food supply rather than favor artificial birth control.

"In the present state of the question," said Bishop Simons, "the sense and binding force of the law prohibiting all artificial means of birth control are open to doubt; and, according to our basic juridical principles, a law on whose meaning grave doubt exists is not binding."

The vote increasing the bishops' role in helping the Pope govern the church was the final balloting on a document putting the concept of collegiality into action.

The document seeks to decentralize and internationalize church administration and gives juridical status to national and regional bishops' conferences.

British Work On Developing Cheap Centrifuge Isotopes

London (AP)—British scientists are working on research which could lead to production of cut-price atomic and hydrogen bombs. The technique is secret but the research could also yield a valuable new tool for medical research, Britain's Atomic Energy Authority disclosed Wednesday.

Britain's interest in a possible new and cheaper way of making nuclear weapons was revealed indirectly in the Atomic Energy Authority's annual report published Wednesday. The report simply said:

"Development is continuing on the use of centrifuges for Isotope separation."

The idea is to use centrifuges—whirling at great speed—to separate an enriched form of uranium (U235) from ordinary uranium after it has been turned into gas.

An authority spokesman told newsmen it was a long-haul project and would take a considerable time. He would not disclose how far research had gone.

"Development is continuing on the use of centrifuges for isotope separation."

The idea is to use centrifuges—whirling at great speed—to separate an enriched form of uranium (U235) from ordinary uranium after it has been turned into gas.

An authority spokesman told newsmen it was a long-haul project and would take a considerable time. He would not disclose how far research had gone.

War Hits Ohio High Schools Hard

Hamilton, Ohio (AP) — The war in Viet Nam hit home hard Wednesday for high school students in this city of about 80,000.

On their lips were prayers for two former classmates killed in the same battle three days ago.

At Taft High School, 1,300 students stood in solemn tribute to Marine Cpl. Eugene Lee Ellwood, 19. At Garfield High, students talked in low tones about PFC. Leon Parnell Lampley, 20.

The memorial service at Taft was an unwanted repeat of one early in September when another former student, PFC. Nelson Wilson, 20, gave his life in Viet Nam.

'Made Impression'

"It's something you don't want to think about, but you have to," said one Taft student.

Taft Principal Richard F. Goos said Wednesday's "service made an impression on the students. It was so quiet you could hear a pin drop. It brought the war to us. We can't forget this."

The lives of the three youths were not entwined here and friends said they probably didn't know each other. But they had a common bond at the end.

Ellwood and Lampley died Sunday in fierce fighting at Don Ley. Wilson's death was reported Sept. 1 in fighting near Da Nang.

Similar Remarks

Principals of the high schools echoed similar remarks about the youths.

Lampley "was a very nice boy," said Garfield Principal James Koger. "He was a good citizen and participated in the mixed choir, intermurals and other activities here."

Both Ellwood and Wilson "were well liked and had lots of friends," said Goos. Wilson was a football player.

The youths were in the Marines, but not in the same company. Ellwood had been in Viet Nam only two weeks. Lampley had been there since early this year, and Wilson was there three months.

Wilson was the father of a 3-month-old daughter he had never seen.

Convict Describes Murder Of 3 Manacled Policemen

Lawrenceville, Ga. (UPI)—One of three convicts accused of murdering three policemen manacled with their own handcuffs turned state's evidence for immunity Wednesday and described the brutal execution.

Wade Levi Truett, 32, who with the other two defendants is now in prison, told a packed courtroom of the execution of the three Gwinnett County officers in a woods near here in the spring of 1964. The state rested its case on his testimony.

Truett said he joined with Venson Eugene Williams, 33, and Alex Evans, 33, a former special deputy sheriff, in stealing a car in Atlanta but had nothing to do with the murders of the officers, Jerry Everett, 28, Jesse Gravitt 52, and Ralph Davis, 49.

The policemen were found manacled with their own handcuffs and shot at least 14 times with their own pistols. Williams was being tried first and Evans is scheduled to be tried later.

Prosecutor Luther Hames told the court Truett was granted immunity from prosecution for turning state's evidence.

Truett testified he, Williams and Evans stole a car in Atlanta and took the stolen vehicle to a rural road near Lawrenceville where the three officers came upon them in a police car.

Evans overpowered Everett and took his gun, Truett testified, and the other officers surrendered.

Truett said they agreed to leave the policemen tied in the woods and when he went to move the police car out of sight he heard what sounded like firecracker explosions.

Truett said he returned to find the officers on the ground bleeding but could tell two were still alive "because if you ever have taken a hatchet and hit a hog in the head with it and the animal is not dead, you can hear the sound of blood in his nose as he's bleeding.

"This is the sound they were making," Truett continued. "Then Williams shot both of the officers a second time."

Williams looked intently at Truett during the testimony but showed no emotion. Truett appeared nervous.

Airman Decorated For Defending Mission

Potsdam, Germany (AP)—An American airman who singlehandedly defended the U.S. military liaison mission here against a communist mob was decorated Wednesday beneath the only official American flag flying in East Germany.

Airman 1.C. Thomas L. Voss, 22, of Milan, Ind., received the Airman's medal for Heroism during the June 1 assault on the mission by about 200 East German demonstrators protesting U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

The mob tore down the Stars and Stripes flying at the mission house. Every window in the house was borken by rocks thrown by the demonstrators, identified in later reports as East German Communist Party members.

The mission is six miles outside Berlin and is staffed by U.S. Army, Air Force and Marine personnel.

Alone in the mission building when the mob attacked, Voss remained on the telephone reporting to the Berlin commander's office, braving a barrage of rocks and bottles. He escorted two German employes to a third floor room secured by an iron gate.

"As I was shutting the doors on the third floor," he said, "I saw this East German man trying to crawl into the window. I rushed at him and pushed him off and he fell to the balcony (10 feet below). I didn't look to see if he was hurt."

After a seige of more than an hour, East German police arrived and dispersed the mob. The Soviet Union accepted an American protest and took prompt steps to repair the damage.

U.S. Mounts New Air Attacks Over Red North

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. planes mounted new attacks over North Viet Nam Wednesday after communist gunners knocked down three American aircraft there Tuesday, a U.S. military spokesman reported.

He said the four airmen on the three U.S. Air Force planes are listed as missing in communist territory. The communists have declared they will try as war criminals U.S. and South Vietnamese pilots captured in North Viet Nam.

In the ground war the Vietnamese army claimed it had killed 260 Viet Cong in fights this week.

In one part of Wednesday's air offensive, 30 American planes hit bridges, trucks and military staging areas in the North and in one strike, against a military supply camp about 40 miles south of Vinh, pilots reported 85% of the target destroyed, spokesmen said.

All Returned

Two F105 Thunderchiefs and four F4C Phantoms, the types of planes shot down Tuesday, flew six missions against seven targets in the North. Spokesmen said light flak was reported but all aircraft returned safely.

The most significant raid was said to have been against a military area 50 miles southeast of Dien Bien Phu, where 11 buildings were reported destroyed and 10 others damaged.

Enemy Not Sighted

A spokesman said no enemy aircraft were sighted.

Hanoi said 15 American aircraft were shot down in the Tuesday raids. It said previously 10 were downed.

The U.S. spokesman said the three downed U.S. planes were an F4C Phantom, with a two-man crew, and two F105 Thunderchief fighters.

Two parachutes were observed from the Phantom and one from a Thunderchief, he said. The other Thunderchief was reported to have disappeared and the spokesman said it was not known how it was lost from sight. Search operations which lasted until dusk turned up no trace of the four airmen.

The F4C was on a nine-plane raid on the Lang Hep ammunition depot 40 miles northeast of Hanoi. Ten other Phantoms heading for the same target were diverted to fly rescue cover after it was downed, the spokesman said. The Thunderchiefs were on a 20-plane strike against the Lang Met bridge, 45 miles northeast of Hanoi.

B52s Blasting

In South Viet Nam, U.S. and Vietnamese pilots pounded Viet Cong targets Wednesday in more than 200 sorties and Guam-based U.S. B52s blasted a suspected Viet Cong training camp 75 miles northwest of Saigon for the fifth time in 10 days. It was the B52s' 39th raid of the war.

The Vietnamese claim said the Viet Cong were killed in major operations in the central highlands and the Mekong Delta. The claims were not confirmed by U.S. body count.

U.S. authorities said 1,067 Viet Cong, 229 government troops and 17 Americans were killed in action last week. Vietnamese officials Tuesday put the Viet Cong dead for the week at 1,767, but this included an estimate of 700 enemy dead in heavy fighting near Phu Cu pass, in Binh Dinh province. The Vietnamese say they have killed 40 Viet Cong in that province this week and 220 guerrillas Monday with a government sweep in the southernmost province of An Xuyen.

The U.S. report listed 64 Americans and 566 South Vietnamese wounded last week, one American and 68 Vietnamese missing and 144 Viet Cong captured.

Hungarian: U.S. Bombs Must Stop

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — Hungarian Foreign Minister Janos Peter told the U.N. General Assembly Wednesday that no U.S. proposal for peace talks with North Viet Nam has any value "until the aggression, the bombing raids and threats of bombing" are stopped.

He said he spoke "with full knowledge of the opinion" of the Hanoi regime and the Communist National Liberation Front of South Viet Nam.

Peter made no mention of U.S. troop withdrawals as a necessary condition for talks, and this caused speculation here that Hanoi was dropping this as one of the conditions. But there was no official comment from any source to strengthen such speculation.

In his policy speech Peter also declared that if the United States wishes to be taken seriously with regard to any peaceful settlement "it has to stop completely all sorts of aggression against Viet Nam."

U.S. sources would not comment on Peter's statement.

Vaclav David, the Czech foreign minister, said he discussed Viet Nam in a private talk with Secretary of State Dean Rusk at the U.S. mission to the United Nations. David did not say what was said.

Thant: U.N. Is In Debt

United Nations, N.Y. (UPI) —The United Nations Wednesday found itself still deep in financial trouble despite voluntary contributions of almost $20 million pledged by 14 member states.

Secretary General U Thant estimated at the start of the 20th session of the General Assembly last month that $10 million was needed to help solve immediate financial difficulties.

While still seeking roughly $80 million to climb out of the financial hole, Thant warned there still remained $154.7 million to be repaid on outstanding U.N. bonds.

Since the dire forecasts were made, 14 nations have paid or pledged $19,997,324 to the U.N. special account set up to relieve the financial pressure.

Major Contributions

Nations making major contributions thus far include Britain ($10 million), Canada ($4 million), Sweden ($2 million), Italy ($1.5 million) and Denmark ($1) million).

The balance was pledged by Finland, Ghana, Greece, Iceland, Jamaica, Nigeria, Norway, Uganda and Zambia.

Significantly, the United States, the Soviet Union, France and China — all permanent members of the Security Council — have yet to announce any voluntary contributions since Thant issued his gloomy financial outline.

Regular Payment

However, the United States has made a regular budget payment of $19 million and an additional $5 million to help meet the continuing commitments of the U.N. Emergency Force (UNEF) in the Middle East.

Adding to the financial woes of the United Nations is an additional $3 million price tag attached to the growing U.N. military observer groups in Kashmir to supervise the cease-fire between India and Pakistan.

Complicating the Kashmir picture further were reports from well-informed diplomatic sources of a falling out among the big four powers over the control and financing of the Kashmir U.N. observer force.

Uneasy Feeling

This rift, if confirmed, would be piled atop the uneasy feeling created during the "do nothing" 19th session of the General Assembly which ws paralyzed by U.S. insistence — since withdrawn — that assessment owing members lose their vote in accordance with Article 19 of the Charter.

The Soviet Union, France and a handful of other nations still refuse to pay assessment stemming from U.N. peacekeeping forces in the Congo and the Middle East.

The 19th assembly skirted a U.S. - U.S.S.R. financial showdown over Article 19 by not voting.

U.S. Mounts New Air Attacks Over Red North

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. planes mounted new attacks over North Viet Nam Wednesday after communist gunners knocked down three American aircraft there Tuesday, a U S military spokesman reported.

He said the four airmen on the three U.S. Air Force planes are listed as missing in communist territory. The communists have declared they will try as war criminals U.S. and South Vietnamese pilots captured in North Viet Nam.

In the ground war the Vietnamese army claimed it had killed 260 Viet Cong in fights this week

In one part of Wednesday's air offensive 30 American planes hit bridges, trucks and military staging areas in the North and in one strike, against a military supply camp about 40 miles south of Vinh, pilots reported 85% of the target destroyed, spokesmen said

All Returned

Two F105 Thunderchiefs and four F4C Phantoms, the types of planes shot down Tuesday, flew six missions against seven targets in the North. Spokesmen said light flak was reported but all aircraft returned safely.

The most significant raid was said to have been against a military area 50 miles southeast of Dien Bien Phu, where 11 buildings were reported destroyed and 10 others damaged.

Enemy Not Sighted

A spokesman said no enemy aircraft were sighted.

Hanoi said 15 American aircraft were shot down in the Tuesday raids It said previously 10 were downed

The U S spokesman said the three downed U.S. planes were an F4C Phantom, with a two-man crew, and two F105 Thunderchief fighters.

Two parachutes were observed from the Phantom and one from a Thunderchief, he said. The other Thunderchief was reported to have disappeared and the spokesman said it was not known how it was lost from sight. Search operations which lasted until dusk turned up no trace of the four airmen.

The F4C was on a nine-plane raid on the Lang Hep ammunition depot 40 miles northeast of Hanoi. Ten other Phantoms heading for the same target were diverted to fly rescue cover after it was downed, the spokesman said. The Thunderchiefs were on a 20-plane strike against the Lang Met bridge, 45 miles northeast of Hanoi

B52s Blasting

In South Viet Nam, U.S. and Vietnamese pilots pounded Viet Cong targets Wednesday in more than 200 sorties and Guam-based U.S. B52s blasted a suspected Viet Cong training camp 75 miles northwest of Saigon for the fifth time in 10 days. It was the B52s' 39th raid of the war

The Vietnamese claim said the Viet Cong were killed in major operations in the central highlands and the Mekong Delta. The claims were not confirmed by U S body count.

U.S. authorities said 1,067 Viet Cong, 229 government troops and 17 Americans were killed in action last week. Vietnamese officials Tuesday put the Viet Cong dead for the week at 1,767, but this included an estimate of 700 enemy dead in heavy fighting near Phu Cu pass, in Binh Dinh province. The Vietnamese say they have killed 40 Viet Cong in that province this week and 220 guerrillas Monday with a government sweep in the southernmost province of An Xuyen.

The U.S. report listed 64 Americans and 566 South Vietnamese wounded last week, one American and 68 Vietnamese missing and 144 Viet Cong captured.

Hungarian: U.S. Bombs Must Stop

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — Hungarian Foreign Minister Janos Peter told the U.N. General Assembly Wednesday that no U.S. proposal for peace talks with North Viet Nam has any value "until the aggression, the bombing raids and threats of bombing" are stopped.

He said he spoke with full knowledge of the opinion" of the Hanoi regime and the Communist National Liberation Front of South Viet Nam.

Peter made no mention of U.S. troop withdrawals as a necessary condition for talks, and this caused speculation here that Hanoi was dropping this as one of the conditions. But there was no official comment from any source to strengthen such speculation.

In his policy speech Peter also declared that if the United States wishes to be taken seriously with regard to any peaceful settlement "it has to stop completely all sorts of aggression against Viet Nam."

U.S. sources would not comment on Peter's statement

Vaclav David, the Czech foreign minister, said he discussed Viet Nam in a private talk with Secretary of State Dean Rusk at the U.S. mission to the United Nations. David did not say what was said

Thant: U.N. Is In Debt

United Nations, N.Y. (UPI) —The United Nations Wednesday found itself still deep in financial trouble despite voluntary contributions of almost $20 million pledged by 14 member states.

Secretary General U Thant estimated at the start of the 20th session of the General Assembly last month that $10 million was needed to help solve immediate financial difficulties.

While still seeking roughly $80 million to climb out of the financial hole, Thant warned there still remained $154.7 million to be repaid on outstanding U.N. bonds.

Since the dire forecasts were made, 14 nations have paid or pledged $19,997,324 to the U.N. special account set up to relieve the financial pressure.

Major Contributions

Nations making major contributions thus far include Britain ($10 million), Canada ($4 million), Sweden ($2 million), Italy ($1.5 million) and Denmark ($1) million).

The balance was pledged by Finland, Ghana, Greece, Iceland, Jamaica, Nigeria, Norway, Uganda and Zambia.

Significantly, the United States, the Soviet Union, France and China — all permanent members of the Security Council — have yet to announce any voluntary contributions since Thant issued his gloomy financial outline.

Regular Payment

However, the United States has made a regular budget payment of $19 million and an additional $5 million to help meet the continuing commitments of the U.N. Emergency Force (UNEF) in the Middle East.

Adding to the financial woes of the United Nations is an additional $3 million price tag attached to the growing U.N. military observer groups in Kashmir to supervise the cease-fire between India and Pakistan.

Complicating the Kashmir picture further were reports from well-informed diplomatic sources of a falling out among the big four powers over the control and financing of the Kashmir U.N. observer force.

Uneasy Feeling

This rift, if confirmed, would be piled atop the uneasy feeling created during the "do nothing" 19th session of the General Assembly which ws paralyzed by U.S. insistence — since withdrawn — that assessment owing members lose their vote in accordance with Article 19 of the Charter.

The Soviet Union, France and a handful of other nations still refuse to pay assessment stemming from U.N. peacekeeping forces in the Congo and the Middle East.

The 19th assembly skirted a U.S. - U.S.S.R. financial showdown over Article 19 by not voting.

Attorneys Clash Over Academy

. . . PLATTE VALLEY TAX EXEMPTION DISPUTED

Attorneys clashed over the tax exempt status of the Platte Valley Academy and farm in arguments before the State Supreme Court Wednesday.

The academy, located southwest of Grand Island, is a coeducational parochial high school operated by the Nebraska Conference of Seventh Day Adventists.

Grand Island attorney A. J. Leubs, representing the church group, told Supreme Court judges that the operation of the school and associated farm has not changed since 1955 when the high court ruled the property tax exempt.

However, Special Atty. Gen. William E. Peters, representing the Hall County Board of Equalization, said the farm and residences of school and farm employes should be placed on the tax rolls.

"The purpose of the farm is to produce agricultural products to be sold for profit," Peters argued. "The residential buildings are no different than any other homes."

Hall County taxing officials carried the case to the Supreme Court after Hall County District Judge Donald H. Weaver last year overruled the board of equalization which had declared certain academy property taxable.

The county board exempted the school land and buildings and improvements, but refused to exempt the 390-acre farm and the homes of the school personnel and farm employes.

"The rule in the previous case continues to control until there is a change in operation at the academy or the legislature changes the tax exemption law," Leubs said.

He said the farm is an intregal part of the educational program of the school and employes must live on the academy grounds to provide proper 24-hour-per-day supervision for students who live in dormitories.

Clara Bow's Estate Goes To Two Sons

Los Angeles (AP) — The will of actress Clara Bow, listing personal property in excess of $20,000, was filed for probate Wednesday in Superior Court.

Miss Bow, famed "It" girl of silent films, died Sept. 27 at her home. She was 60.

Her personal belongings and mementos of her career were bequeathed to her sons, Rex A. Beldam, 30, of Reno, Nev., and George Frances Beldam 27 of Las Vegas, Nev.

They were the sons of her marraige to the late Rex Bell, former western actor and onetime lieutenant governor of Nevada. His real name was Beldam.

The will specified the remainder of the estate was to be sold and the money added to a trust fund created for Miss Bow's benefit in 1929.

Attorney Howard B. Henshey said amount of the trust fund was not known. He said that although the will does not name the sons as beneficiaries of the trust fund, he assumed they would be.

Patrol Official Believes Mead Report

A high official of the Nebraska Highway Patrol said Wednesday he is personally convinced of the accuracy of the Mead prison farm report.

Captain Vernon Byler, while refusing to involve the patrol in controversy, backed the qualifications of trooper Donald Mayhew, the polygraph expert who submitted the 14-page Mead report.

"It is apparent that an officer who makes out a report and signs it is prepared to back it in court, if need be," Byler told UPI.

Byler, head of the Criminal Investigation Bureau, commented in the absence of Col. Dan Casey, who was attending the yearly meeting in Miami of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Gov. Frank Morrison and State Institutions Director George Morris both indicated Wednesday the report contained a large body of unsubstantiated material and that it was made public because of a "leak."

Mayhew told a UPI reporter Wednesday night that he worked for two weeks on the report and was ready to back it fully. The college trained, 18-year veteran officer made the report on conditions at Mead at the request of Penitentiary Warden Maurice Sigler and Saunders County Atty. Robert Sullivan.

The report contained statements of inmates, who said sex and liquor parties were carried on inside the Mead compound at night and that inmates committed thefts both inside and outside the compound.

One IFYE Leaving, 2 Others Due Home

Memories of far-off lands will arrive home with two Nebraska International Farm Youth Exchange delegates, (IFYEs), while the anticipations of a foreign visit are departing with another Nebraska IFYE to Jamaica.

Cameras, baggage, and boxes of stationery are on their way to Kingston, Jamaica for six months with owner Bruce Holen of Bertrand.

Bruce attended Trinity College in Chicago and the Emily Griffith Opportunity School, where he majored in machine science. He has been a Nebraska Rural Youth member and previously was a 4-H member for eight years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Holen of Bertrand.

Returning home this fall after a stay in Deutschland, Germany will be Dorothy Winkenwerder, daughter of Mrs. Amelia Winkenwerder of Hershey. She will arrive November 22. December 20 will mark the arrival of Cheryl Abrahamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Abrahamson of Axtell, who stayed in the Philippines.

The IFYE program provides young people with the opportunity to live and work with another family in another country. Nebraska was one of the first states to participate in the program and has taken part continuously since its beginning in 1948. The Nebraska program is sponsored by Gold's of Nebraska, Nebraska Rural Youth, University of Nebraska 4-H Club and county 4-H members and interested groups.

ETV Tower On Omaha Campus Lacks A Permit

Omaha (AP) — Public safety director Francis E. Lynch said Wednesday the educational television tower on the University of Omaha campus has not cleared city height restrictions, but the tower apparently will stay where it is.

No city permit was obtained for the 407 foot tower, and even if a permit were sought now, the tower is in an area which allows only 35-foot high structures.

Lynch said, after talking to Mayor A. V. Sorensen "we felt there was no safety violation because of the strict state and federal building regulations. So rather than make a big disturbance, it was decided to allow construction and get the programs on the air."

Beatrice Board Checks Benefits From Federal Aid

Beatrice (UPI) — The Beatrice School Board is investigating ways the city can benefit by the federal elementary secondary education act.

Supt. of Schools Dr. Paul Sell has told the board a total of $98,791 is available to Beatrice schools to cover 540 students from poverty stricken families earning less than $2,000 annually.

One board member has already registered opposition to the program. Leonard Whittaker said "It is revolting to take it just because it is offered."

The program would cover such things as nurses, social workers, shoes, teeth and glasses.

Nebraska City's New School Plan Okayed By Board

Nebraska City (UPI) — The Board of Education has given its endorsement to a plan for a new elementary school building for Nebraska City. Board president Harry Bischop this week directed Supt. Sam Metcalf to show the plans to state educators and seek further advice.

The proposed structure would be circular.

The district has $162,520 in cash and investments to pay toward the new building. In addition, the district has an elementary building fund tax levy.

Surgery Conference

Omaha (UPI) — The departments of surgery of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine and the University of Kansas Medical Center are collaborating on "The Cornhusker Conference on Surgery." Sessions will begin at 9 a.m. Nov. 6.

2% Rural Electric Loans Supported

Rapid City, S.D. (UPI) —A rural electric cooperative group has asked the Johnson administration and Congress to continue the rural electric loan rate at 2%.

"We believe that with the continuing decline in population in the rural areas the existence of most of these (rural electrification) systems is still dependent upon continued 2%, 35 year loans for distribution and generation and transmission purposes," the group said.

The statement was contained in a resolution passed at a meeting of the Region VI rural electric cooperatives.

The group said that one-cent electricity should continue to be the goal of rural electric systems.

"The cost of money is one important factor in attaining this goal," the resolution said.

The group said that any supplemental method of financing should:

—Result in low-cost power for rural electric members and the lowest possible retail rates.

—Let rural electric cooperatives share the economy which results in large scale generation and transmission.

—Let rural electrics own and control their own cooperatives and to provide adequate financing of these cooperatives.

The group said a study report for intermediate financing and a bank for rural electric systems did not meet the criteria. It said additional study should be made of other methods of financing rural electric systems.

Czech Loan Fund Aided 153 At NU

A student loan fund established to memoralize the Czech pioneers who settled in this country has assisted 153 University of Nebraska students since it was inaugurated three years ago.

Val Kuska of Lincoln, vice chairman of the fund, said slightly more than $20,000 has been collected from persons of Czech descent who live in Nebraska or are former Nebraskans. He said efforts are being made to increase the fund.

Johnson Thanks Spain

Attorneys Clash Over Academy

. . . PLATTE VALLEY TAX EXEMPTION DISPUTED

Attorneys clashed over the tax exempt status of the Platte Valley Academy and farm in arguments before the State Supreme Court Wednesday.

The academy, located southwest of Grand Island, is a coeducational parochial high school operated by the Nebraska Conference of Seventh Day Adventists.

Grand Island attorney A. J. Leubs, representing the church group, told Supreme Court judges that the operation of the school and associated farm has not changed since 1955 when the high court ruled the property tax exempt.

However, Special Atty. Gen. William E. Peters, representing the Hall County Board of Equalization, said the farm and residences of school and farm employes should be placed on the tax rolls.

"The purpose of the farm is to produce agricultural products to be sold for profit," Peters argued. "The residential buildings are no different than any other homes."

Hall County taxing officials carried the case to the Supreme Court after Hall County District Judge Donald H. Weaver last year overruled the board of equalization which had declared certain academy property taxable.

The county board exempted the school land and buildings and improvements, but refused to exempt the 390-acre farm and the homes of the school personnel and farm employes.

"The rule in the previous case continues to control until there is a change in operation at the academy or the legislature changes the tax exemption law," Leubs said.

He said the farm is an integral part of the educational program of the school and employes must live on the academy grounds to provide proper 24-hour-per-day supervision for students who live in dormitories.

Patrol Official Believes Mead Report

A high official of the Nebraska Highway Patrol said Wednesday he is personally convinced of the accuracy of the Mead prison farm report.

Captain Vernon Byler, while refusing to involve the patrol in controversy, backed the qualifications of trooper Donald Mayhew, the polygraph expert who submitted the 14-page Mead report.

"It is apparent that an officer who makes out a report and signs it is prepared to back it in court, if need be," Byler told UPI.

Byler, head of the Criminal Investigation Bureau, commented in the absence of Col. Dan Casey, who was attending the yearly meeting in Miami of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Gov. Frank Morrison and State Institutions Director George Morris both indicated Wednesday the report contained a large body of unsubstantiated material and that it was made public because of a "leak."

Mayhew told a UPI reporter Wednesday night that he worked for two weeks on the report and was ready to back it fully. The college trained, 18-year veteran officer made the report on conditions at Mead at the request of Penitentiary Warden Maurice Sigler and Saunders County Atty. Robert Sullivan.

The report contained statements of inmates, who said sex and liquor parties were carried on inside the Mead compound at night and that inmates committed thefts both inside and outside the compound.

Clara Bow's Estate Goes To Two Sons

Los Angeles (AP) — The will of actress Clara Bow, listing personal property in excess of $20,000, was filed for probate Wednesday in Superior Court.

Miss Bow, famed "It" girl of silent films, died Sept. 27 at her home. She was 60.

Her personal belongings and mementos of her career were bequeathed to her sons, Rex A. Beldam, 30, of Reno, Nev., and George Frances Beldam 27 of Las Vegas, Nev.

They were the sons of her marraige to the late Rex Bell, former western actor and onetime lieutenant governor of Nevada. His real name was Beldam.

The will specified the remainder of the estate was to be sold and the money added to a trust fund created for Miss Bow's benefit in 1929.

Attorney Howard B. Henshey said amount of the trust fund was not known. He said that although the will does not name the sons as beneficiaries of the trust fund, he assumed they would be.

One IFYE Leaving, 2 Others Due Home

Memories of far-off lands will arrive home with two Nebraska International Farm Youth Exchange delegates, (IFYEs), while the anticipations of a foreign visit are departing with another Nebraska IFYE to Jamaica.

Cameras, baggage, and boxes of stationery are on their way to Kingston, Jamaica for six months with owner Bruce Holen of Bertrand.

Bruce attended Trinity College in Chicago and the Emily Griffith Opportunity School, where he majored in machine science. He has been a Nebraska Rural Youth member and previously was a 4-H member for eight years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Holen of Bertrand.

Returning home this fall after a stay in Deutschland, Germany will be Dorothy Winkenwerder, daughter of Mrs. Amelia Winkenwerder of Hershey. She will arrive November 22. December 20 will mark the arrival of Cheryl Abrahamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Abrahamson of Axtell, who stayed in the Philippines.

The IFYE program provides young people with the opportunity to live and work with another family in another country. Nebraska was one of the first states to participate in the program and has taken part continuously since its beginning in 1948. The Nebraska program is sponsored by Gold's of Nebraska, Nebraska Rural Youth, University of Nebraska 4-H Club and county 4-H members and interested groups.

ETV Tower On Omaha Campus Lacks A Permit

Omaha (AP) — Public safety director Francis E. Lynch said Wednesday the educational television tower on the University of Omaha campus has not cleared city height restrictions, but the tower apparently will stay where it is.

No city permit was obtained for the 407 foot tower, and even if a permit were sought now, the tower is in an area which allows only 35-foot high structures.

Lynch said, after talking to Mayor A. V. Sorensen "we felt there was no safety violation because of the strict state and federal building regulations. So rather than make a big disturbance, it was decided to allow construction and get the programs on the air."

Beatrice Board Checks Benefits From Federal Aid

Beatrice (UPI) — The Beatrice School Board is investigating ways the city can benefit by the federal elementary secondary education act.

Supt. of Schools Dr. Paul Sell has told the board a total of $98,791 is available to Beatrice schools to cover 540 students from poverty stricken families earning less than $2,000 annually.

One board member has already registered opposition to the program. Leonard Whittaker said "It is revolting to take it just because it is offered."

The program would cover such things as nurses, social workers, shoes, teeth and glasses.

Nebraska City's New School Plan Okayed By Board

Nebraska City (UPI) — The Board of Education has given its endorsement to a plan for a new elementary school building for Nebraska City. Board president Harry Bischop this week directed Supt. Sam Metcalf to show the plans to state educators and seek further advice.

The proposed structure would be circular.

The district has $162,520 in cash and investments to pay toward the new building. In addition, the district has an elementary building fund tax levy.

Surgery Conference

Omaha (UPI) — The departments of surgery of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine and the University of Kansas Medical Center are collaborating on "The Cornhusker Conference on Surgery." Sessions will begin at 9 a.m. Nov. 6.

Nebraska Grange Honors Blair Farm Couple

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Nebraska's Young Couple of the Year is Mr. and Mrs. Everett Holstein of Rt. 2, Blair as awarded by the Nebraska State Grange Wednesday at its 55th annual session.

The Holsteins specialize in a swine operation where 800 to 900 hogs a year are marketed from their 230 acre farm. They have two sons and a daughter.

Runner-up honors for the young couple award went to Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Miller of Western.

Grange Talent Winner

Wednesday speakers in Grange sessions included Sen. Carl T. Curtis, Dr. Elvin Frolik, dean of the College of Agriculture; Don H. Shriner, director of Nebraska's Centennial and Allen Wheeler, master of the Oregon Grange.

Curtis objected to what he termed "working people" being taxed to pay the medical expenses of the well-to-do.

While saying he favors extending government assistance with medical expenses to older people, Curtis said the social security tax "falls on the first dollar of income, for all employes and self employed."

Curtis said the Social Security tax offers no exemption, that it is collected on the earnings of the crippled, the blind, and every handicapped person.

Shriner challenged Grange members to take a close look at opportunities the state might enjoy if Nebraska would incorporate programs to keep Nebraska youth in the state.

"I don't see any reason why we can't do with the State of Nebraska what Coach Bob Devaney has done with Nebraska football.

"Using primarily Nebraska youth, with cooperation and planning, Devaney has placed Nebraska No. 1 in the nation in football. This same opportunity is available to our beef industry if we have unified direction and cooperation in promoting Nebraska sirloins to replace New York steaks," said Shriner.

Dr. Elvin Frolik, dean of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture and Home Economics, predicted that farmers ten years hence will be continuing to enlarge operations and investment in automation and specialization to meet the widening gap between gross and net income.

Three Methodist Pastors Named

The Rev. Elmer T. Shaw is now pastor at the Asbury Methodist Church succeeding the late Rev. George E. Danskin.

A member of the Nebraska Wesleyan faculty, The Rev. Glen Bush, will preach at Alvo and The Rev. Richard Trotter will be pastor of the Palmyra Methodist Church.

2% Rural Electric Loans Supported

Rapid City, S.D. (UPI) —A rural electric cooperative group has asked the Johnson administration and Congress to continue the rural electric loan rate at 2%.

"We believe that with the continuing decline in population in the rural areas the existence of most of these (rural electrification) systems is still dependent upon continued 2%, 35 year loans for distribution and generation and transmission purposes," the group said.

The statement was contained in a resolution passed at a meeting of the Region VI rural electric cooperatives.

The group said that one-cent electricity should continue to be the goal of rural electric systems.

"The cost of money is one important factor in attaining this goal," the resolution said.

The group said that any supplemental method of financing should:

—Result in low-cost power for rural electric members and the lowest possible retail rates.

—Let rural electric cooperatives share the economy which results in large scale generation and transmission.

—Let rural electrics own and control their own cooperatives and to provide adequate financing of these cooperatives.

The group said a study report for intermediate financing and a bank for rural electric systems did not meet the criteria. It said additional study should be made of other methods of financing rural electric systems.

Czech Loan Fund Aided 153 At NU

A student loan fund established to memoralize the Czech pioneers who settled in this country has assisted 153 University of Nebraska students since it was inaugurated three years ago.

Val Kuska of Lincoln, vice chairman of the fund, said slightly more than $20,000 has been collected from persons of Czech descent who live in Nebraska or are former Nebraskans. He said efforts are being made to increase the fund.

'Serious Errors' Found In Ride

. . . NEW JERSEY FAIR REPORT CONCLUDES

A New Jersey firm has concluded "serious errors in manufacture" caused the Sept. 5 sky-ride accident at the Nebraska State Fair.

Gov. Frank Morrison Wednesday released a report from Alan Hawes, president of Universal Design Ltd. of Wildwood, N.J., designers and manufacturers of amusement rides and ski lifts, but not the ill-fated ride at the Nebraska fair.

Two persons were killed and some 50 injured by the W. T. Collins Show ride which tumbled gondolas and people onto the crowd below. Two of the injured died later.

Coinciding Report

State Safety Engineer Ben Zerzan said the Hawes report "coincides" with his earlier report that the sheaves in the falling tower had split and caused the cable to jam, pulling the tower to the ground.

In releasing the report, Gov. Morrison said he has asked the Department of Labor's safety division to prepare a list of safety standards on which to base an executive order for the Nebraska State Fair.

He said he hoped county fairs would also abide by the suggested safety standards.

Employment of a full-time safety engineer has been authorized by the Fair Board.

Cap Screws Missing

The Hawes report said a photograph of the "running sheaves (showed) several of the cap screws holding the outer rim are missing and the outer rim is covered with grease and scored in several places."

"This condition was due to the extreme downward forces of the cable, splitting the she . .s and causing them to bind in the pair beam."

Hawes listed these "serious errors in manufacture" of the sheaves:

—Cap screws threaded into the back plate are insufficient; they should have been of larger diameter and bolted through the back plate.

Rubber Used

—Use of rubber for the running tower is bad practice due to fact rubber breaks down when exposed to oil. Polyurethane sheave tires should have been used.

—There is insufficient clearance between the pair beams inner surface and the face of the running sheaves. This indicates use of a bronze bushing instead of a roller bearing and in this particular application, a bronze bushing is inadequate due to excessive loads.

Two of the four towers toppled in the State Fair midway accident and a number of damage and injury suits have been filed in Lancaster County District Court as a result of the mishap.

53 Workers To Help In Postal Yule Rush

Fifty-three temporary workers will be hired by the Lincoln Post Office this year to handle the onslaught of holiday mail.

Discontinuance Of Custodian At Station OKd

The State Railway Commission reported Wednesday it has granted the Burlington Railroad's request to discontinue the railroad's custodian at its Ellsworth station.

The railroad said declining business at the station makes a custodian no longer necessary.

The commission set Oct. 19 for a hearing in Lincoln on the application of Cornhusker State Telephone Co. Inc., of Wisner, for authority to adjust its rates and charges for telephone service to its Cotesfield exchange.

Food For Peace Director To Talk

The national director of the Food for Peace program, Richard W. Reuter, will be the keynote speaker at the governor's Food for Peace Conference here Firday.

More than 300 representatives of producer, processing, marketing, educational and civic groups have been invited to the one-day session designed to study Nebraska's role in the federal program for export of surplus agricultural products to needy foreign countries.

Reuter, a special assistant to President Johnson, will describe Nebraska's participation in the overseas assistance program.

Others scheduled to speak at the meeting include Gov. Frank Morrison, State Agriculture Director Pearle Finigan and University of Nebraska agricultural economist Howard Ottoson.

Witthoff: Callan Image Hides Rubber Stamp Congressman

State Republican Chairman Walter Witthoff said Wednesday Democratic Congressman Clair Callan supported most of President Johnson's new society programs.

He said: "Callan's manufactured image of independence only attempts to hide the fact that he is one of a bumper crop of freshmen Democrats who know they had better do as they are told."

Witthoff, of Fremont, said Callan's only contribution to the decision to keep the Lincoln veterans hospital open was a "blizzard of press releases." He said GOP pressure in the Senate did the trick.

Witthoff also said that Callan's supporters boast that the Odell Democrat got four watershed projects approved for the First Congressional District.

"This is so routine that one hardly has to point out that of the 660 such projects submitted since the inception of the program, only six have been held over. Bandwagon Clair wasn't even around for any of the planning for these projects," Witthoff said. . . . .

"The approval is a tribute to the dedicated men of our local watershed and conservation district boards, not a Johnny-come-lately rubber stamp congressman."

The condor is a very high flying bird, and is able to withstand variations in air pressure that would kill many other creatures. The condor can easily go from sea level to an altitude of 16,000 feet.

Measles was first scientifically recorded by Arabian physicians in the Ninth and 10th centuries. In more primitive days it was frequently confused with smallpox.

POSTCARD by Stan Kleppler

Indian summer has come to our hillsides. The warm days are full of insects' buzz and the floating fluff of dandelion seed. (Whose offspring I'll be weeding out next summer.)

I fought weeds all summer. But now I have given up—let winter kill them off. The battle against Nature is all fang and claw. I intend to hire mercenary troops. A gardener to come in once a month.

I will direct the strategic battle. An Alexander facing Darius at the Tigris.

Up in the sky-high sierra, the aspen are turning autumn gold. From the Truckee meadows, Walter Ramage, the Reno innkeeper, reports he has captured "the best chef in Nevada."

Hotel men stalk chefs like big game hunters go after rare animals. (They are brought down with silver bullets. The higher caliber silver, the better the chef.)

Soon winter will blow over Nevada. And snug beside the bubbling Truckee River, Ramage can point out "the best chef" to visiting slot machine pullers.

"Got him with a snap shot contract just as he started to run over the hill to Las Vegas."

Salmon are running offshore in the Pacific. His last fling before he goes upstream to die for love. He is all heart, the salmon.

Only the Pacific salmon loves and dies. The Atlantic salmon, the bounder, loves and goes back to sea. Leaving the wife and kiddies to fend for themselves.

Up in New England, the maples are turning. They are measuring the bands on the woolly bear.

The woolly bear is a striped caterpillar. At this time of year, he grows brown bands.

If he has broad bands, it will be a mild winter.

If he has narrow bands, it will be severe.

The woolly bear, therefore, tells us when to get into our woolly underwear.

Come spring, the woolly bear turns into a moth—a process called metamorphosis for want of a better word like screwball.

I wouldn't put any trust in weather predictions from an animal that can't make up its mind whether to crawl or fly.

They warned Orville and they warned Wilbur at Kitty-hawk. And what have we got today?

"Your flight will be delayed one hour due to mechanical difficulties."

Speaking of mechanics, the heater has been acting up. That is a sure sign of coming winter.

Heaters are manufactured with a built-in time bomb. Set to go off just after the guarantee runs out. Preferably when autumn nights turn chilly.

At this time, the heater man is rare game—like a chef in Nevada.

"We'll try to get over there in a few days. But it may not be until next week."

The world, dear people, is a tenth of a second slower. Winter will come a tenth of a second later. It is later than you think—by a tenth of a second.

This has been figured out by atomic clocks. Which were invented after we got the atomic bomb. (No mushroom cloud without its silver lining, eh, Claude?)

The world is spinning a tenth of a second later on its axis.

It is absolutely accurate, the atomic clock. Never needs to go to the jeweler who screws the glass in his eye and says:

"Have you dropped it recently?"

A foolish question. Who hasn't dropped a watch recently? But if you cop a plea and say "yes," he shakes his head sadly. And adds $20 to the bill.

Another excellent way to predict the winter: take your car in for servicing.

If they put in anti-freeze, winter will be mild as a day in May.

But if they forget to put in anti-freeze! The north wind will blow. And we shall have snow. And the repair bill will murder you.

Director Frank Barrett said he has asked the Arizona Insurance Department to prohibit the company from sending its material to Nebraska.

You'll save money when you drink Awake.

See?

There's 10 cents right under your nose towards the purchase of your next can of Awake.

And how does Awake taste?

You know...as good as the best frozen orange juice you can buy.

Quite an accomplishment when you consider Awake doesn't contain any orange juice at all. Awake is something entirely new to breakfast beverages, especially created by Birds Eye. But taste is only one reason why you'll like it. Awake also has more vitamin C, B_1 and A than frozen orange juice.

And is more convenient. Awake is frozen but does not freeze solid. You can make it by the pitcher . . . or spoon it out and make it by the glass.

And even without the coupon, Awake is a good buy. One nine-ounce can of Awake makes as much beverage as two six-ounce cans of frozen orange juice.

Of course, since there is a coupon, there couldn't be a better time to drink Awake. See?

Nebraska Grange Honors Blair Farm Couple

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Nebraska's Young Couple of the Year is Mr. and Mrs. Everett Holstein of Rt. 2, Blair as awarded by the Nebraska State Grange Wednesday at its 55th annual session.

The Holsteins specialize in a swine operation where 800 to 900 hogs a year are marketed from their 230 acre farm. They have two sons and a daughter.

Runner-up honors for the young couple award went to Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Miller of Western.

Grange Talent Winner

Wednesday speakers in Grange sessions included Sen. Carl T. Curtis, Dr. Elvin Frolik, dean of the College of Agriculture; Don H. Shriner, director of Nebraska's Centennial and Allen Wheeler, master of the Oregon Grange.

Curtis objected to what he termed "working people" being taxed to pay the medical expenses of the well-to-do.

While saying he favors extending government assistance with medical expenses to older people, Curtis said the social security tax "falls on the first dollar of income, for all employes and self employed."

Curtis said the Social Security tax offers no exemption, that it is collected on the earnings of the crippled, the blind, and every handicapped person.

Shriner challenged Grange members to take a close look at opportunities the state might enjoy if Nebraska would incorporate programs to keep Nebraska youth in the state.

"I don't see any reason why we can't do with the State of Nebraska what Coach Bob Devaney has done with Nebraska football.

"Using primarily Nebraska youth, with cooperation and planning, Devaney has placed Nebraska No. 1 in the nation in football. This same opportunity is available to our beef industry if we have unified direction and cooperation in promoting Nebraska sirloins to replace New York steaks," said Shriner.

Dr. Elvin Frolik, dean of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture and Home Economics, predicted that farmers ten years hence will be continuing to enlarge operations and investment in automation and specialization to meet the widening gap between gross and net income.

Three Methodist Pastors Named

Culture Chief Charged With Interest Conflict

Washington (UPI) — Rep. William Widrall, R-N.J., Wednesday called for congressional hearings into the "very definite conflict of interest" between the public and private roles of Roger Stevens, the government's new culture chief.

Stevens, a prominent theatrical figure, is the first chairman of the National Endowment of the Arts, an agency born last week when President Johnson signed legislation creating a program of federal aid to the arts and humanities.

The legislation authorizes Stevens, with the assistance of an advisory council, to distribute up to $10 million in matching grants to public and private nonprofit groups engaged in the creative and performing arts.

Widnall noted that Stevens has talked of providing some funds to help build small playhouses in shopping centers throughout the nation.

Holdings In Plays

"He has residual holdings in such plays as 'Mary, Mary' and 'Cat on a Hot Tin Roof' that could be brought to these theaters," Widnall told a reporter.

A similar complaint was raised during House debate on the bill by Rep. Albert Quie, R-Minn., who said the playhouses "could conceivably be used" for road companies of plays in which Stevens has a financial interest.

Quie and Widnall were unsuccessful in getting the House to amend the bill so that the post Stevens occupies would be subject to Senate confirmation, a procedure under which he could be questioned about his holdings.

Widnall said he still felt that some sort of public congressional hearings should be held.

'Definite Conflict'

"I feel there is a definite conflict of interest in his being head of the new arts department," Widnall said.

Stevens was out of town and unavailable for comment.

Coming to his defense, however, was Sen. Clairborne Pell, D-R.I., Senate sponsor of the legislation. Pell said he had every confidence in Stevens and was sure that he would act with "propriety" in matters involving the public interest.

In a statement he inserted into the Congressional Record later in the day, Widnall said:

"Once again I urge that we require Senate confirmation of his appointment or we may be faced at every supermarket with such cultural contributions as 'Mary, Mary' and 'Cat on a Hot Tin Roof,' in which he has a final interest."

Soviet Union Is Reportedly Falling Behind U.S. Economy

Washington (UPI) — Russia is falling farther and farther behind in its race to catch up with the United States economically, a U.S. State Department report claimed Wednesday.

It cautioned, however, that although the Soviet economy is roughly half the size of this country's, it has heavily concentrated on military and space programs and "worldwide activities of serious consequence to U.S. security interests."

The report said the rate of growth of the Soviet gross national product (GNP) has decliined from an average of 6½% during the 1950s to an average of 4½% in the first half of the 1960s.

Although the two growth rates now are about equal, the report said, the U.S. economy is so much bigger that during the past five years the gap in output has widened by $60 billion in favor of the United States.

It said the U.S. economy is expected to continue to grow at 4% yearly. This would mean that even if Russia is able to halt its declining trend and maintain a growth rate of 4½%, it still would be far behind the United States in 1970. It will have about half the GNP, or total goods and services produced.

The report cited four main reasons for Soviet economic difficulties: concentration on defense production after 1958, agriculture failures, difficulty in adopting new technology, and a declining rate of investment in new industrial palnts.

'Serious Errors' Found In Ride

. . . NEW JERSEY FAIR REPORT CONCLUDES

. New Jersey firm has cluded "serious errors in nufacture" caused the t. 5 sky-ride accident at Nebraska State Fair.

ov. Frank Morrison dnesday released a report m Alan Hawes, president Universal Design Ltd. of dwood, N.J., designers and nufacturers of amusement es and ski lifts, but not ill-fated ride at the Ne- ska fair.

'wo persons were killed l some 50 injured by the T. Collins Show ride ich tumbled gondolas and ple onto the crowd below. o of the injured died later.

Coinciding Report

tate Safety Engineer Ben zan said the Hawes report oincides" with his earlier ort that the sheaves in the ing tower had split and sed the cable to jam, ling the tower to the und.

n releasing the report, .. Morrison said he has ed the Department of La- 's safety division to prepare a list of safety standards on which to base an executive order for the Nebraska State Fair.

He said he hoped county fairs would also abide by the suggested safety standards.

Employment of a full-time safety engineer has been authorized by the Fair Board.

Cap Screws Missing

The Hawes report said a photograph of the "running sheaves (showed) several of the cap screws holding the outer rim are missing and the outer rim is covered with grease and scored in several places."

"This condition was due to the extreme downward forces of the cable, splitting the she . .s and causing them to bind in the pair beam."

Hawes listed these "serious errors in manufacture" of the sheaves:

—Cap screws threaded into the back plate are insufficient; they should have been of larger diameter and bolted through the back plate.

Rubber Used

—Use of rubber for the running tower is bad practice due to fact rubber breaks down when exposed to oil. Polyurethane sheave tires should have been used.

—There is insufficient clearance between the pair beams inner surface and the face of the running sheaves. This indicates use of a bronze bushing instead of a roller bearing and in this particular application, a bronze bushing is inadequate due to excessive loads.

Two of the four towers toppled in the State Fair midway accident and a number of damage and injury suits have been filed in Lancaster County District Court as a result of the mishap.

53 Workers To Help In Postal Yule Rush

Fifty-three temporary workers will be hired by the Lincoln Post Office this year to handle the onslaught of holiday mail.

The Post Office Department expects a record mail volume this December.

Discontinuance Of Custodian At Station OKd

The State Railway Commission reported Wednesday it has granted the Burlington Railroad's request to discontinue the railroad's custodian at its Ellsworth station.

The railroad said declining business at the station makes a custodian no longer necessary

The commission set Oct. 19 for a hearing in Lincoln on the application of Cornhusker State Telephone Co. Inc., of Wisner, for authority to adjust its rates and charges for telephone service to its Cotesfield exchange.

Food For Peace Director To Talk

The national director of the Food for Peace program, Richard W. Reuter, will be the keynote speaker at the governor's Food for Peace Conference here Firday.

More than 300 representatives of producer, processing, marketing, educational and civic groups have been invited to the one-day session designed to study Nebraska's role in the federal program for export of surplus agricultural products to needy foreign countries.

Reuter, a special assistant to President Johnson, will describe Nebraska's participation in the overseas assistance program.

Witthoff: Callan Image Hides Rubber Stamp Congressman

State Republican Chairman Walter Witthoff said Wednesday Democratic Congressman Clair Callan supported most of President Johnson's new society programs

He said: "Callan's manufactured image of independence only attempts to hide the fact that he is one of a bumper crop of freshmen Democrats who know they had better do as they are told."

Witthoff, of Fremont, said Callan's only contribution to the decision to keep the Lincoln veterans hospital open was a "blizzard of press releases." He said GOP pressure in the Senate did the trick

Witthoff also said that Callan's supporters boast that the Odell Democrat got four watershed projects approved for the First Congressional District.

"This is so routine that one hardly has to point out that of the 660 such projects submitted since the inception of the program, only six have been held over. Bandwagon Clair wasn't even around for any of the planning for these projects," Witthoff said.

"The approval is a tribute to the dedicated men of our local watershed and conservation district boards, not a Johnny-come-lately rubber stamp congressman."

The condor is a very high flying bird, and is able to withstand variations in air pressure that would kill many other creatures. The condor can easily go from sea level to an altitude of 15,000 feet.

Measles was first scientifically recorded by Arabian physicians in the Ninth and 10th centuries. In more primitive days it was frequently confused with smallpox.

Toothache Determined Time Maldives Got Independence

London (AP) — A toothache determined the exact time of the granting of independence to the Maldive Islands — the newest, smallest and least populated member of the United Nations.

Maldivian Prime Minister Ibrahim Nasir had been nursing a toothach at his home in Male, capital of the British-protectorate island chain in the Indian Ocean. Since there are no dentists in the Maldives, he set out on the three-day boat trip to Ceylon.

The British had held the Maldives since 1887, but had long ago drawn up independence papers for the 95,000 inhabitants.

So Nasir decided July 26 that since he was in Colombo, Ceylon, he would drop by the British high commissioner's office and sign the papers. That was about all there was to it.

No Ceremony

There was no Union Jack dramatically to haul down. No members of British royalty were present. Nasir enabled the Maldive Islands to join the stampede of newly emerging countries simply by signing his name.

The 2,000 coral islands — 220 inhabited — that make up the Maldives form a north-south, 500-mile chain 400 miles southwest of Ceylon. Combined they total 115 square miles, a little more than half the size of Andorra.

The people of the northern clusters of islands have long carried on commerce with India, married Indian wives, and today resemble the dark-skinned Dravidians of southern India.

Arabs, Sinhalese

The central islands, which have been under the direct rule of the sultan at Male (population 12,000), were settled by Arabs from the Middle East and Indonesia. The people of the southern islands are related to the Sinhalese villagers of Ceylon.

The islands have always governed themselves. Great Britain never sent a permanent administrator to Male. The only responsibility she assumed was to conduct non-existent foreign affairs and little-needed defense.

Her only interests today are the air force base on Gan Island in the southerly Addu atoll group and a British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) radio station on Hitaddo Island to the north.

British military strategists consider the Gan Island base vital to any east-of-Suez undertaking. Commercial airlines call an emergency landing strip in that part of the Indian Ocean a necessity.

1959 Incident

It was this base that a few years ago started the closest thing to political turmoil the area has seen. Prime Minister Nasir, who came to power in 1957, and a handful of Cairo-trained leaders were unhappy at Britain's protecting role. In February 1959, they put pressure on the Gan base by ordering islanders not to work for the British.

But the local islanders, friendly with the 800 RAF airmen and unhappy with sharing income from the base with the northern islands, raised the flag of revolt.

They formed the United Suvadivian Republic, fought against the central government, but collapsed when the British signed an agreement with Nasir.

Seclusion

Even with U.N. membership, the Maldives are expected to continue to enjoy the seclusion offered by their ocean surrounding.

They have not joined the British Commonwealth and communicate with Britain only through Ceylon. Until recently, the Maldivian foreign service consisted of a male fish trader in Ceylon.

And to date no one has been sent to New York to occupy the Maldivian seat in the United Nations.

Astronaut White Says Moon Flight Tops Things He Wants

Washington (UPI) — Astronaut Edward H. White said Wednesday a space flight to the moon is "at the very top of the things I want to do."

White, first American to take a "space walk," made the comment in reply to a question at the sixth annual United Press International Conference of Editors and Publishers.

White was asked if he were eager to make a moon trip as a followup of his Gemini 4 flight when he spent about 20 minutes floating outside his capsule.

Before White could answer, his Gemini 4 partner, James A. McDivitt, interrupted to say: "He's eager."

Top Of List

"Jim knows me pretty well," said White. "For myself . . . it's at the very top of the things I want to do."

McDivitt said he hoped the next two Gemini flights would "eliminate some of the bugaboos about the dangers of space" to man. Gemini-6 is scheduled to be launched Oct. 25.

White and McDivitt narrated a film of their flight and White's "space walk" at an afternoon session of the UPI conference.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., chairman of the Republican Senate Campaign Committee, was speaking at Wednesday night's concluding banquet.

The president of the American Bar Association told the meeting that the ABA is revising its code of ethics and may include penalties up to disbarment for lawyers who jeopardize fair trials by out-of-court statements.

Edward W. Kuhn discussed the possible penalties for over talkative prosecutors and defense attorneys in reply to questions after addressing the conference.

Kuhn also urged newspapers not to publish criminal records or confessions of accused persons prior to a trial.

Kuhn said the press and bar groups should exercise stricter self-discipline to reduce the peril to fair criminal trials.

Bar-Press Liaison

He suggested creation of bar-press liaison committees as a means of finding "reasonable soluitons" to the problem of reconciling constitutional guarantees of a free press and a fair trial.

"We readily concede that much of what we lawyers criticize as 'trial by newspaper' is brought about by a tendency of some prosecutors and some defense lawyers to indulge in 'trial by publicity' through public statements about pending cases that are prejudicial to fair trial," Kuhn said.

He stressed however that he was expressing his own views and not speaking for the ABA in recommdnding joint committees to discuss problems as they arise in hopes of reaching agreement on solutions.

Richard Milliman, publisher of the Mount Pleasant (Mich.) Times News, discussed the controversial policy on publishing names of juveniles involved in crimes.

Milliman said the names should be withheld in some cases but reported in serious crimes and other instances where secrecy would hurt more people than it would help.

Commission Mediates Two Race Cases

Washington (AP) — Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, said Wednesday the first two cases involving discrimination based on race had been successfully mediated.

Both cases involved companies in Southern states and the complaints alleged discrimination in hiring, testing, promotion, pay and segregated locker room facilities.

Under the civil rights law of 1964, the commission is not permitted to make public specifics in terms of names and places. It can report in general terms on its efforts to conciliate disputes.

Roosevelt said after the commission's investigation, the companies agreed to desegregate locker facilities and to standardize testing and promotion opportunities. On wage differentials in one case, the commission said the company and union involved agreed to take this up in new contract negotiations scheduled in February.

"The commission feels that the outcome of these cases demonstrates an encouraging willingness by the parties to comply with the requirements of . . . the civil rights act of 1964," Roosevelt said.

NEWS

of activity in suburban areas

Dust mops are flying with a fine burst of speed as many homemakers report an open season on house cleaning this morning.

And why all of this tidying up? Well, our guess would have to be that homes are being dressed up for all the guests who are arriving in and around the Park Manor area.

But, there is a second possible explanation that involves many residents are moving out of their old homes into new ones this week. And just to keep you informed as to where everyone is at these days we will mention a few of the "movers" in this morning's news. Here is what is happening.

PARK MANOR

First to the guest list, and at the top of the list we see the name of Mrs. Conrad Featherstone who spent the past weekend visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Adams. Mrs. Featherstone arrived in Lincoln on Friday and left for her home in Sioux City, Iowa, again on Monday.

A second glance at the list brought forth the name of another visitor who is the current house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Adams. The guest is a former Lincoln resident, Earl Cawthorme, now of Denver, Colo. Mr. Cawthorme arrived in the city Tuesday and will remain through Saturday as he plans to attend the Nebraska-Wisconsin football game Saturday afternoon.

Since we mentioned the Nebraska-Wisconsin football game, we might also mention that Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Harris and daughter, Shelly, and sons Mark and David, will be coming to Lincoln on Friday with intentions of viewing the football game on Saturday afternoon. The fivesome, from Madison, Wis. plans to make a Friday-to-Sunday visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willis D. Moreland.

And we can see that Saturday will be a busy day for the Wisconsin guests. First there will be the game and then it will be back to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Moreland where a gathering of the old neighbors and friends of Dr. and Mrs. Harris will take place that evening.

We might add that Dr. Harris was formerly associated with the math department at the University of Nebraska before he joined the University of Wisconsin faculty.

So far we have been talking about the weekend, but today is Thursday and tonight it will be the officers of Ceres Club who will be meeting for social and for business reasons. The gathering will take place at the home of Mrs. Max Schuster. A dessert will begin the evening activities after which the new officers, the monthly chairmen and the program chairmen will set up the club's program for the year.

We might mention that the new officers are Mrs. Elvin Frolik, honorary president; Mrs. J. C. Swinbank, president; Mrs. Oliver Grace, first vice-president; Mrs. Otis Cross, second vice-president; Mrs. Walter Bayley, secretary; and Mrs. R. C. Gore, treasurer.

We hear that Mr. and Mrs. George Hassing have left their Park Manor home at 1941 Bermuda Dr. The couple and their children, Toni, Jeanne, Jimmy and Tommy, now claim 216 North 117th St. in Omaha as their new place of residence.

And we hear there are new neighbors in the Park Manor area and new residents at the former home of Mr. and Mrs. Hassing. We are speaking of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brayman.

And for a second round of address switching let's take a walk down the path to 1910 Broadmore Dr. New residents at that address are Mr. and Mrs. Bert Haas and they are now residing at the former home of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson moved earlier this week to their new home on Taylor Park Dr.

We are always sorry to see the old neighbors go, but to the new residents a big welcome!

Chapel Ceremony

At an 8 o'clock service on Monday evening, Oct. 4, the marriage of Miss Karolyn Sims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Sims, to Robert Luecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Luecker, took place in the chapel at St. Paul Methodist Church. The Rev. Harold C. Sandall read the lines in the presence of only members of the families.

Mrs. Charles La Pointe, sister of the bridegroom, was the matron of honor and the bride's only attendant. Mrs. La Pointe wore an after-five frock of pastel blue silk and carried a bouquet of pale pink carnations.

Richard Luecker, twin brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

For her wedding the bride chose a costume suit of off-white wool, and completed her ensemble with a brief circular veil. She carried a bouquet of pale pink roses.

Mr. Luecker and his bride will reside at 2640 So. 11th St.

PLANS

of women's organizations

At the October meeting of the Nebraska Alpha Chapter of Delta Theta Chi, held at the home of Mrs. Richard Vestecka, plans for the Electra Province Conclave which will be held in Wichita, Kan., on Oct. 15, 16 and 17, were discussed.

Going from Lincoln to the Conclave will be Mrs. Richard Vestecka, the province treasurer; Mrs. Irvin Schneider, Mrs. Charles Lindgren, Mrs. Don Baird, Mrs. L. P. Smith, Miss Frances Brusnahan, Miss Norma Hansen and Miss Agnes Van Ackeren.

Mrs. Vestecka will be a candidate for the office of province vice-president.

The three Epsilon Sigma Alpha chapters in Lincoln wear an air of mystery these days. The mystery involves the unusual badges upon which are the letters S.F.T.M., each member is wearing. We are told that S.F.T.M. week begins on Monday, Oct. 11, and continues through Oct. 16.

Epsilon Sigma Alpha chapters in Lincoln are particularly active in philanthropic projects for local organizations, hospitals and the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The excellent training which Camp Fire Girls gives its volunteer leaders is continuing. On Monday, Oct. 11, there will be a Blue Bird workshop at Christ Methodist Church at 9:00 a.m. It will open with a singing session led by Mrs. Harold Salter. This will be followed by a class on creative dramatics conducted by Mrs. Stephen Cole and a session on crafts conducted by Mrs. Robert Peterson. The group will be divided into two sections—one will go to creative dramatics for the first part of the morning—then they will exchange.

On Tuesday, Oct. 12, there will be a Camp Fire Guardians session with special emphasis on symbolism and ceremonials. This will be conducted by grade level. Mrs. Dean McMurtry will work with fourth grade, Mrs. Charles Lindgren with fifth, and Mrs. William Manton with sixth.

Special guest observer at these workshop sessions will be Miss Von Dell Glaser, new Region VII field adviser who will visit the council during these two days.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY. Can you help settle an argument? It is between my husband and me and I hope you won't think it's too dumb to bother with. Our son has been away in the service for two years. He served his last eight months in Vietnam, and we just got word that he is coming home. He was awarded three medals for bravery and we are very proud of him. I had my brother paint some "WELCOME HOME" signs which I want to put up on our front lawn with flags all around. My husband says it will look like we're showing off for the neighbors and if we want to put up signs inside the house, it's okay, but not out in front of the house. Abby, I planned a big party with all our friends and relatives, and his friends, too, and thought the signs on the lawn would give the boy a thrill when he first catches sight of the house. What do you say, Abby?

PROUD MOTHER

DEAR PROUD: I say put the signs on the lawn, and if you can line up a brass band—that's all right, too!

DEAR ABBY: Several weeks ago I started having a series of baking failures. First a cake which I had made successfully dozens of times "ran over" and it took me an hour to clean up the mess it made in my oven. (Perhaps I should mention that the recipe called for ½ cup oil.)

Then my favorite cookies, which I had made for years, came out so dry I had to throw them out. Thinking my oven was off, I had it checked only to find out it was perfect. I couldn't for the life of me figure out what was wrong.

Finally, I remembered that I had bought a one-cup measuring cup at my neighborhood supermarket. I carefully compared its capacity to that of my standard measuring cup, and to my utter amazement discovered that my "new" cup held ONE-FOURTH CUP more! Pass this on to your readers, Abby, for whatever it's worth. CONFIDENCE REGAINED:

DEAR CONFIDENCE: Thank you for your helpful tip. All right, girls, when you've finished reading the newspaper, go measure your measuring cups. I've just checked mine and they are accurate — sixteen tablespoons to the standard cup.

Opening lead — king of hearts.

Declarer sometimes has to play in an abnormal manner because a particular situation calls for it. Such plays, being off the beaten path, are frequently overlooked in practice, but they can often be justified by careful analysis.

South is in five clubs. Let's say he ruffs the heart lead in dummy and decides to stake his all on a diamond finesse.

Accordingly, he cashes the ace of diamonds, draws three rounds of trumps, and leads the jack of diamonds. West and dummy play low, and East wins with the queen. The defenders then grab two hearts and a spade and South goes down two.

Declarer's method of play has about an even chance of success, and it cannot therefore be said that his plan of play was hopeless.

However, a different line of play has a greater chance of success, even though no guarantees go with it. South should attempt it in line with the general theory that when two methods of play are available, the method more likely to win in the long run should be selected.

After ruffing the heart at trick one, South's next play should be a low diamond from dummy. In the actual hand, East cannot do better than take the queen, after which South makes eleven tricks regardless of what East returns.

However, let's say that West has the queen, which is certainly possible. In that case East plays low and South's eight forces the queen, after which the defense is once again helpless.

The purpose of the low diamond play at trick two is to establish the diamond suit while dummy's one remaining trump stands guard against a heart return. At the same time South establishes a diamond entry to his hand.

The plan fails if the diamonds are divided 4-1 and the defense secures a diamond ruff, but there is much more chance of finding a 3-2 diamond division than there is of winning a diamond finesse.

honored by music sorority

When the alumnae of Mu Phi Epsilon, professional music sorority, held a meeting at the home of Mrs. Louis Trzcinski on Tuesday evening they honored the sorority's national vice-president, Mrs. R. S. Lowrance of Atlanta, Ga.

Mrs. Lowrance is in Lincoln for a few days and is visiting both the collegiate and alumnae chapters of Mu Phi.

During the evening plans for the concert to be given on Sunday afternoon by Lynn Wilgus Lewis, pianist, were discussed.

PTA Officers

Officers of Norwood Park PTA were introduced at the September meeting of the unit, when summer garden and reading awards were presented to the pupils.

Mrs. Lester Woodrum is president of the group, and other officers are Mrs. Dale Helmkamp, vice president; Mrs. Ivan Waples, secretary; and John Schmidt, treasurer.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY. Can you help settle an argument? It is between my husband and me and I hope you won't think it's too dumb to bother with. Our son has been away in the service for two years. He served his last eight months in Vietnam, and we just got word that he is coming home. He was awarded three medals for bravery and we are very proud of him. I had my brother paint some "WELCOME HOME" signs which I want to put up on our front lawn with flags all around. My husband says it will look like we're showing off for the neighbors and if we want to put up signs inside the house, it's okay, but not out in front of the house. Abby, I planned a big party with all our friends and relatives, and his friends, too, and thought the signs on the lawn would give the boy a thrill when he first catches sight of the house. What do you say, Abby?

PROUD MOTHER

DEAR PROUD: I say put the signs on the lawn, and if you can line up a brass band—that's all right, too!

Uncut, it looks like an ordinary chiffon-type pumpkin pie. But, remove the first piece and reveal a surprise. There's a layer of vanilla ice cream underneath.

And, it's a delightful flavor surprise, too. The smooth vanilla ice cream goes with the spicy pumpkin mixture as if they were made for each other.

The third surprise offered by Pumpkin Ice Cream Pie is the ease of preparation. Just prepare a pie shell from your favorite recipe or mix, bake it and chill it. Then spread vanilla ice cream over the bottom and top it with the easily prepared pumpkin chiffon mixture. Into the freezer and out again for a dessert that's loaded with surprises and delicious eating.

- 1 cup caned pumpkin
- ¾ cup sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon ginger

- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 cup whipping cream, whipped (½ pint)

Spoon ice cream over bottom of pie shell. Store in freezer while preparing pumpkin mixture. Combine pumpkin, sugar, salt and spices; mix. Fold in whipped cream. Remove pie from freezer. Spread pumpkin mixture evenly over ice cream. Freeze. Makes one 9-inch pie.

Cheese-Butter Buns

Celebrities More Popular Than Fashion

There are fashion shoes and — there are fashion shows. In New York City recently there was a sale. Some of the latest wiles in feminine apparel had what might be considered (by some) near-to-nothing price tags on copies. But although the sales staff was up to par as far as the dulcet tones were concerned, what they had to say fell on deaf ears. Jean Sprain Wilson, fashion writer for the Associated Press, tells you why.

Hundreds of the world's richest, best dressed and best known women swarmed into Ohrbach's today to do their semi-annual Paris fashion bargain hunting.

Crowds lined 34th Street to watch chauffeured limousines disgorge their famous passengers on to a red carpeted runway kept cleared by men dressed as French gendarmes (provided by the department store mainly for the Parisian atmosphere).

The occasion was a twin style show featuring original designs from French and Italian couture houses along with their exact copies, line for line, fabric for fabric, button for button. The copies, while hardly priced within the poor working girl's reach, are nevertheless dirt cheap compared to the designers' astronomical price tags on the originals

Still, celebrity detecting seemed more fun than fashion watching for most You could hardly hear commentator Carol Bjorkman's remarks for whispering in the audience "That's Arlene Francis over there." "Did you see Anita Loos?" Who's the lady in the steel gray page boy peering through her glasses at her program instead of putting them on?" (it was Gloria Swanson.)

Two of the world's best dressed women, Henry Ford III's daughter. Anne, and poet Ogden Nash's daughter, Isabelle (Mrs Fred Eberstadt), had already made the rounds of the Paris couture houses. But Anne stayed after the show to peruse the copies anyway.

Mrs. Eberstadt wore one of Yves St Laurent's famous paneled mondrian dresses as she watched the runway where a considerably cheaper copy of a similar dress was on parade

In paris a month ago she modeled for photographers some of the original costumes duplicated today, as did the Duchess of Windsor and several other women on the international best dressed list Her husband, Freddy, took the pictures

During the show ageless, cotton-haired, ubiquitous Hope Hampton, dripping fox fur, made an unaticipated appearance on the runway from the other end, on her way to a front row seat Betty Furness of TV; Anita Colby, Rita Gam, Wendy Barrie of show business; Mrs Gardner Cowles, the publisher's wife; Mrs Josh Logan, the director's wife, Melanie Kahane, the decorator, Nina Simone, the jazz singer, Mary Amory the wife of social reporter, Cleveland Amory; Kim Hunter and Peggy Cass, who are more show business people, were scores in the celebrity ogling game

Italian designer Patrick De Barentzen was on hand to see what American production line methods could accomplish with some of his original creations. He seemed pleased.

Other designers originals represented in the show included Chanel, Balenciaga, Givency, St Laurent, Molyneux, Patou, Ungaro, Fabiani, and another design house which insists on being identified as Monsieur X. (But that is hint enough.)

The cheapest garment was a silk crepe dress by Balenciaga for $60; the most expensive was Balenciaga's coat and dress for $395.

PTA Conference

The District I PTA Conference will be held on Tuesday, October 12, Lion's Building, Plattsmouth, from 9:00 a.m to 3 30 p.m. Mrs. Gerard H. Timothy of Nebraska City, Director of District I, will preside All PTA members and other interested persons are encouraged to attend.

The conference theme will BE "How Strong Is Your Bridge?" A well-organized PTA is a bridge between parents and school personnel. PTA also is a bridge from teachers and administrators to parents and the community. Two-way traffic must be maintained on this bridge

The first session will give PTA members information on how to function effectively on PTA committees. The highlight of this session will be a program workshop presented by Dr. Otto G. Hoiberg of the University of Nebraska faculty

The second session will open with a melodrama followed by a symposium concerning cooperation between parents, teachers, and school administrators. What do you like about PTA? What can we do to improve PTA? How can we strengthen the bridge?

Symposium participants will be—

Parents: Mrs Kenneth Gardner, Falls City.

Teacher Dean Meisinger, Plattsmouth.

Administrator Stan Carlson, Nebraska City.

School Board Member Tom M. Mocroft, Waverly.

Betty Furness of TV; Anita Colby, Rita Gam, Wendy Barrie of show business; Mrs. Gardner Cowles, the publisher's wife; Mrs. Josh Logan, the director's wife; Melanie Kahane, the decorator; Nina Simone, the jazz singer; Mary Amory the wife of social reporter, Cleveland Amory; Kim Hunter and Peggy Cass, who are more show business people, were scores in the celebrity ogling game.

Italian designer Patrick De Barentzen was on hand to see what American production line methods could accomplish with some of his original creations. He seemed pleased.

Other designers originals represented in the show included Chanel, Balenciaga, Givency, St. Laurent, Molyneux, Patou, Ungaro, Fabiani, and another design house which insists on being identified as Monsieur X. (But that is hint enough.)

The cheapest garment was a silk crepe dress by Balenciaga for $60; the most expensive was Balenciaga's coat and dress for $395.

PTA Conference

The District I PTA Conference will be held on Tuesday, October 12, Lion's Building, Plattsmouth, from 9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Mrs. Gerard H. Timothy of Nebraska City, Director of District I, will preside. All PTA members and other interested persons are encouraged to attend.

The conference theme will BE "How Strong Is Your Bridge?" A well-organized PTA is a bridge between parents and school personnel. PTA also is a bridge from teachers and administrators to parents and the community. Two-way traffic must be maintained on this bridge.

The first session will give PTA members information on how to function effectively on PTA committees. The highlight of this session will be a program workshop presented by Dr. Otto G. Hoiberg of the University of Nebraska faculty.

The second session will open with a melodrama followed by a symposium concerning cooperation between parents, teachers, and school administrators. What do you like about PTA? What can we do to improve PTA? How can we strengthen the bridge?

Symposium participants will be—

Parents: Mrs. Kenneth Gardner, Falls City.

Teacher: Dean Meisinger, Plattsmouth.

Administrator: Stan Carlson, Nebraska City.

School Board Member: Tom M. Mocroft, Waverly.

TWINS' HITTING STINGS DODGERS

. . . 155-Pound Cuban Shortstop Outduels Wills In World Series Opener

Minneapolis—St Paul (AP)—The Minnesota Twins, stung by Dodger talk of a four-straight sweep, knocked out Don Drysdale in a six-run third inning Wednesday and rode to an 8-2 opening World Series victory over Los Angeles on Jim Grant's steady pitching.

A standing room crowd of 47,797, a record for Metropolitan Stadium, watched quietly while Ron Fairly's homer gave the Dodgers an early lead in the second and hummed when Don Mincher tied it in the same inning with a homer off Drysdale.

The big crowd went into a spin in the third when Drysdale the towering 23-game winner, was driven to cover. Before Howie Reed finally got the third out, 11 men had batted and the ball game was out of control.

Frank Quilici, a .208 hitter brought up from the Denver farm in July to fill an aching second base void, stroked a double and a single in the big inning. The feat tied a Series record that had been shared by 12 others.

With room to breathe and enjoy the clear sunshine, Grant marched along steadily as he had done all year while piling up 21 victories for the American League champions

Grant kept Maury Wills, the Dodgers' big running threat, off the bases until he singled in the seventh. The man who stole 94 bases in the season was completely stymied because there already was a runner on second Wills finally did drive in a run with a bunt single in the ninth

Versalles, who had vowed to run on Dodger pitching, got his chance in the sixth after he had driven in his fourth run with a single. Although the Dodgers called a pitchout, catcher John Roseboro's throw was on the wrong side of second, and Zoilo slid in safely.

Drysdale and Grant were locked at 1-1 when Quilici rapped a double past third base down the left field line leading off the big third. Then came a bad break for Drysdale and the Dodgers

Grant bunted back to the box and Drysdale slipped and fell. He threw to first from a sitting position but Jim Lefebvre, covering the bag, juggled the throw for an error

Earl Battey dunked a two-run single into short right and, when Quilici followed with his second hit, a single that scored Mincher, Drysdale was done Only two of the runs were earned but they all counted

With no pressure on his back Grant rolled home easily although he gave up 10 hits. All were singles, except Fairly's home run into the right field bleachers in the second. That was quickly matched by Mincher's 400-footer deep into the same section in the same inning. Then came the big third, and it was all over.

Minnesota picked up its extra run in the sixth on Grant's double down the third base line to the left field corner and Versalles' single to center

Leading 1-0 on the home grounds, Manager Sam Mele planned to come right back with Jim Kaat, the 18-game winning southpaw who was the second-best performer on his staff.

Sandy Koufax, the 26-game Dodger ace who missed the opener because he was observing Yom Kippur, the most solemn day on the Jewish calendar, will be back to try to square matters for Manager Walter Alston

Kelly Assumes Students Can Identify A Pigskin

. . . IN NEW LADIES' FOOTBALL CLASS

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

There was a lot of speculation Wednesday night that the first statement from University of Nebraska defensive line coach George Kelly would be. "This is a football"

But it wasn't.

He assumed that ladies in the Adult High School "football as a spectator sport" class would know that much

He said he was going to assume they didn't know anything else

But he didn't do that either, and consequently he was kept busy throughout the evening running to the blackboard to catch up on points he had passed over such as "end zone" and "punt."

The first Lincoln venture in giving women what Adult High Principal Jim Lightbody described as an 'entertaining and educational course" in how to watch a football game without having to ask a lot of questions proved attractive to some 75 women despite the $5 fee

While the first session's teacher, George Kelly, speculated that some were "forced to attend by their husbands" or "tired of being left out of the conversation Saturday night after the game," other women revealed they were wives of coaches and needed to be as well versed on the subject as their friends thought they should be

Six different coaches, looking forward to the experience of teaching women with a "great deal of curiosity," will lead the six sessions covering offensive and defensive patterns, scouting and recruitment, injuries and their prevention, player evaluation and officiating.

The defensive coach added that the staff had "taken a lot of kidding about this class"

Kelly declared he "felt silly" telling the women, ranging from young to middle aged about the field But that's where the first question was 'What's a hash mark line?" They learned it's a short mark about 17 yards inside the boundary

When the evening's discussion nearly bogged down on a certain subject (once it was over the "toss of the coin"), Coach Kelly exhibited more patience than some of the students. — tirelessly repeating explanations with, "Yes dear, but . . "

Only once he had to plead with the women 'Can I please do it my way"

The class was long into the two-hour session before the kick-off was discussed, but Kelly did have praise for the "valid questions" and suggested wives could quiz their husbands on some points

On other subjects and in a large part of the repetition, the teacher-coach resorted to simple terms of "enemy," "poles," "chances" and full names like "Anthony Jeter."

Nevertheless, the ladies expressed a great deal of familiarity with Nebraska games, even though they might not have understood what was going on And at times they appeared more edept at creating hypothetical situations than the coaches.

The NU defensive line coach kept the ladies giggling while explaining "points where coaches get fired," moods of alumni" and the 'God-given talent which officials must have to see the vertical plane or imaginary line of the goal"

Although the instructor meant to "keep to the basic rudiments of the game," the women did learn that the receiving team in a kick-off can kick it back at the other team, that "you never see a plain T formation anymore," and that there is "no kings X."

Perhaps the statement from a frequent inquirer which came late in the session best illustrates the task five other Nebraska coaches have facing them

Oh, you watch who has the ball, and where they line up?"

VIRUS CONDITION HOSPITALIZES LANE

Columbia, Mo (AP)—Sophomore Gary Kombrink moved to quarterback on Missouri's offensive unit Wednesday, replacing Gary Lane, who was hospitalized with a virus ailment

Lane's status for the Kansas State game here Saturday is uncertain

—DECISION ON KIRKLAND'S STATUS THURSDAY—

Coleman Won't Play Against Badgers

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska defensive end Langston Coleman Wednesday was ruled out of the final non-conference game on the Husker schedule Saturday against Wisconsin and left halfback Ron Kirkland was put on the "extremely doubtful" list

Coleman was injured in the 44-0 win over Iowa State Saturday and his loss is particularly significant with the Huskers going against the pass-happy Badgers.

"Losing Coleman definitely hurts," NU coach Bob Devaney observed Wednesday "He was our best pass rusher and one of our best tacklers"

Coleman leads the Husker defensive linemen with 16 tackles "He played his best game since coming to Nebraska," Devaney said in discussing Coleman's performance against Iowa State "And he has had some good games for us so that's saying quite a bit"

Coleman has been one of the Huskers chief defensive weapons against passing quarterbacks and Wisconsin has one of the nation's best.

Badger quarterback Chuck Burt is the nation's third leading passer with 49 completions. He has passed 96 times for a 510 completion mark and 477 yards, including two touchdowns

Burt is the nation's leader in tossing the ball to opponents, also, with nine interceptions

Devaney also opined the loss of Kirkland for the Wisconsin game would be a blow

"Ron would be especially valuable because of the huge size of Wisconsin," Devaney noted. "He is one of our best power runners and he also is our best punter."

A possibility exists that Kirkland, a Wisconsin native, may be available for punting duties "We'll know that Thursday," Devaney said "If he's going to punt, he'll have to be able to work on his punting Thursday"

Another decision the NU coaching staff expects to make Thurday is the choice of a starting quarterback

Bob Churchich, who has started the last 11 Nebraska games after Fred Duda was injured against Iowa State a year ago, and Duda are battling this week for the starting berth.

Duda made his bid for the top job by leading the Huskers to the whopping win over Iowa State after the two teams had battled to a 0-0 tie through the first quarter with Churchich at the controls

'We'll decide Thursday which of them we'll start," Devaney said Wednesday The Husker coach said the rest of the NU offensive backfield will have Pete Tatman at left halfback, Harry Wilson at right half and Frank Solich at fullback.

The offensive line will be the same as in previous games except for Jim Osberg moving into Wayne Meylan's spot at guard "Osberg played better than Meylan against Iowa State and earned the right to start," Devaney said in making the switch

TWINS' HITTING STINGS DODGERS

. . . 155-Pound Cuban Shortstop Outduels Wills In World Series Opener

Minneapolis—St. Paul (AP)—The Minnesota Twins, stung by Dodger talk of a four-straight sweep, knocked out Don Drysdale in a six-run third inning Wednesday and rode to an 8-2 opening World Series victory over Los Angeles on Jim Grant's steady pitching.

Zoilo Versalles, a wiry 155-pound Cuban, stunned the favored Dodgers with a three-run homer off Drysdale, drove in a fourth run with a single in the sixth and stole second base on a pitchout.

A standing room crowd of 47,797, a record for Metropolitcan Stadium, watched quietly while Ron Fairly's homer gave the Dodgers an early lead in the second and hummed when Don Mincher tied it in the same inning with a homer off Drysdale.

The big crowd went into a spin in the third when Drysdale, the towering 23-game winner, was driven to cover. Before Howie Reed finally got the third out, 11 men had batted and the ball game was out of control.

Frank Quilici, a .208 hitter brought up from the Denver farm in July to fill an aching second base void, stroked a double and a single in the big inning. The feat tied a Series record that had been shared by 12 others.

With room to breathe and enjoy the clear sunshine, Grant marched along steadily as he had done all year while piling up 21 victories for the American League champions.

Grant kept Maury Wills, the Dodgers' big running threat, off the bases until he singled in the seventh. The man who stole 94 bases in the season was completely stymied because there already was a runner on second. Wills finally did drive in a run with a bunt single in the ninth.

Versalles, who had vowed to run on Dodger pitching, got his chance in the sixth after he had driven in his fourth run with a single. Although the Dodgers called a pitchout, catcher John Roseboro's throw was on the wrong side of second, and Zoilo slid in safely.

Drysdale and Grant were locked at 1-1 when Quilici rapped a double past third base down the left field line leading off the big third. Then came a bad break for Drysdale and the Dodgers.

Grant bunted back to the box and Drysdale slipped and fell. He threw to first from a sitting position but Jim Lefebvre, covering the bag, juggled the throw for an error.

Earl Battey dunked a two-run single into short right and, when Quilici followed with his second hit, a single that scored Mincher, Drysdale was done. Only two of the runs were earned but they all counted.

With no pressure on his back Grant rolled home easily although he gave up 10 hits. All were singles, except Fairly's home run into the right field bleachers in the second. That was quickly matched by Mincher's 400-footer deep into the same section in the same inning. Then came the big third, and it was all over.

Minnesota picked up its extra run in the sixth on Grant's double down the third base line to the left field corner and Versalles' single to center.

The bunt, peck and scramble Dodgers got a run in the ninth on singles by Lefebvre and Wes Parker and Wills' safe bunt up the first base line.

Leading 1-0 on the home grounds, Manager Sam Mele planned to come right back with Jim Kaat, the 18-game winning southpaw who was the second-best performer on his staff.

Sandy Koufax, the 26-game Dodger ace who missed the opener because he was observing Yom Kippur, the most solemn day on the Jewish calendar, will be back to try to square matters for Manager Walter Alston.

Kelly Assumes Students Can Identify A Pigskin

. . . IN NEW LADIES' FOOTBALL CLASS

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

There was a lot of speculation Wednesday night that the first statement from University of Nebraska defensive line coach George Kelly would be, "This is a football."

But it wasn't.

He assumed that ladies in the Adult High School "football as a spectator sport" class would know that much.

He said he was going to assume they didn't know anything else.

But he didn't do that either, and consequently he was kept busy throughout the evening running to the blackboard to catch up on points he had passed over such as "end zone" and "punt."

The first Lincoln venture in giving women what Adult High Principal Jim Lightbody described as an "entertaining and educational course" in how to watch a football game without having to ask a lot of questions proved attractive to some 75 women despite the $5 fee.

While the first session's teacher, George Kelly, speculated that some were "forced to attend by their husbands" or "tired of being left out of the conversation Saturday night after the game," other women revealed they were wives of coaches and needed to be as well versed on the subject as their friends thought they should be.

Six different coaches, looking forward to the experience of teaching women with a "great deal of curiosity," will lead the six sessions covering offensive and defensive patterns, scouting and recruitment, injuries and their prevention, player evaluation and officiating.

The defensive coach added that the staff had "taken a lot of kidding about this class."

Kelly declared he "felt silly" telling the women, ranging from young to middle aged, about the field. But that's where the first question was: "What's a hash mark line?" They learned it's a short mark about 17 yards inside the boundary.

When the evening's discussion nearly bogged down on a certain subject (once it was over the "toss of the coin"), Coach Kelly exhibited more patience than some of the students. — tirelessly repeating explanations with, "Yes dear, but . . ."

Only once he had to plead with the women, "Can I please do it my way."

The class was long into the two-hour session before the kick-off was discussed, but Kelly did have praise for the "valid questions" and suggested wives could quiz their husbands on some points.

On other subjects and in a large part of the repetition, the teacher-coach resorted to simple terms of "enemy," "poles," "chances" and full names like "Anthony Jeter."

Nevertheless, the ladies expressed a great deal of familiarity with Nebraska games, even though they might not have understood what was going on. And at times they appeared more edept at creating hypothetical situations than the coaches.

The NU defensive line coach kept the ladies giggling while explaining "points where coaches get fired," moods of alumni" and the "God-given talent which officials must have to see the vertical plane or imaginary line of the goal."

Although the instructor meant to "keep to the basic rudiments of the game," the women did learn that the receiving team in a kick-off can kick it back at the other team, that "you never see a plain T formation anymore," and that there is "no kings X."

Perhaps the statement from a frequent inquirer which came late in the session best illustrates the task five other Nebraska coaches have facing them:

"Oh, you watch who has the ball, and where they line up?"

—DECISION ON KIRKLAND'S STATUS THURSDAY—

Coleman Won't Play Against Badgers

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska defensive end Langston Coleman Wednesday was ruled out of the final nonconference game on the Husker schedule Saturday against Wisconsin and left halfback Ron Kirkland was put on the "extremely doubtful" list.

Coleman was injured in the 44-0 win over Iowa State Saturday and his loss is particularly significant with the Huskers going against the pass-happy Badgers.

"Losing Coleman definitely hurts," NU coach Bob Devaney observed Wednesday. "He was our best pass rusher and one of our best tacklers."

Coleman leads the Husker defensive linemen with 16 tackles. "He played his best game since coming to Nebraska," Devaney said in discussing Coleman's performance against Iowa State. "And he has had some good games for us so that's saying quite a bit."

Coleman has been one of the Huskers chief defensive weapons against passing quarterbacks and Wisconsin has one of the nation's best.

Badger quarterback Chuck Burt is the nation's third leading passer with 49 completions. He has passed 96 times for a .510 completion mark and 477 yards, including two touchdowns.

Burt is the nation's leader in tossing the ball to opponents, also, with nine interceptions.

Devaney also opined the loss of Kirkland for the Wisconsin game would be a blow.

"Ron would be especially valuable because of the huge size of Wisconsin," Devaney noted. "He is one of our best power runners and he also is our best punter."

A possibility exists that Kirkland, a Wisconsin native, may be available for punting duties. "We'll know that Thursday," Devaney said. "If he's going to punt, he'll have to be able to work on his punting Thursday."

Another decision the NU coaching staff expects to make Thurday is the choice of a starting quarterback.

Bob Churchich, who has started the last 11 Nebraska games after Fred Duda was injured against Iowa State a year ago, and Duda are battling this week for the starting berth.

Duda made his bid for the top job by leading the Huskers to the whopping win over Iowa State after the two teams had battled to a 0-0 tie through the first quarter with Churchich at the controls.

"We'll decide Thursday which of them we'll start," Devaney said Wednesday. The Husker coach said the rest of the NU offensive backfield will have Pete Tatman at left halfback, Harry Wilson at right half and Frank Solich at fullback.

The offensive line will be the same as in previous games except for Jim Osberg moving into Wayne Meylan's spot at guard. "Osberg played better than Meylan against Iowa State and earned the right to start," Devaney said in making the switch.

Solich 9th In Rushing

Nebraska's Frank Solich ranks ninth naitonally in rushing, according to statistics released Wednesday by the NCAA Service Bureau.

Solich has rushed for 294 yards while Missouri's Charlie Brown ranks 11th with 286 and William Harris of Colorado is 16th with 264.

Kansas State's Vic Castillo is 20th in passing with 33 completions in 78 attempts with seven interceptions. He has passed for 360 yards.

Freeman White of Nebraska ranks 23rd in pass receiving with 13 receptions for 197 yards and three touchdowns. NU's Larry Wachholtz is fourth in punt returns with 196 yards on 11 runbacks and Oklahoma State's Larry Elliott is eighth in kickoff returns with eight for 187 yards.

Bruhn Pleased With Offense

Madison, Wis. (AP)—Coach Milt Bruhn expressed pleasure with the progress of his offensive unit Wednesday as Wisconsin's football squad held its heaviest drill of the week in preparation for Saturday's game against second-ranked Nebraska.

Bruhn said he thought the offense, which has been the weak spot in the Badger forces, will be much improved against the Cornhuskers at Lincoln.

Bruhn said his left halfback position had been strengthened with defensive cornerback Tom Brigham working there part time in support of two speedy sophomores, Tom Schinke and Chuck Koch.

Starting wingback Gary Bandor was the only casualty of the two-hour session as he sprained a finger.

Spitball Controversy Gets Attention After First Game Of World Series

. . . 'MUDCAT' ADMITS SPITTING ON BALL

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP)—The illegal spitter pitch, long a bone of contention in baseball, came in for a thorough airing in Wednesday's first game of the World Series.

Some television viewers got the impression that Jim (Mudcat) Grant, the Minnesota Twins pitcher, was spitting into his glove before he threw.

Grant admitted he was spitting on the ball but only "to rub them up. I don't think you should throw a slick ball. But I'm not saying I don't throw a spitter.

"Besides I don't really think it makes any difference. I don't think any good hitter will let it bother him. Besides I wiped it off every time."

Maury Wills, the Dodgers shortstop, said flatly:

"He doesn't throw any spitballs. A spit ball pitcher has to be primarily a low ball pitcher and Grant isn't. He keeps 'em up. We know a spitball when we see one—he wasn't throwing any."

Manager Sam Mele of the Twins snorted:

"We got the impression that Don Drysdale (the Los Angeles Dodger pitcher) was using the spitter. If they can get away with it what the hell is the difference?

"I don't know if my guy throws one or not. Ball players in the other league all say Drysdale does, and my scouts reported the same. Our batters came back and said he was throwing it. So what?

"We called for the ball only once — when Sandy Valdespino was batting — but it was put back into play so it must have been alright."

Said Manager Walt Alston primly concerning both pitchers:

"I didn't notice any spitters."

No Despair In Dodger Camp After 8-2 Setback To Twins

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP) — The atmosphere was not exactly bubbling with joy but there was no air of despair in the Los Angeles Dodgers' dressing room following their 8-2 World Series loss to Minnesota Wednesday.

"We got 10 hits, they got 10 hits, but theirs came in a bunch and scored runs. Our's didn't," said a quiet-talking Dodger manager, Walter Alston.

Alston said perhaps he left his starter, Don Drysdale, in the game too long—or at least longer than he would some of his other pitchers.

"I thought Drysdale had good stuff, but his command was not so good, which is understandable since he hadn't pitched since last Thursday."

Had he "given up" when he brought in his ace relief hurler, Ron Perranoski, in the seventh and the Dodgers trailing, 8-1?

The query brought the only look of annoyance from Alston during the postgame discussion. "I never give up," he said coldly.

He explained that Perranoski needed the work, since he hadn't been on the mound since last Thursday.

"I thought the hit that really killed us, even after Zoila Versalles' home run was Earlo Battey's single into short right field.

"We were trailing, 4-1, and Batty's little hit made it 6-1."

"I'd just as soon Drysdale pitch to Battey, the seventh place hitter, as anyone," Alston said.

Some one pointed out that in 1959 the Dodgers lost the first game of the Series to the Chicago White Sox 11-0 and came back to win the championship.

Alston smiled at the recollection.

Drysdale took the loss calmly.

"I knew as soon as we won the pennant and were ready to play Minnesota that I couldn't afford to make any mistakes or we'd get killed," the big fellow said. "They've got a good ball club. We knew it going into the Series."

Drysdale said his trick knee slipped out of gear as he fielded Grant's bunt. He fell but managed to get the throw to Jim Lefebvre covering first. But the rookie juggled the ball, Grant was safe and the dam broke for Los Angeles.

"Don't blame Jimmy," Drysdale said. "I had to throw from a bad position and I shorthopped the throw."

Maury Wills, Versalles' opposite number in the base-stealing department, commented:

"I was glad to see him get the steal. To win the game, and entertain the fans, that's the reason for this game," said Wills.

Dunkel Picks Nebraska By 13; Longhorns By 20

By DICK DUNKEL

Bad news has hovered like a banshee over college football's best teams this year.

The season's barely started and only ten of the Top Fifty are undefeated and untied.

As for the Top Ten, they're on a grief alert this week. Only Texas, Notre Dame and Georgia have what look to be fairly easy assignments.

Here's the duty sheet. These are Index differences which national leaders have earned over their opponents of next Saturday. If they do better than this their ratings will rise, or vice versa.

Texas 20 over Oklahoma
Notre Dame 24 over Army
Arkansas 13 over Baylor
Mich. State 7 over Mich.
Georgia 28 over Clemson
Miss. St. 18 over S. Miss.
So. Calif. 9 over Wash'n
Nebraska 13 over Wis.
Purdue 13 over Iowa
Ala. 19 over Vanderbilt

The higher rating teams have won in 70.5% of the 520 games, not counting ties, covered here through last week.

Bruhn Pleased With Offense

Madison, Wis. (AP)—Coach Milt Bruhn expressed pleasure with the progress of his offensive unit Wednesday as Wisconsin's football squad held its heaviest drill of the week in preparation for Saturday's game against second-ranked Nebraska.

Bruhn said he thought the offense, which has been the weak spot in the Badger forces, will be much improved against the Cornhuskers at Lincoln.

Bruhn said his left halfback position had been strengthened with defensive cornerback Tom Brigham working there part time in support of two speedy sophomores, Tom Schinke and Chuck Koch.

Starting wingback Gary Bandor was the only casualty of the two-hour session as he sprained a finger.

Spitball Controversy Gets Attention After First Game Of World Series

. . . 'MUDCAT' ADMITS SPITTING ON BALL

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP)—The illegal spitter pitch, long a bone of contention in baseball, came in for a thorough airing in Wednesday's first game of the World Series.

Some television viewers got the impression that Jim (Mudcat) Grant, the Minnesota Twins pitcher, was spitting into his glove before he threw.

Grant admitted he was spitting on the ball but only "to rub them up. I don't think you should throw a slick ball. But I'm not saying I don't throw a spitter.

"Besides I don't really think it makes any difference. I don't think any good hitter will let it bother him. Besides I wiped it off every time."

Maury Wills, the Dodgers shortstop, said flatly:

"He doesn't throw any spitballs. A spit ball pitcher has to be primarily a low ball pitcher and Grant isn't. He keeps 'em up. We know a spitball when we see one—he wasn't throwing any."

Manager Sam Mele of the Twins snorted:

"We got the impression that Don Drysdale (the Los Angeles Dodger pitcher) was using the spitter. If they can get away with it what the hell is the difference?

"I don't know if my guy throws one or not. Ball players in the other league all say Drysdale does, and my scouts reported the same. Our batters came back and said he was throwing it. So what?

"We called for the ball only once — when Sandy Valdespino was batting — but it was put back into play so it must have been alright."

Said Manager Walt Alston primly concerning both pitchers:

No Despair In Dodger Camp After 8-2 Setback To Twins

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP)—The atmosphere was not exactly bubbling with joy but there was no air of despair in the Los Angeles Dodgers' dressing room following their 8-2 World Series loss to Minnesota Wednesday.

"We got 10 hits, they got 10 hits, but theirs came in a bunch and scored runs. Our's didn't," said a quiet-talking Dodger manager, Walter Alston.

Alston said perhaps he left his starter, Don Drysdale, in the game too long—or at least longer than he would some of his other pitchers.

"I thought Drysdale had good stuff, but his command was not so good, which is understandable since he hadn't pitched since last Thursday."

Had he "given up" when he brought in his ace relief hurler, Ron Perranoski, in the seventh and the Dodgers trailing, 8-1?

The query brought the only look of annoyance from Alston during the postgame discussion. "I never give up," he said coldly.

He explained that Perranoski needed the work, since he hadn't been on the mound since last Thursday.

"I thought the hit that really killed us, even after Zoila Versalles' home run was Earlo Battey's single into short right field.

"We were trailing, 4-1, and Batty's little hit made it 6-1."

"I'd just as soon Drysdale pitch to Battey, the seventh place hitter, as anyone," Alston said.

Some one pointed out that in 1959 the Dodgers lost the first game of the Series to the Chicago White Sox 11-0 and came back to win the championship.

Alston smiled at the recollection.

Drysdale took the loss calmly.

"I knew as soon as we won the pennant and were ready to play Minnesota that I couldn't afford to make any mistakes or we'd get killed," the big fellow said. "They've got a good ball club. We knew it going into the Series."

Drysdale said his trick knee slipped out of gear as he fielded Grant's bunt. He fell but managed to get the throw to Jim Lefebvre covering first. But the rookie juggled the ball, Grant was safe and the dam broke for Los Angeles.

"Don't blame Jimmy," Drysdale said. "I had to throw from a bad position and I shorthopped the throw."

The huge hometown crowd gave Versalles a mighty roar of applause when he stole second in the sixth inning.

Maury Wills, Versalles' opposite number in the base-stealing department, commented:

"I was glad to see him get the steal. To win the game, and entertain the fans, that's the reason for this game," said Wills.

"We'll be back tomorrow," was Johnson's parting promise.

Dodgers Draw Well

The Dodgers, in eight playing dates (9 games) against the Mets, drew 340,759 fans to New York's Shea Stadium this season.

Dunkel Picks Nebraska By 13; Longhorns By 20

By DICK DUNKEL

Bad news has hovered like a banshee over college football's best teams this year.

The season's barely started and only ten of the Top Fifty are undefeated and untied.

As for the Top Ten, they're on a grief alert this week. Only Texas, Notre Dame and Georgia have what look to be fairly easy assignments.

Here's the duty sheet. These are Index differences which national leaders have earned over their opponents of next Saturday. If they do better than this their ratings will rise, or vice versa.

Texas 20 over Oklahoma
Notre Dame 24 over Army
Arkansas 13 over Baylor
Mich. State 7 over Mich.
Georgia 28 over Clemson
Miss. St. 18 over S. Miss.
So. Calif. 9 over Wash'n
Nebraska 13 over Wis.
Purdue 13 over Iowa
Ala. 19 over Vanderbilt

The higher rating teams have won in 70.5% of the 520 games, not counting ties, covered here through last week.

Class A Preps Guard Against Upsets

. . . ALL LEADERS MEETING LESSER-RATED FOES

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

The top eight teams in this week's Class A top ten put their respective 4-0 or 3-1 records on the line against seven unranked teams and one member of the Class B top ten, David City Aquinas.

This sets the stage for one or more major upsets and the big problem for the leaders will be going into the game with the proper mental approach.

Boys Town, fresh from hard-earned wins over second-ranked Pius X and third-ranked Benson, meets Creighton Prep. Prep, rarely missing from any top ten list, is off to a slow start this year, having already lost to Bellevue and Westside.

The other pairings for the top eight include Pius X v. David City Aquinas, Benson v. Fremont, Norfolk v. Kearney, Bellevue v. Southeast, Westside v. South, Tech v. Bishop Ryan and Northeast v. Beatrice.

The ninth and tenth ranked teams, North Platte and Alliance, tangle at Alliance.

It will be the first major test for Bud Jasnoch's Alliance outfit, which has had Class B opposition in two of its first four wins.

The game is a "must" for North Platte as it seeks to earn a repeat trip to the Big Ten playoff. The Bulldogs have already been tripped by Kearney and must sweep the remainder of their games in the west division to harbor any hopes of hosting the November playoff.

North Platte failed to score in its first two starts, tying Southeast and losing to Kearney, but has rebounded with wins over Northeast and Hastings.

The week's top contests with selections in boldface type:

Southeast at Bellevue — Chieftains get the call on consistency, but upset is possible here.

Pius X at David City Aquinas (Saturday)—Monarchs always stubborn, but they'll be outclassed in this one.

Creighton Prep v. Boys Town (Thursday)—Cowboys could be ripe for upset, but Prep is in a sub-par campaign.

York at Crete (Saturday) — Bigger Dukes grind out a victory.

Class A Preps Guard Against Upsets

. . . ALL LEADERS MEETING LESSER-RATED FOES

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Coaches of the leading Class A football contenders will be guarding against the subtle intrusion of overconfidence as they send their clubs into action this week.

The top eight teams in this week's Class A top ten put their respective 4-0 or 3-1 records on the line against seven unranked teams and one member of the Class B top ten, David City Aquinas.

This sets the stage for one or more major upsets and the big problem for the leaders will be going into the game with the proper mental approach.

Boys Town, fresh from hard-earned wins over second-ranked Pius X and third-ranked Benson, meets Creighton Prep. Prep, rarely missing from any top ten list, is off to a slow start this year, having already lost to Bellevue and Westside.

The other pairings for the top eight include Pius X v. David City Aquinas, Benson v. Fremont, Norfolk v. Kearney, Bellevue v. Southeast, Westside v. South, Tech v. Bishop Ryan and Northeast v. Beatrice.

The ninth and tenth ranked teams, North Platte and Alliance, tangle at Alliance.

It will be the first major test for Bud Jasnoch's Alliance outfit, which has had Class B opposition in two of its first four wins.

The game is a "must" for North Platte as it seeks to earn a repeat trip to the Big Ten playoff. The Bulldogs have already been tripped by Kearney and must sweep the remainder of their games in the west division to harbor any hopes of hosting the November playoff.

North Platte failed to score in its first two starts, tying Southeast and losing to Kearney, but has rebounded with wins over Northeast and Hastings.

The week's top contests with selections in boldface type:

Beatrice at Northeast (Saturday)—Orangemen still unbeaten, but they haven't met anybody like Rockets.

Creighton Prep v. Boys Town (Thursday)—Cowboys could be ripe for upset, but Prep is in a sub-par campaign.

North Platte at Alliance—Redding's club has prepared in faster competition.

York at Crete (Saturday) — Bigger Dukes grind out a victory.

Oklahoma Man Claims Robbery; Suspect Is Held

Kearney (AP)—Buffalo County authorities Wednesday night were investigating the story of a Tulsa, Okla., man who claimed he had been robbed of $10 at gunpoint and forced out of the car of a man who had given him a ride.

County Atty. Andrew McMullen said that Earl T. Acklin told him he had met the motorist in Gothenburg. He said that the man had pulled a gun on him and forced him from his car at a point between the Elm Creek and Odessa interchanges on the Interstate Highway.

Sheriff Lloyd Frank said Wednesday night a man driving a car which apparently matched the description given by Acklin was picked up by Minden police. The sheriff said he planned to take the witness to Minden Thursday.

In the principal speech of the day, State Sen. K. L. Bowen of Red Cloud noted that the office of assessor is one of the most important in state government and the responsibilities of the assessors will grow as the tax base of the state narrows.

Senator Bowen defended the Legislature's passing of the income tax bill asserting that property can no longer bear the increasing burden of taxation. He said rural property owners, who in many instances have low incomes, have high property taxes.

Oklahoma Man Claims Robbery; Suspect Is Held

Kearney (AP)—Buffalo County authorities Wednesday night were investigating the story of a Tulsa, Okla., man who claimed he had been robbed of $10 at gunpoint and forced out of the car of a man who had given him a ride.

County Atty. Andrew McMullen said that Earl T. Acklin told him he had met the motorist in Gothenburg. He said that the man had pulled a gun on him and forced him from his car at a point between the Elm Creek and Odessa interchanges on the Interstate Highway.

Sheriff Lloyd Frank said Wednesday night a man driving a car which apparently matched the description given by Acklin was picked up by Minden police. The sheriff said he planned to take the witness to Minden Thursday.
